STALIN MOVES TO WIN AID OF FORMER FOES

Olive Branch Extended to Useful Part of Old Intelligentsia.

"IRON LIST" POLICY SUDDENLY REVERSED

Neutrals Are Now Encouraged to Assume Places in Socialist Scheme.

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

Moscow, July 7 (A.P.).—Through Joseph Stalin, Soviet Russia has set out to win over the remaining members of the old intelligentsia, at least that part of the former upper classes composed of specialists or technicians in business and industry.

For the first time since the revolution these representatives of a class which furnished many antipathetic elements to the government not only have been given a definite status in the Soviet state but have been invited by Stalin himself to take a larger part in socialistic development.

Subversive groups among the intelligentsia have been virtually destroyed, and Stalin foresaw a pronounced trend among those remaining to become more sympathetic and to cooperate more fully with the state.

Drops Iron Fist Policy.

He accordingly has decreed reversal of the iron-fisted policy which liquidated the opposing intelligentsia in favor of a course designed to show more consideration to those still remaining neutral and those wavering between hostility and sympathy. The new policy encourages such wavereers to participate to a larger extent in Soviet development.

The number of this class now in Russia is indeterminate, but is believed to be considerable.

Many of the intelligentsia, joining the revolution at the outset, became genuine proletarians. Those who actively opposed it were exiled or otherwise "punished."

Many held to neutrality, neither actively sympathizing with nor opposing the new regime. They were engineers, teachers and clerks. They continued to work at first under difficulties because they were labeled "declasse," the Soviet sign that they occupied no place in the state, and thus were deprived of many privileges and other facilities.

Discrimination Lessened.

Their very neutrality subjected them to suspicion because the Soviet rule is that Russians not with the government are against it.

In time the discriminations against them were diminished and they were allowed more privileges, paid higher salaries and given more important posts. As if in anticipation of Stalin's pronouncement, the government early this year appointed a commission to survey the condition of the intelligentsia. But those failing to become active supporters of the new regime still were permitted to work more or less on sufferance.

Under the new policy, neutrals are not only encouraged to assume places in the socialistic scheme and to develop themselves alongside the masses, but the government is making an effort to attract those who might still be wavering between sympathy and hostility.

The effect of the policy is not apparent yet but the first definite result is expected to be improvement in living conditions generally with a loosening of restrictions and a heightened moral effect on the class as a whole.

"It will be foolish and unwise to look upon every technician and engineer of the old school as an uncaught criminal and wrecker," said Stalin. "We want for our industry skilled persons, engineers, &c., but not every kind of them. We want only those who are able to understand the policy of the worker class and who would be able to execute that policy properly."

Bronx Beer Baron Beats Gun Charge

"Dutch" Schultz Holds Weapon Was Planted to Accuse Him.

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—The last charge on which police had been holding Arthur Flegenheimer, also known as "Dutch" Schultz, Bronx beer baron, collapsed today and he was released.

Schultz recently was acquitted of a charge that he tried to shoot Detective Stephen de Rosa, but was arrested on a firearms charge as he left court.

He charged they found a loaded shotgun in Schultz's car. His attorney today contended some one else had put it there without his client's knowledge and also that its possession did not violate a New York statute. Testimony also showed the car did not belong to Schultz, so he went free.

A month ago he was held in $75,000 bail on a Federal income tax dodging charge. The Government's case is still pending.

Patriarch Greets World With Pocketful of Shiny Dimes.

(Copyright, 1931, by United Press.)

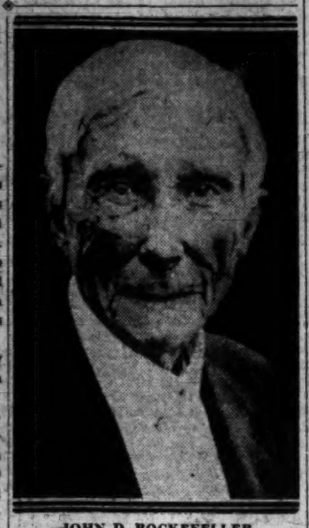
Tarrytown, N. Y., July 7 (U.P.).—John D. Rockefeller, sr., America's most famous man of wealth, enters his ninety-third year with the full conviction that he will live to be 100.

The wizened patriarch of Pocantico Hills will celebrate his ninety-second birthday anniversary tomorrow with all the formal simplicity that marks the daily round of his later years.

For John D. Rockefeller lives by rote—almost like a machine. Seldom does he alter his program.

The massive iron gates to his 8,000-acre estate are under double lock today and two guards stood at each portal. Two high steel fences, set 10 feet apart and crowned with barbed wire, skirt the manor. Inside the private police force—larger than the combined forces of both Tarrytown and North Tarrytown—patrols the vast domain over which John D. rules like a feudal king.

Tomorrow there will be a few extra trimmings at dinner, a birthday cake, and his children and grandchildren will be there. But save for that, the patriarch will adhere to his rule and order of life.



JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER.

MAN IS NEAR DEATH AFTER TRAFFIC ROW

Gunman Is Found Under Bed After Salvation Army Worker Is Wounded.

Shot through the abdomen by a Negro enraged over a parking argument, William Taylor, 59-year-old Salvation Army wagon driver, is in a critical condition at Casualty Hospital. The Negro, Robert E. Turner, 33, was arrested on First street near B street northwest, by Detective Sergt. Larry O'Dea and Capt. Carroll of the park police.

Taylor was rushed to the hospital in a police car responding to a radio call. Turner, whom Capt. Carroll had seen fleeing from the scene toward the First street address, where he is said to live, was hiding under a bed when the officers entered the house, but surrendered without resistance. A .25-caliber revolver was taken from him.

Police were told that Turner earlier in the day had engaged in an argument with Salvation Army officials because one of its trucks was alleged to have blocked the alley contiguous to the organization's headquarters.

Turner had demanded that the truck be moved so that he could go through the alley in a passenger car. The officials refused to do anything about the truck. They said Turner later drove his car into the truck, damaging it.

Just before the shooting Turner returned and asked for Capt. A. B. Silva, of the Salvation Army. Taylor was sitting on the steps of the headquarters at 102 B street. Turner addressed his question to him. An argument was said by police to have ensued and the shooting climaxed the altercation.

An operation was performed on Taylor late yesterday afternoon to remove the bullet, but whether its removal would turn the tide favorably in Taylor's fight for life physicians at Casualty Hospital were unable to say early last night.

Asa Keyes, in Prison 2 Years, Seeks Pardon

PARLEY SEEKS END OF TRIANGLE TRACK

Treasury and May, Owner of Railway, Confer on Ouster Terms.

Negotiations are under way between Treasury Department officials and R. L. May, owner of the Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Railway, which are expected to result in an amicable agreement that will permit the Federal Government to carry forward all its plans for razing the Mall Triangle before Congress reconvenes.

A conference was held yesterday afternoon, and another is scheduled for Monday. Ferry K. Heath, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, and his aids are seeking to effect an agreement with Mr. May and his chief counsel, Gardner Booth. William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel, was present at yesterday's session.

More than $15,000,000 worth of building construction have been blocked by the failure of District and Federal officials to arrange for the purchase of the railway last winter before the adjournment of Congress.

Because of the failure of the Public Utilities Commission to sanction a substitute route for the line in the heart of the business district, Mr. May has threatened to seek an injunction against the Federal Government if it sought to oust his railway from the Mall Triangle.

The Treasury Department originally set last April 1 for the date to start razing certain parts of the triangle area, and it was largely the presence of the Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington tracks that caused the postponement of this work.

It is understood that if an agreement is reached during the present negotiations a bill will be prepared for introduction in the next Congress to pay Mr. May for his equipment and rights to the amount of approximately $200,000. The measure will probably not specify what part of this the District government should be required to pay.

Mr. May is expected to abandon the railway if Congress agrees to the purchase price. The abandonment may be gradual, however, to permit the substitution of a bus service.

25 Persons Are Injured As Trolley Jumps Track

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—Twenty-five persons were injured, some seriously, when a Brooklyn trolley car left the rails late today, jumped the curb and crashed through the window of a drug store.

Some of the 45 persons in the car were hurled through windows. Among the injured were several persons who had been in telephone booths in the drug store, which were demolished as the trolley plowed sidewalk and was thrown 8 feet through them. One of the seriously injured is James Rosstater, a 70-year-old cripple, who was standing on the Plans for Wedding of Roumanian Princess Set Ceremony for July 26, With Former Queen Excluded; Couple Will Tour Country.

Bucharest, July 7 (A.P.).—The program for the wedding of Princess Ileana to Archduke Anton of Austria, covering the three days, July 24 to 26, was officially announced today.

Ceremonies will embrace only the circle of the royal family, but not including former Queen Helen.

The wedding will be solemnized at Pelesch Castle, near Sinaia. The following guests have been invited:

The former King and Queen of Greece, Grand Duchess Cyril and her daughter, Princess Yira; the Prince and Princess of Hohenzollern, the Prince of Leinigen, the Princesses of Hohenlohe, the Infante and Infanta of Spain, Princess Maschka, members of the former imperial house of Hapsburg, the Count of Guelf, the Baron of Ralberg, court officials, ministers of state, the presidents of the Chamber and Senate.

Also invited are former Regent Sarstianu, Marshals Presan and Averscu and others of the high state dignitaries.

The witnesses for Princess Ileana will be King Carol and the Prince of Hohenzollern; the bridegroom's witnesses will be his father, former Archduke Leopold Salvator, and the Count of Guelf.

On July 24 Ileana and Anton will receive congratulations and gifts at the Palace of Pelesch. A grand banquet and reception will be held July 25.

RHEEM IS SUED IN NOTE ACTION BY SWARTZELL

CREDITORS' HEARING IS ENDED ABRUPTLY

Three Trustees of Defunct Firm Are Also Named in Latest Suit.

Suit for unpaid balances of promissory notes which originally aggregated $270,000, yesterday was filed in District Supreme Court against Edmund D. Rheem and three trustees of bankrupt Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co., by John N. Swartzell, nephew of the president of the defunct firm.

Mr. Swartzell, who brought suit as assignee of his brother, Henry R. Swartzell, asked accounting of moneys paid on the notes and reinvested by Rheem. Both are nephews of Luther A. Swartzell, president of the company. Trustees Henry P. Blair, Michael M. Doyle and Julius I. Peyser were named in the action jointly with Rheem, executive vice president of the firm.

Meanwhile, creditors hearings which have been held over a period of months before Referee Fred J. Eden, came to an abrupt close yesterday when the referee unexpectedly declared an adjournment. He said additional examinations may be held in his private office under a section of the District code which permits subpeneing of third party witnesses.

Two Notes Negotiated.

In the suit filed yesterday against Rheem and the trustees, Henry R. Swartzell was said to have negotiated two notes, both dated May 1, 1925, one for $145,000 and the other for $125,000.

Payments on the larger note were to be made in $5,000 curtailments on the first day of each March, May, August, October and December of each year until paid. On the smaller note, $35,000 payments fell due on the first day of February, April, June, September and November.

As the payments were made, the suit declares, the funds were to be reinvested by Rheem. Swartzell is now seeking to have an accounting made to him of all these dealings.

He wants a receiver appointed to take over his transactions and asks that the courts award him a "money decree" against Rheem. The suit did not give any idea of the amount allegedly due Swartzell on the notes, or on the money that Rheem invested for him with curtailments.

Adjournment of the creditors' hearings came after George E. Sullivan, attorney for a group of creditors, said he could conclude his examination under the special section. The ruling was made over protest of Attorney Marcus Borchardt, who asked that only a recess be taken.

Hold Hearing Today.

MEXICO ASKS PROBE OF TERM GIVEN CONSUL

Agent Freed on Serving Two Hours in Chicago Contempt Case.

STATE DEPARTMENT LAUNCHES INQUIRY

Matter Is Regarded Serious, in View of Students' Recent Deaths.

Chicago, July 7 (A.P.).—Adolfo Dominguez, acting Mexican consul here, was released from the county jail late today on a writ of habeas corpus after he had served two hours of a six months' sentence for contempt of court, imposed by Municipal Judge Thomas Green.

He was released on his own recognizance on a writ issued by Judge Joseph Burke in superior court.

Already, though, attaches of his office had appealed to the Mexican Embassy in Washington and had received word that the matter had been presented to the State Department with a plea for the acting consul's release. Government officials here professed to have heard nothing officially of the matter.

Consulate Criticized by Court.

Dominguez was sentenced for contempt after, Judge Green said, he had refused to sit down and remain silent while the judge was hearing a case.

Previously five Mexican idlers had been arraigned, three for carrying pistols. Another had told Judge Green he had no money, no home, and no friends here and had to sleep in alleys.

"We are having trouble with Mexican idlers who are not properly supervised," Judge Green said. "The Mexican consulate should do some constructive work in Chicago and not allow its subjects to be a burden to our city."

After Judge Green had called another case, Dominguez stepped forward and asked to be heard, court attaches said. "I am hearing another case and don't want to hear you," Judge Green told the acting consul.

Protests Jurist's Remark.

Judge Green declared that Dominguez refused to stop talking, protesting against the jurist's statement.

The contempt sentence followed. Dominguez was accused specifically in the commitment papers of "boisterous and improper actions and using abusive language."

Judge Burke in issuing the writ of habeas corpus said the superior court would review Judge Green's jurisdiction in the case.

Dominguez is acting consul during the absence of Consul Rafael Aveleyra in Mexico City.

(United Press.)

What was regarded as a serious question of international courtesy between the United States and its Southern neighbor sprang up yesterday when a Chicago judge sent a Mexican acting consul to jail for six months.

The State Department went into action immediately with a telegram to Gov. Louis L. Emmerson of Illi-

Nonstop World Flight Visioned by Bingham

Senator Asserts Project Is Feasible But He Does Not Foresee Attempt in Near Future; Cost Would be Very Large.

(United Press.)

A nonstop airplane flight around the world is now a feasible undertaking, according to the opinion expressed yesterday by Senator Hiram Bingham, World War flier and president of the National Aeronautical Association. Senator Bingham's opinion came out during a discussion of the results of the world flight of Wiley Post and Harold Gatty.

The senator pointed out that he is not predicting that such a nonstop flight will be made in the near future, nor was he advocating that any one undertake it. "But," he added, "it is possible."

As a matter of fact, Senator Bingham revealed, the idea has been given serious consideration by some aviators who would like to make the attempt. So far, however, no one has come forward with the financial backing which would be required.

Senator Bingham explained a nonstop flight would be tremendously expensive. It would necessitate the establishment of a series of refueling stations girdling the globe. At each station there would have to be experienced fliers and planes trained to work with the crew of the round-the-world plane in making refueling contacts in the air.

The plane itself would have to be considerably more commodious than those usually used for distance flights, Bingham pointed out, expressing the view that it would need a crew of at least four men; two pilots and two navigators so one crew might sleep while the other carried on.

With a plane and auxiliary equipment such as he visualized, Bingham said, the Globe might be circled by air in five days, as compared with the record of 8 days, 15 hours and 50 minutes set by Post and Gatty.

While Post and Gatty spent only 4 days, 12 hours and 6 minutes actually in the air, Bingham said that does not mean a nonstop flight could be made in that flying time. Post and Gatty maintained an average speed of about 145 miles per hour but refulling is impracticable if not impossible at such speed. However, by having the refueling planes fly along the course of the possible nonstop fliers of the future the delays no replacements of parts save a few spark plugs. That is believed to demonstrate that present airplanes have reached the stage of durability where they could stand the terrific strain involved in a flight such as suggested.

Planes have remained continuously in the air much longer than would be required to make the 15,128 flight of Post and Gatty. The Hunter brothers at Chicago last year set a record by remaining aloft for 553 hours, only to have that mark eclipsed a few weeks later by Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine, who flew for 647 hours and 28 minutes, or nearly six times the flying time of Post and Gatty.

F. C. Hall, of Oklahoma, who backed the Post-Gatty venture, is reported to have spent about $100,000 to make their flight possible. That figure was mentioned today to give some indication of the much greater cost of a nonstop flight involving a string of refueling stations circling the earth and a large corps of highly trained fliers and also planes.

BANKS AND INDUSTRIES OF GERMANY UNITE AS GUARANTORS OF LOANS

Hoover Seeks to Lift Nations' Arms Burden

Plans to Urge Foreign Governments, Through Stimson, to Reduce Costs, Thereby Relieving Economic Tension; Debt Scaling Predicted.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

The "now it can be told" stage having arrived, Acting Secretary of State William R. Castle, jr., revealed yesterday some of the events that led up to President Hoover's proposal for a one-year moratorium on intergovernmental war debts, a proposal which finally has been translated into an actual all-around agreement.

Acting Secretary Castle disclosed that at one time President Hoover was considering a possible reopening of the question of the capacity of nations to pay, to see whether there should not be a scaling down of all intergovernmental obligations, German reparations and European war debts to the United States, as well.

What the President had in mind was not a permanent scaling down, but a scaling down for the period of the depression.

While Mr. Castle did not say so, the fact of the matter is that there are high officers in the administration who think that a reopening of the debt question is bound to come to pass, anyway.

President Hoover, having put in a gruelling three weeks of it on his debt proposal, yesterday took a day off and went to the Griffith Stadium to witness the baseball game between the Washington and Philadelphia Teams.

Henceforth, it is agreed, the President not only will watch the effect of his debt holiday plan on the world's economic system but will watch its effect on the movement for disarmament among the nations.

Three times in as many months now the President has appealed to Europe to cut down on its armaments, pointing out that the cost of these armaments was contributing largely to the depression. He voiced this appeal in his speech before the

M'DONALD RENEWS CONFERENCE PLEA

Early Meeting of Powers to Arrange Holiday Details Is Urged.

London, July 7 (A.P.).—A renewed invitation to a conference in London of the powers chiefly concerned in the operation of the Hoover moratorium plans was issued today by Prime Minister MacDonald.

Mr. MacDonald did not specify the date of the conference nor its exact composition, but Paris advices late tonight said the British Ambassador there had informed the French government the meeting was planned for next week and would be a conference of experts rather than political leaders.

Speaking before the House of Commons, the prime minister recalled that the British government last week proposed such a conference to France and the United States "in order to hasten agreement over the Hoover proposal."

Both governments, the prime minister said, expressed their willingness to attend such a meeting.

"If direct negotiations have now resulted in an agreement in principle between the United States and France," Mr. MacDonald continued, "they have left open several important points which will need to be discussed between the governments chiefly concerned.

"His majesty's government is accordingly renewing its invitation for a conference in London."

In financial and other well informed circles in London it was felt that two of the chief "important points" to which Mr. MacDonald referred were the questions of the guarantee fund and of payments in kind.

In them alone, it was felt, there was sufficient subject for diplomatic debate to keep the negotiators busy for weeks.

Wherever the subject was discussed in London tonight the idea was expressed that the Paris settlement had cleared the whole international atmosphere and that the reparations discussions would now be carried on in a new spirit of enthusiasm. The Franco-American accord was accepted as having plotted a totally different course from that which the reparations discussions would have taken

DEBT EXPERTS SET MEETING IN LONDON

Moratorium Accord Passes to Second Stage; Work Begins Next Week.

Paris, July 7 (A.P.).—The Franco-American agreement for economic relief to Germany reached its second stage tonight, with the announcement that the committee of treasury experts, foreseen by the agreement, will meet next week in London.

At the same time the part of the United States in sponsoring a moratorium was virtually ended. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon left Paris for a two-week holiday on the Riviera to rest after the twelve days and nights of arduous negotiations.

The quick action in deciding on the experts' meeting made a good impression here. The French government renounced its wish to have the conference at Paris, in deference to the invitation of the British government that it be held in London.

The fact that Parliament is sitting in London and that the state of health of the British chancellor of the exchequer, Philip Snowden, would not permit him to cross the Channel, if he were needed, were advanced as reasons why London was chosen.

The experts committee will examine the three questions left tentative by the Franco-American accord. These are the question of a French guarantee to the World Bank for International Settlements, in case of a Young plan moratorium, the question of payments in kind and that of common action by central banks for the help of other central European countries.

As a whole, the French people view pleasantly the outcome of the negotiations, but on every side, and especially in the financial papers, it is specified that the maximum benefit from the Hoover plan now depends on Germany. Paris feels that international confidence in Germany's political wisdom is necessary before the breach in the German market can be limited or remedied.

Officialdom here was already turning its attention tonight from reparations to disarmament, and preparing for the visit next week of Secretary of State Stimson. This issue, greatest of all national issues in France, will undoubtedly be unofficially discussed during Stimson's visit, with the

Longing for Home in West Blamed as Boy Disappears

CARL BRU

Clarendon Youth, Missing 2 Days, May Be Headed for California.

A longing for the old familiar haunts of his boyhood days in California is believed to have induced 13-year-old Carl Brumback, jr., to leave his home in Clarendon and take to the open road.

The blond-haired blue-eyed youth, who has been homesick ever since he moved to Clarendon from Los Angeles with his parents last fall, was seen on the Lee Highway in Arlington County shortly after his disappearance early Monday.

He was wearing tan knickers, tan shoes and socks and a white sport shirt, and was carrying a black traveling bag. Police in Virginia have been asked to look out for the youth.

According to his mother, Mrs. C. V. Brumback, the boy often expressed a desire to return to California and told a number of his playmates he was headed for Los Angeles. He weighs about 110 pounds.

BEQUEST EXPECTED TO REACH $125,000,000

Deposit $125,000,000 as Pledge in Gold Discount Bank.

WILL BE PROTECTION TO FOREIGN LENDERS

Government Warns Nation That It Must Continue Its Economy Regime.

Berlin, July 7 (A.P.).—Germany's united forces of finance and industry, represented by 1,000 of the largest banks and industrial concerns of the country, tonight made public their readiness to stand or fall together as guarantors of German credit abroad. Their announcement was made through Reichsbank President Luther.

The banks and industries which are throwing their united weight behind the move to make President Hoover's plan quickly effective include the German dye trust, the German potash syndicate, the great Siemens and A. E. G. electrical concerns, the North German Lloyd and Hamburg-American steamship lines and all the larger German banks.

Expressed in the simplest terms, the Associated German Industries are depositing with the German Gold Discount Bank their note for $125,000,000. This credit may be used as a guarantee when and as necessary for commercial loans to Germany.

Strong Assurance Given Leaders.

The money actually will be loaned from abroad, but the difference will be that the foreign lenders will have the assurance that their loans are secured by the whole industrial and financial strength of the nation instead of by the credit of an individual firm.

The immediate effect of tonight's announcement is expected to be a reversal of the disturbing demand for foreign currencies which has persisted during the last few days due to foreign banks calling short-term loans to individual German banks or concerns.

During the protracted negotiations over the Hoover plan this drain became critical and industrial and financial leaders, with Reichsbank officials, determined not to wait for ultimate results from the Hoover plan, but to throw their weight in favor of restoration of confidence.

The chief purpose of the syndicated guarantee is to restore confidence abroad in Germany's ability to come back financially and industrially, now that President Hoover's plan seems assured of going into effect.

"Move In Germany's Answer."

"The Hoover plan was a great saving impetus from the United States," President Luther said in announcing the plans. "The syndicate move is Germany's answer, the country's definite assurance that the whole nation's economic strength will be put to the Hoover wheel."

President Luther called the members of the German and foreign press to his office for a midnight conference to make the announcement.

Such a step is without precedent. After a brief prefatory explanation he read a letter in which the 1,000 industrial, financial and shipping organizations explained how and why they had concluded the announcements, declaring that the proposal of President Hoover had "revealed to the world the great seriousness of Germany's situation."

"We hope now that the signing of the pact by all the powers concerned," they said, "will furnish the basis for a sure, even though difficult, restoration.

Restoring Confidence Is Goal.

"Our goal, meanwhile, must be to restore confidence in Germany and also the confidence of Germans."

The German government today pledged its word that the money made available by the Hoover war debt plan will be used solely for the purpose of bringing about consolidation of the nation's finances.

"Whatever alleviation may come to the credit and money market must redound to the benefit of Germany's business and economy," the government said in an official proclamation.

The proclamation paid warm tribute to President Hoover and bore witness to the feeling of "spiritual relief and hope for improvement in the nation's economic life" induced by the certainty of a year's reparations holiday.

The nation was warned in the government statement that it must be unremitting in its efforts to economize. No increase in the expenditures of any government department will be tolerated, it said.

President Paul von Hindenburg sent a message to President Hoover of the gratitude of the German people and of their hope for a new era of peaceful and trustful cooperation.

Germany recalls that this is the second time Mr. Hoover had come to her rescue. In 1918, after the armistice had been declared, vast quantities of foodstuffs were accumulated in the allied countries. Mr. Hoover tried to have this food released for blockaded and starving Germany. Four months passed before the allies permitted the food to be turned over to Germany.

The boerse breathed easier again today, but did not indulge in any such jubilation as on the day the Hoover plan was first announced. In the fortnight since that announcement the situation became so serious that today's relief came at the last minute of the eleventh hour.

Heavy Drain on Credit.

Within the last four or five weeks Germany has been compelled to pay back about 2,000,000,000 marks (approximately $800,000,000) credits in gold and foreign exchanges.

Foreign Minister Dietrich, in a statement today supplementing the government's proclamation, figured the drain on Germany's economic system in the last nine months at 3,000,000,000 to 4,000,000,000 marks (roughly $1,000,000,000) which he said was mostly due to the refunding of short-term credits.

He pointed out that since the country had stood this enormous drain without collapsing—although it was touch and go—it was rather fine testimony to the basic soundness of Germany's economic position.

Discordant Note Heard.

A discordant note amid the chorus of acclamation was sounded by the Nationalist and National Socialist papers today. These claimed to see in the Hoover plan, as it stands today, no real relief for Germany.

Alfred Hugenberg, Nationalist leader, complained that the reparations debt is not abated and that more interest must be paid on the accommodation which the plan offers. Reparations plus interest, he said, is "wholly impossible."

Other organs of the right were apprehensive about France's intention and predicted that she would raise difficulties when the experts meet. Doubt was also expressed about France's insistence upon "more security."

The Deutsche Zeitung characterized President Hoover as "kowtowing" to France and the Deutsche Tageszeitung calls it "a problematical year of respite."

Robinson Urges Tariff Revision

Debt Moratorium Assured, Senator Seeks Hoover's Aid for Reduction.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, said yesterday that now "the deeper wrinkles of President Hoover's moratorium have been ironed out," the Chief Executive should seek a revision of the tariff.

In a statement through the Democratic national committee the Arkansas Senate leader said the President's announcement of agreement upon the moratorium stressed the psychological effect of the plan "in the swinging of men's minds from fear to confidence."

"An announcement from him that the worst exactions of the Grundy tariff would be corrected with his aid and countenance," Robinson said, "would give the same comfort to his own countrymen that his reparations moratorium was expected to give to the staggering nations of Europe."

Congress to Favor Plan Of Hoover, Tilson Says

Los Angeles, July 7 (A.P.).—Representative John Q. Tilson, of Connecticut, Republican floor leader in the House, today said he believed President Hoover had "sufficient support" in Congress to insure approval of the debt moratorium plan when that body convenes in December.

Tilson said President Hoover had taken a great step toward greater world prosperity in fostering the world holiday of war debts.

The Congress member arrived here today at the end of a transcontinental tour. With him are his wife, his son, John, jr., and his two daughters, Peggy and Katherine.

Mellon and Son Leave For Visit at Riviera

Paris, July 7 (A.P.).—Secretary Andrew W. Mellon and his son, Paul, left this evening for the French Riviera. They reached the railway station at the last minute, almost missing their train.

Somebody asked him if he wouldn't say a last word about the happy ending of the debt negotiations. "There is never a last word," he replied. He plans to spend a fortnight at Cape Ferrat.

German Police Stop Treaty Demonstration

Koenigsberg, Germany, July 7 (A.P.).—Excited students congregated in the square facing the university here today in a demonstration against the Versailles treaty. Police cleared the square with blackjacks, arresting four persons, but crowds remained in the side streets.

University authorities had forbidden the demonstration with a warning that at least three months in jail awaited violators.

STIMSON AND DUCE CONFER TOMORROW

Secretary of State Lands in Italy Greatly Cheered by Debt Accord.

Naples, July 7 (A.P.).—Henry L. Stimson, American Secretary of State, who has elected the rolo of "tourist with no brass bands," landed here today to begin his circuit of European capitals for discussions of disarmament and economic reconstruction.

The Secretary forgot matters of state for a while after his vessel docked and, like any proper tourist, went with Mrs. Stimson to Pompeii, Vesuvius and Analfi. His talks with Premier Mussolini and Foreign Minister Dino Grandi have been arranged for Thursday.

The foreign minister already has said that Mr. Stimson and Mussilini have much the same views on the problems they will discuss, and so there may be no exhaustive conversations.

The announcement of the Franco-American accord in Paris provided an auspicious setting for the arrival of the Secretary of State. He expressed much pleasure and great hope of good results, but emphasized that he would not comment publicly on anything political.

He insisted, in fact, that there was no political mission tied up in his "tourist tour," but at Palermo yesterday he said he expected to make observations and form conclusions during his visits to Rome, Paris, Berlin and London.

An amusing incident marked his arrival. To newspapermen who met him aboard the Conte Grande he spoke of his great joy on reaching Italy, praised the Bay of Naples and referred to Signor Grandi as "your minister for foreign affairs."

His hearers reminded him he was addressing his own fellow countrymen. Thereupon he looked about for Italian reporters and continued his talk.

HOOVER PLAN HAILED AS DISARMING BOON

European Capitals Change Attitudes Toward Parley Debt Anxieties End.

(United Press.)

The international crusade for limitation of world armaments was advanced last night with the removal of President Hoover's debt holiday plan from the hands of diplomats to a committee of financial experts, entrusted with making it effective.

At the same time, Secretary of State Henry L Stimson arrived in Italy to begin conversations with the various government leaders, chiefly in regard to preparations for the 1932 world disarmament conference at Geneva.

A survey of European capitals by the United Press indicated the significance of the disarmament preparations as an immediate sequel to the debt holiday plan, both moves being designed for progress toward economic recovery of the world. It also showed that international sentiment has changed recently to improve the chances of success of the Geneva conference.

Disarming Move Aided.

Paris, July 7 (U.P.).—The accepted plan for a one-year war debt holiday was described by the press tonight as one of the surest guarantees of reduction of military expenditures in the future.

The present year is regarded as a "sample year" for armaments budgets. The nations which are deprived of reparations payments may be compelled to make the best of their present expenditure and future budgets are considered almost certain to fix within reasonable limits the sums spent on defense.

Berlin, July 7 (U.P.).—German interest turned toward disarmament problems again today as a result of the debt plan accord.

Officials have declared that Germany will "go as far as the rest of Europe" toward reduction, and it is expected that the question will be studied during the forthcoming visits here of Prime Minister MacDonald, of Britain; Premier Pierre Laval, of France, and Secretary Stimson.

Italy Is Sympathetic.

Rome, July 7 (U.P.).—Italy will be sympathetic to preparations for success of the 1932 world disarmament conference and probably will be ready to go beyond already announced concessions as a means of alleviating Europe's economic difficulties by reduction of arms budgets.

It was learned the Italian viewpoint has been fully explained to Ambassador Garrett and will be elaborated during the visit of Secretary Stimson, starting tomorrow.

London, July 7 (U.P.).—The British government repeatedly has taken the lead in efforts to prepare for success of the world disarmament conference, although it was reiterated today that the government will make no further reductions of armed forces until a limitations treaty is effective.

The government contends Britain already has reduced more than any other nation in an effort to set an example for the world powers.

Geneva Sees New Outlook.

Geneva, July 7 (U.P.).—Acceptance of President Hoover's debt plan was said by League of Nations officials to have "completely changed" the outlook for disarmament.

It was pointed out that there was a hostile atmosphere over the disarmament preparations earlier this year, especially at the January and May council meetings when it was impossible to make progress toward reconciliation of the opposition viewpoints as to methods of limitation.

Although officials said it was too early for any definite prediction as to progress this year, the September meeting of the league assembly may show an improved sentiment.

Colombia Hails Debt Accord.

Bogota, Colombia, July 7 (A.P.).—The Colombian press today expressed general enthusiasm over the approval of President Hoover's moratorium plan. The belief was expressed that because of it a larger agricultural market for Colombian products will be opened up in industrial nations.

German Maneuvers Dropped.

Berlin, July 7 (A.P.).—In line with its policy of economy, the government today notified the ministry of defense that no military maneuvers will be permitted this year because of the expense involved.

PRESIDENT AND OTHER NOTABLES SEE BALL GAME

Harris & Ewing.

President Hoover had a front seat at yesterday's baseball game, which may or may not have been the reason Washington dropped a heartbreaker to the Philadelphia Athletics. The President has something of a reputation for witnessing the Nationals in defeat. Gov. Ritchie of Maryland also was at the game. Left to right—Ogden L. Mills, Acting Secretary of the Treasury; Mrs. Hoover, William R. Castle, Acting Secretary of State; President Hoover, and Hanford MacNider, United States Minister to Canada.

International Chamber of Commerce in his original proposal for a one-year holiday on debt payments and in his announcement of Friday that the proposal had been accepted.

The international spotlight now shifts from Secretary of the Treasury Mellon to Secretary of State Stimson. The venerable chief of the Treasury, having concluded nearly three weeks of negotiations in London and Paris, has fled to the restful Riviera. Secretary Stimson has landed in Naples and is about to begin disarmament talks with the foreign ministers of four European nations—Italy, France, Germany and Great Britain.

The nations will come together for a general disarmament conference in Geneva next February.

Reverting to the inside story of President Hoover's debt proposal, Acting Secretary Castle revealed that among the influential figures who took part in the prologue were Frederic Sackett, Ambassador to Germany; Charles G. Dawes, Ambassador to Great Britain and author of the Dawes reparations plan; Owen D. Young, author of the Young reparations plan and considered a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President; Parker Gilbert, who for five years was agent general in Berlin under the Dawes plan, and George Leslie Harrison, governor of the New York Federal Reserve Bank. In addition, of course, there were the members of the Cabinet and other Government officials.

Learned of Tense Situation.

As far back as May 1, Acting Secretary Castle revealed, President Hoover realized that something had to be done to improve the world economic situation. He saw that it was going from bad to worse.

About the time that the International Chamber of Commerce was meeting here, Ambassador Sackett arrived in Washington from Berlin. He arrived May 6. He talked to President Hoover and pictured to him the deplorable conditions in Germany and Austria. This strengthened the President's conviction that something ought to be done.

The President, at this point, called upon the State Department and the Department of Commerce to turn over to him full information on the financial and economic conditions in the different countries. The President was providing himself with background.

Conferred With Stimson.

On or about May 11, the President called Secretary of State Stimson in for a conference. They discussed some of the possible steps that might be taken and, has been said, one idea that was entertained was for a scaling down of Germany's tremendous reparations bill to the allied countries and a scaling down at the same time of the $11,000,000,000 war debt that the allied countries owe the United States.

At this time, the foreign ministers of Europe were meeting at Geneva, trying to find some solution of an economic situation that was fast approaching a crisis. The President and Secretary Stimson thought it would be unwise to do anything while this conference was on.

Worked Out Concrete Plan.

When the foreign ministers broke up their conference in Geneva without having achieved any real results, the President concluded that it was up to him to do something concrete. Also he concluded that whatever he did would have to be drastic and sweeping. On June 2 the President had both Ambassador Sackett and Ambassador Dawes at the White House and the problem was gone over at length. But this time the situation in Germany was getting worse.

Three days later, June 5, President Hoover had worked out in his own mind the plan which he was to make public on June 20, a plan that was to electrify the world.

Having worked it out, he called in Secretary Stimson and Secretary Mellon and talked it over with them.

On June 8 he laid his plan before the Cabinet and there was a lengthy discussion of it. The President, however, was not yet ready to act.

Asks Mellon to Get Data.

Secretary Mellon was sailing the next day for England to see his schoolboy son, and the President asked him to make a report to him on conditions after he had arrived in London and talked with the British ministers.

Meanwhile the President went ahead with his plan. He asked Secretary Stimson to talk to people who were well posted on the reparations question and to ascertain from them whether a one-year postponement of reparations payments would be possible on the Young plan.

On June 13, Secretary Stimson asked Owen D. Young, Parker Gilbert and George Leslie Harrison, of New York Federal Reserve Bank, to come to Washington. Upon their arrival, Secretary Stimson and Acting Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills talked the President's plan over with them.

Conferred With Leaders.

When President Hoover made his Western speaking tour, he had his plan very much in mind. In Indianapolis he again talked it over with Ambassador Dawes, who happened to be in the city, and he also discussed it with Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, and Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader of the Senate.

Upon his return to Washington on June 17, President Hoover began calling in senators, Democratic as well as Republican, who were in the city. He talked to Senators Glass (Democrat), of Virginia; Walsh (Democrat), of Montana; Harrison (Democrat), of Mississippi; Glenn (Republican), of Illinois; Reed (Republican), of Pennsylvania, and various others.

On June 18 reports from Germany said that the situation was critical—that the Reichsbank might collapse at any moment. If anything was to be done, the President realized, it would have to be done immediately. Therefore, he directed Secretary Stimson to call in the ambassadors and the ministers of countries that would be affected and sound them out. Ambassador Claudel, of France, was the first to be consulted.

Crisis Forced Announcement.

Secretary Stimson began conferring with the envoys on June 19, and that same day, a Friday, President Hoover announced that he was about to take steps to improve the situation in Europe, particularly the situation in Germany.

The President had planned to hold up his announcement for a day or so, but by this time the situation in Germany was so critical that he decided to make it public at once. Thus, late in the evening of Saturday, June 20, in the presence of some 50 newspapermen, he proclaimed his plan to the world.

Perhaps the most interesting document among those that have piled up in connection with the President's proposal, is a letter which was sent to him by President von Hindenburg, of Germany. Mr. Hoover had asked the venerable German leader to tell him just what the situation in his country was like.

The Hindenburg letter is said to be an amazing epistle, one that would certainly take a place in the history of diplomatic communications. The prospect is, however, that it will not be made public—at least, not for the time being.

The letter arrived after President Hoover had made public his proposal to save Germany.

"The Significance of the Postponement of Intergovernmental Debts" is the subject of an address which Mr. Castle will broadcast over the N. B. C. network tonight from 10 to 10:15 o'clock.

U. S. Envoy Uses Slang To Keep Talks Secret

Berlin, July 7 (A.P.).—Slang played an important part in the negotiations over President Hoover's war debt plan. It was used as a code.

United States Ambassador Frederic M. Sackett told about it today. He explained that during his frequent radiophone talks with Washington, he regularly indulged in slang expressions because he thought that was a safe method of guarding against the possibility of being understood by any listener-in.

"When queried about a certain phase of the negotiations, for instance, I rejoined, 'that doesn't amount to a hill o'beans,'" the ambassador said.

"Similarly, we used other slang phrases that would have been unintelligible to many people."

Prompt Pay Increases Urged to Aid Recovery

Geneva, July 7 (A.P.).—An immediate increase in all wages and salaries in the United States and other creditor countries is advocated as an emergency measure for the world economic crisis by the unclaimed wealth utilization committee of Geneva.

"The raising of wages following on progress in productive efficiency is complementary to such productive progress," says a committee report, "for increased productive efficiency, unaccompanied by a corresponding rise in the standard of living, will cause trade depression and unemployment."

ITALY TO APPROVE WAR DEBT ACCORD

Action Is Expected Today; Bruening Sends Thanks to Mussolini.

Rome, July 7 (A.P.).—The Italian government is expected to announce official approval tomorrow of the Franco-American war debt accord. A government spokesman said today that Italy accepted the agreement in the same spirit as it originally accepted the Hoover proposal—that is, whole-heartedly—and will be glad to do whatever is necessary to put the plan into effect. So far as Italy is concerned, the Hoover project already is in force. She notified her debtor and creditor countries to that effect some time ago.

Germany is sincerely grateful for President Hoover's war debt action, and for Italy's prompt and complete agreement, Chancellor Bruening said in a letter delivered today to Premier Mussolini.

The letter was presented to Mussolini by Orsini Baroni, Italian Ambassador to Berlin, who was received by the Premier and Foreign Minister Dino Grandi.

"The action of the President of the United States is completely in line with the high aims and energetic policy pursued for a long time by Italy under the guidance of the head of the government," the German chancellor wrote.

"The immediate adhesion of Italy to the Hoover proposal excited a profound echo throughout Germany and the lively satisfaction of the German people is so much the greater because they appreciate the sacrifice Italy has made by such adhesion."

Premier Mussolini gave the Ambassador a cordial answer to Chancellor Bruening.

Moratorium Indorsed By Business Leaders

(Associated Press.)

A resolution indorsing the reparations and war debts moratorium was adopted yesterday by the executive committee of the International Chamber of Commerce at Paris and communicated to Silas H. Strawn, chairman of the American committee.

The executive committee also recommended the formation of committees of experts to study intergovernmental debts in their relation to business, the silver question, the present Russian situation and practical steps to alleviate the world economic depression.

Argentina Welcomes Moratorium.

Buenos Aires, July 7 (A.P.).—The press here today generally expressed welcome for the Franco-American reparations moratorium accord, but the news had but slight effect in financial circles. The peso quotation fluctuated a point and one half during the day but closed the same as yesterday. There was little increase in trading on the stock exchange.

had they occurred before the Paris accord was reached.

The British government has given no indication regarding its views as to the date of composition of the proposed new conference.

The government is known to believe, however, that time is of incalculable value. It is therefore considered probable that no date could be too soon to please Great Britain.

Although the United States is not a signatory to the Young plan, on which the discussions must largely turn, it was said today that such a conference without Americans assisting as "observers" or in some other way was unthinkable.

British commentators asserted that in facing new negotiations—assuming always that such negotiations can be arranged—their country was in strong position.

Great Britain, it was pointed out, accepted the Hoover plan with all its implications from the first and its point of view on all details of the Young plan have been so clearly expressed by Chancellor of the Exchequer Snowden and others as to leave little room for doubt concerning it.

At the same time there was an almost unanimous feeling that Great Britain should prove herself no less willing to adopt an attitude of reasonableness than were the United States and France during the Paris negotiations.

It is expected that they probably will tell the Secretary France already has made disarmament moves, and is willing to go farther provided she is made secure from the danger of another war.

The visit of Secretary of State Stimson will be followed by that of the German chancellor and foreign minister, Heinrich Bruening and Julius Curtius, so that the outlook is that international politics will be kept to the fore for some time.

Horse, Cruelly Treated, Runs Away; Man Fined

A fine of $25 was assessed against Leo Earl Clark, Negro, in Police Court yesterday when police officers testified that his cruel treatment of a horse had caused the animal to run away. The officers, Sergt. E. Williams and Policeman Robert Strong, declared Clark had treated the horse in such a manner that its mouth was bleeding and there were a number of sores on its back.

The police testified the horse ran away from North Capitol and Massachusetts avenue and was not brought to a halt until it reached Seventh and F streets northwest. Its mad dash through the streets was witnessed by a large number of persons. The fine was levied by Judge Isaac R. Hitt.

LOST DAUPHIN'S SON HELD REARED IN U.S.

Woman's Story of Calhoun Taking Youth Meets With Doubt.

Clearwater, Fla., July 7 (A.P.).—The lost dauphin of France, son of the ill-fated Louis XVI and Marie Antoinette, was not a victim of the revolution, according to Mrs. Madeline Buchanan Gill, but escaped to Canada and had a son who was reared by John C. Calhoun.

The commonly accepted story is that the dauphin died in prison, but the version of Mrs. Gill, a social leader here, is based on documents of the late Princess de Montglyon, of Belgium, whose estate is now in litigation in Tampa.

Mrs. Gill said that after the beheading of Marie Antoinette in 1794, the dauphin was taken to Canada by the wife of the Duke of Orleans. She assumed the name of Mme. De Rion and the dauphin was called Henry De Rion.

As Henry De Rion, the dauphin joined the British army, married Margaret Hunter in 1827, and died the following year six months before the birth of his son, James Henry De Rion.

Canhoun, informed of the Dauphin's presence in Canada, later became guardian of his son.

The Dauphin's son grew to manhood with the Canhoun family in South Carolina as James Henry de Rion, married Mary Catherine Wier, at Harrisburg, Pa., December 11, 1851, and died in Winnsboro, S. C., in 1886. Mrs. Gill said one of his descendants, a woman whom she did not name, is still living in the United States.

Columbia, S. C., July 7 (A.P.).—The story that the lost Dauphin of France, son of Louis XVI, was smuggled to America and had a son who was reared by John C. Calhoun, was discounted today by A. S. Salley, secretary of the South Carolina Historical Commission. "The story is an old one," Mr. Salley said, "but there is no foundation for it."

Poison Rum Kills Man; Seller to Be Arrested

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., July 7.—A murder charge will be preferred against an unnamed person who sold poison liquor to Clarence Adams, 53, Adrian coal miner, Sheriff H. A. Zickefoose, of Upshur County, said this afternoon after a coroner's jury had reported that poison liquor had caused the death of Adams.

After drinking some of the liquor, Adams fell into a ditch near his home and expired last night. Sheriff Zickefoose said that an arrest in the case was expected shortly. Adams leaves two sons and a daughter.

CHADBOURNE TELLS COMPETITION PERILS

Author of Sugar-Control Plan Holds Debt Holiday Needs Other Measures.

University, Va., July 7 (A.P.).—Thomas Chadbourne, author of the Chadbourne plan for control of sugar production, said tonight that "President Hoover's suggested rest of one year for Germany is a step in the right direction, but one swallow does not make a summer, and constructive measures will have to be piled one upon the other if the capitalistic structure of society under which you and I and our forebears have lived is to justify itself."

Mr. Chadbourne spoke before the Institute of Public Affairs along with Ben Bowen Thomas, warden of Coleg Harleck, North Wales, who asserted that the twentieth century has not solved the problems of economic stability as is evidenced by the present unemployment situation.

Dangers in Competition.

"There are but three possibilities before us," Mr. Chadbourne said in discussing "Cooperation vs. Chaos." He said the possibilities were chaos, collective leadership or collective control, and added: "And the last mean governmental control of industry, such as exists in Russia, which is no more or less than state socialism. The advocates of unrestrained and unenlightened competition as it exists today being the life of trade and the advocates of the survival of the fittest are, as little as they might think it, the best friends of the Russian Bolshevik theory, while the advocates of collective leadership in each industry are the worst enemies of the Bolshevists."

The Cuban sugar problem was discussed at length by Mr. Chadbourne, who introduced the subject of Cuba with the statement:

"I am presenting to you a strange and not too pleasing spectacle tonight entitled, 'What Price Liberty.' Our country, through her war with Spain, took to her bosom, as an integral part of herself, Porto Rico and adopted the Philippine Islands. We did not give them their liberty, but we gave them everything else. Through that same war we gave Cuba her liberty, but gave her little else."

"Make U. S. Cuba's Ward."

Lowering of the tariff barrier against Philippine and Porto Rican sugar was recalled and the speaker added: "From a brief survey of the balance sheet as it exists today, I suggest that America constitute herself Cuba's ward, not Cuba's guardian, because the United States enriched herself last year at Cuba's expense to the tune of $95,000,000 by collecting that amount of tariff on Cuban sugar alone, while the total receipts of the Cuban government from customs upon American goods during the past year were only $26,000,000."

In his address on unemployment Mr. Thomas estimated that at least half of England's 2,000,000 unemployed are jobless because of world causes, while 600,000 have causes peculiar to postwar Britain to blame, and the remaining 400,000 constitute those who would normally be unemployed.

Rainbow Veterans To Meet in Macon

4,000 Expected to Attend Georgia Reunion to Begin July 13.

Special to The Washington Post.

Macon, Ga., July 7.—Gathering in the home city of their president, Col. Cooper D. Winn, jr., members of the Rainbow Division will hold their thirteenth annual reunion here July 13, 14 and 15. Macon is preparing to entertain in the neighborhood of 4,000 Rainbow (Forty-second) Division veterans.

Reservations have been made from points as far West as Los Angeles, and each day the outlook grows brighter for the greatest reunion in the history of the Rainbow Division. Information has been recieved to the effect that the Washington, D. C., chapter has chartered a special car, which will leave the Capital City at 2:20 p. m. on Saturday.

It is expected that Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff of the U. S. Army, as well as Maj. Gen. John L. DeWitt, the quartermaster general, will accompany the D. C. delegation, both having signified their intentions of attending.

FIREWORKS STANDS PROTESTS RECEIVED

Prince Georges Board Asked Whether Firemen Are Running County.

Two complaints about the nonenforcement of the recent ruling against fireworks stands were received yesterday by the Prince Georges County Commissioners when they met for the first time since instructing county police to tear down all stands not having licenses.

The letters of complaint were from Patrick James Roche, of Brentwood, and Mrs. Ruth E. Martin, also of that town. Mr. Roche, in his letter, asked whether the firemen or the county commissioners were running the county. No action was taken on the letters and no action was taken on applications for permits for stands received before the Fourth of July. When the applications were received, action was postponed, so that no permits were issued in time for the sale of fireworks.

Jeremiah J. Crowley, chief of police, reported to the board that he had warned operators of stands, but was told that his powers ended here. He received this information, he said, in a conference with James S. Heal, clerk to the county commissioners, and M. Hampton Magruder, attorney for the commissioners. He was also told that the Park and Planning Commission would issue warrants for operators of stands, but officials of the commission said that they had no jurisdiction as long as stands were in commercial zones.

A complaint was also received from Elmer Manuel, of Beltsville, who said that Policemen Claude Reese and Ralph Brown and Constable Howard Slater entered his home without a warrant. The complaint was turned over to Chief of Police Jeremiah J. Crowley.

Samuel Tayman, chief of the Cottage City Volunteer Fire Department, appeared to protest against being forced to take out a carnival license for a carnival held by the department. The license had already been obtained, at a cost of $100, and he asked for a refund if possible.

Upon consulting their attorney, M. Hampton Magruder, the commissioners learned that the carnival law was a State measure, and that the fee went to the State. For this reason, the commissioners were unable to make the refund, as they lacked jurisdiction.

An appropriation of $300 for the construction of two culverts in Oxon Hill was authorized, the work to be done when the money is available. Notice of the board's action was sent to George N. Cox, chairman o. the road committee.

Suit against the commissioners was threatened by S. Marvin Peach, attorney for James E. Parker, after the board turned down Parker's claim against the county for several hundred dollars. Parker claims that road work near his farm diverted a stream and caused it to run across his place.

He says that he was forced to dig a ditch to take care of the stream, which ruined several acres of tobacco plants. The claim, filed some time ago, was turned down when first presented.

A letter from L. C. Westervelt, cashier of the bank which owns a subdivision called Hollywood, on the Baltimore boulevard near Beltsville, was also received. Mr. Westervelt protested against any change in zoning to allow a barbecue stand at the corner of Hollywood and Edgewood roads.

According to the records of the commissioner's office, the stand is already in operation and no zoning change has been asked.

Walter M. Gray resigned as dog tax collector for Spaulding district, and his brother, J. Fendall Gray, was appointed in his place. The report of the police court for July was received, showing that 445 cases were heard during the month. Of these, 306 were for violation of the motor vehicle laws, and 139 were on criminal charges.

Fines and costs collected amounted to $6,132, of which the commissioners will get $3,213. Motor vehicle fines were $2,919, and criminal fines $2,585.

After a lengthy discussion, the Hyattsville town council early yesterday morning decided to improve Bayley street from Wine avenue to Oakwood road, Wine avenue from Franklin street to Arundel avenue, and Phillips street for 600 feet north of Franklin street.

Bayley street will have a 24-foot roadway, a sidewalk, and gutter; Wine a 30-foot "black-top" roadway, and Phillips street will be concreted. Under the new road law, passed by the last legislature, abutting property owners will have 10 years to pay for the improvements, and will be assessed for only one side of corner lots unless the unassessed side is more than 50 feet long.

The only objection to the Bayley street paving came from the O. B. Zantzinger Co., who thought that the street could be kept in proper condition by the town. Twelve other persons who own property on the street favored the proposal. A number of persons appeared either for or against the paving of Wine street, although there was no opposition to the work on Phillips street.

Charles W. Clagett, attorney and former member of the Maryland House of Delegates, questioned the validity of the road law, on the ground that on the 50-foot side of corner lots other townspeople would have to pay for the paving. Caesar L. Aiello, corporation counsel, stated that he thought the law had been properly drawn and would stand up.

The action of the council was taken late at night, after it had appeared that the council would adjourn without acting on the paving question.

Slightly injured when the car in which he was riding struck another machine in front of a doctor's office in Forestville early yesterday morning, Richard H. Cady, of Eleventh street southeast near G street, was arrested on charges of driving while drunk; reckless driving and having neither permit nor registration card.

He received bruises of the chest and a cut over the eye, and was released on $1,000 bond after being treated by Dr. James I. Boyd. According to police, the car driven by Cady struck one driven by Walter R. Ellis, of Cheltenham. Ellis was uninjured and his car was only slightly damaged, although Cady's machine was wrecked.

Spencer Higgs, of Compton, was arrested yesterday by Federal dry agents who charged him with possession of articles for the manufacture of whisky. According to the agents, they also captured a 50-gallon still. Higgs claims that he was out on the river, fishing, when arrested.

The St. Luke's Sunday school will hold a picnic tomorrow at Glen Echo Park. The bus will leave Bladensburg School at 10 a. m. and on the return trip will leave Glen Echo at 6 p. m.

ADELAIDE EMLEY.

MAN HELD IN ATTACK ON WASHINGTON GIRL

Miss Adelaide Emley Saved by Honeymoon Couple; Hat Clew to Man.

Special to The Washington Post.

Nethers, Va., July 7.—Miss Adelaide L. Emley, 21, of 3604 Fulton street northwest, Washington, D. C., today stood in a tiny magistrate's court here at the foot of the Blue Ridge and identified "Teddy" R. Dodson, 33-year-old mountaineer, as the man who last Thursday dragged her from her horse and attempted to criminally assault her as she rode alone in the mountains around Skyland, the summer resort where she was stopping.

Timidly she told how she encountered Dodson and how he caught her horse's bridle and asked her to dismount and how when she refused to leave the saddle the mountaineer dragged her from the saddle to the ground.

Through testimony elicited from her and others by Commonwealth's Attorney Norman Payne, of Madison, it was shown that before Dodson could carry out his intentions Miss Emley's screams brought other guests from Skyland who frightened Dodson so that he fled, dropping his hat, in which is name was written.

According to the testimony of Miss Emley, Dodson was drinking at the time and she stated that she smelled whisky plainly while she fought him off.

Justice of the Peace L. R. Rider, a native of the section where the crime was attempted, held Dodson over for the grand jury which meets at Madison the latter part of the month and County Sheriff John Hall took Dodson to Culpeper tonight for safekeeping.

Officers had looked for Dodson ever since the day of the attack, but he eluded them until yesterday morning, when he was captured in a freight car at Luray by Deputy Sheriff Reynolds, of Luray. He made no statement today other than that he was several miles away from Skyland at the time of the alleged attack. Under the Virginia law the jury trying Dodson may fix the penalty at death in the electric chair if the charge of attempted criminal assault is proved.

Miss Emley is the daughter of Warren E. Emley, a Bureau of Standards chemist, who is out of the city at the present time.

Miss Emley is a former student of Gunston Hall, and several years ago won a gold medal for writing a patriotic essay for the Sons of the American Revolution.

She was graduated this year from Swarthmore College, Swarthmore, Pa., where she has been in school for the past three years. None of her relatives living in Washington could be reached last night.

World Fliers Plan Hop to Oklahoma

Post and Gatty Meet Explorer Byrd for First Time.

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—The almost ceaseless round of activities with which the East has honored Wiley Post and Harold Gatty for their globe-girdling feat came to an end tonight with a banquet given for them by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America at the Hotel Astor.

Early tomorrow, if weather permits, the fliers will hop off in the Winnie Mae from Floyd Bennett Field for Oklahoma, where more celebrations await them. Their wives and F. C. Hall, backer of their flight, will follow in another plane.

Post and Gatty returned to New York early this morning, after a weekend of rest aboard the yacht of William H. Todd, ship builder and a White House reception at Washington yesterday. During the morning in Mr. Todd's office they met Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd for the first time and the three talked of the difficulties of flying to remote parts of the globe.

Duke of Aosta's Rites Attended by Thousands

Turin, Italy, July 7 (A.P.).—Funeral services were held today for the Duke of Aosta, eldest son of King Victor Emmanuel. The Archbishop of Turin officiated and thousands of soldiers who served under the duke attended.

He will be buried in Redipuglia Cemetery, where many of the war dead lie.

Chain Grocery Robbed of $50.

Gordon L. Redman, manager of the Atlantic and Pacific grocery store at 4700 Fourteenth street northwest, reported to police yesterday the loss of $50 when the place was entered Monday night or early yesterday, entry being gained by forcing the basement door.

WARRENTON SHOW DRAWS 500 ENTRIES

35 Events Are Scheduled for Two-Day Exhibition by Junior Club.

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., July 7.—The Warrenton Junior Hunt Club will hold its twelfth annual competition at Culpeper Friday and Saturday, with more than 500 entries, divided between an equal number of horse and pony classes.

Thirty-four events are scheduled, with ponies and horses alternating in the ring. In the thirty-fifth class both meet in joint competition in the hunter championship, the winner of which secures one leg on the Blanch Ortman Challenge Cup. An owner must have three wins to gain permanent possession of the trophy. During the eight years in which it has been offered no one has won twice.

Ladies riding side saddles will compete for the Sunset Challenge Cup, which also must be won three times before an owner can claim it permanently. This cup has been offered for six years, with Miss Edith Nesbit winning twice. Other exhibitors whose names are on the cup are Misses Anne Weld, Mildred Gaines, Betsy Keith and Anthony and George Rives.

Two Corinthian Classes Slated.

Two Corinthian classes are scheduled, one for horses and one for ponies, the latter class ridden by children under 16 and the jumps being set at 2½ feet for the ponies under 11 hands and at 3½ feet for those between 11 and 14 hands. Frosty, an entry from the Rives stable, last year's winner, is entered this year. The prize for this is the Robert Perneyhough Memorial Cup.

Competition between horses is expected to be unusually keen as some of the outstanding stables of northern Virginia and Washington are exhibiting. Fort Light, E. L. Redmon's 3-year-old gelding, which took an impressive string of ribbons at the National Capital Show in Washington in May, will meet Mrs. Cary Jackson's 3-year-old Nobody, which collected an equally impressive string at the Deep Run show in Richmond and at the Worthington Valley Show last month.

Other outstanding hunters and saddle horses entered in the show are Redmon's Main Spring, Miss Julia B. Whiting's In The Way and Quicksilver, the Nesbit sister's Cathode Ray, Squiffy and Sportsman, Mrs. Cary Jackson's Shere Khan, John A. Massie's Maid of Afton and Ernest Woolf's Chatterplay.

Club Is Twelve Years Old.

Judges will be Garner West, New York; Maj. Grimes, Washington, and Norris Dixon, Philadelphia.

The Junior Hunt Club is an organization of the younger exhibitors of Fauquier County and all of the officers and executives are from the younger set. Officials are Miss Elizabeth Nesbit, president; Misses Mae Perneyhough and Emily North, vice presidents; Miss Mildred Gaines, secretary, and Miss Edith Nesbit, treasurer.

The exhibitions were originally held as pony shows, starting twelve years ago but within the last few years they have been expanded to include horses and the show has become one of the most important among the many held in Virginia.

HELEN NOT INVITED TO WEDDING FEAST

at 10 a. m. by the minister of justice in the presence of the royal family and the court. An hour later the religious ceremony will be performed in the vestibule of the castle.

At noon King Carol, former Queen Marie and Crown Prince Michael will accompany the couple to Prahova to lay wreaths on the graves of soldiers killed during the war. This will be followed by a drive through Sinaia.

Will Visit Royal Castles.

A wedding breakfast will be held at the castle at 12:30 and after the breakfast the couple will drive by automobile to Queen Marie's castle at Braan, Transylvania, where they will spend a month.

They then will make a tour of the country, visiting all the royal castles, after which they will take up their permanent residence at Munich in the castle of the Infanta of Spain, sister of Queen Marie.

Recent reports from Roumania said that Princess Helen would leave the country, but would be permitted to return each summer to spend the season with her son, the young crown prince, at a seaside resort.

Last Sunday it was reported that the former queen had taken the boy to Constanza for the summer.

Tales of strained relations between the former queen and King Carol have increased since early in May, when for a time it was believed that the royal pair had been reconciled through King Alexander and Queen Marie, of Jugoslavia. Queen Marie is a sister of King Carol.

Reconciliation Efforts Fail.

The reconciliation failed to materialize at that time, however, and since then reports have been persistent that the former queen had been expelled from the royal family and would be required to leave the country. Police in Bucharest were given orders to discontinue signaling the approach of the former queen's automobile, as is done for members of the royal family.

The newspaper Patria, official organ of the Peasants' party, also declared that an order had been issued for the removal of Helen's portraits from all official buildings.

Reports from Vienna published in London newspapers a little over two weeks ago said that Helen was suffering from poison taken by mistake but these reports were denied by attaches of the royal palace, who characterized them as "absurd inventions." It was stated then that the former queen was in a cheerful frame of mind and enjoying the best of health, physically and mentally.

interested in the bankruptcy proceedings, filed a motion in District Supreme Court for the entry of a general order authorizing creditors to file proofs of claims with reservations.

A hearing will be held before Justice Gordon this morning on the motion, which would have the effect of allowing all claimants a period of twelve months to amend their claims, dating from July 26.

Failure of Harry Bralove, president of the Shoreham Hotel Corporation, to appear at yesterday's hearing was explained by Mr. Sullivan, who said he had elicited the information he wanted from Mr. Bralove in private. It was Mr. Sullivan who subpenaed both A. Joseph Howar, local builder, and Mr. Bralove to appear at the hearings.

Mr. Borchardt said he preferred a recess to an adjournment, inasmuch as his appeal from a ruling of the referee, excluding from evidence personal bank records of Mr. Howar, is still pending in the District Supreme Court.

Under section 21a, however, both Mr. Howar, who was associated with Edmund D. Rheem, vice president of the defunct company, in a number of deals, and Mr. Bralove, who also had transactions with him, may be required to appear before the referee. Rheem also may be examined again at the special hearings.

DEATH LISTS MOUNT IN KOREA AND CHINA

Tokyo, July 7 (A.P.).—Korean and Chinese mobs continued their racial warfare in Korea and Manchuria today as scores lay dead and hundreds suffered from injuries.

Japanese police in Korea killed and wounded many Koreans in repulsing mobs which attacked police stations in Seoul and suburbs in an attempt to seize hundreds of Chinese who had taken refuge there from rioters.

Fearing the Korean outbreak against Chinese might be diverted into an attack upon Japanese rule over Korea, the Japanese authorities placed soldiers about army magazines and storehouses to prevent arms being seized.

The Chinese dead at Pinyang and Chemulpo, Korea, totaled 82, the injured numbered hundreds and the Chinese homes and business places destroyed reached hundreds.

Fleeing from Korean mobs, 1,000 Chinese crowded aboard a vessel leaving Chemulpo for China.

The Chinese government at Nanking said "strong representations have been lodged with the Japanese government and assurances demanded" that anti-Chinese riots in Korea shall not recur.

Retaliating against Koreans for violence in Korea, a Chinese mob attacked Koreans at Antung, Manchuria, injuring 25. This was the first outbreak of the predicted vengeance of Chinese upon 600,000 Koreans in Manchuria and Mongolia.

Korean farmers protested to Japanese authorities at Harbin against the asserted destruction by Chinese of irrigation works near Wampaoshan which ruined rice fields of Koreans. It was there that 500 Chinese attacked 200 Korean irrigation workers July 1, precipitating the racial conflicts.

100 Lutherans En Route Here on Tour of East

Reading, Pa., July 7 (A.P.).—The last of the delegates to the National Luther League convention here, which closed last night, left today on a five-day trip to Valley Forge, the historic Lutheran Church at Trappe, New York, Atlantic City and Washington, D. C. There were over 100 in the party.

The new president, Herbert W. Fischer, Omaha, Nebr., in naming standing committees, placed Austin W. Howard, of Frederick, Md., on the committee on amendments to constitution.

MEXICO ASKS PROBE OF CONSUL'S TERM

nois, asking an investigation and report.

The incident, coming immediately after the slaying of two Mexican youths by Oklahoma police and the subsequent acquittal of the police on charges of murder, is likely to cause ill-feeling in Mexico, it is feared here.

President Ortiz Rubio of Mexico after the acquittal of the Oklahoma police ordered his sons to transfer from a school in this country to one in Canada. President Hoover personally sent regrets to President Rubio immediately following the slaying of the two youths, one of whom was a relative of President Rubio.

Consuls Do Not Rate Immunity.

The State Department's action followed immediately upon a protest to the Mexican Embassy here by the secretary of the Mexican consulate in Chicago. The acting counsel sentenced, Adolfo Dominguez, was given six months in jail, according to press reports, because he persisted in addressing the court in a vagrancy case involving a Mexican.

Consuls of foreign governments have some diplomatic privileges but not immunity. The legality of a contempt sentence against a consul is another thing, however, according to lawyers, for courts in punishing for contempt act under their own authority to preserve order and respect, and not under any law.

of his trousers with dimes and another with nickels. Then he awakens the master.

Rockefeller arises, dresses and immediately starts his morning walk. To servants who greet him he hands a dime.

Returning from his walk in the garden, he sits down while his secretary reads to him a digest of the world's news. Promptly at 8 he joins his family and guests at breakfast. Briefly he asks the blessing. The meal is usually a hearty one. Then for numerica, which, next to golf, is Mr. Rockefeller's favorite diversion. The game is played after every meal and every one must join in it. Packs of cards are distributed to all present. The game, a form of solitare, calls for a keen mathematical sense. John D. is expert at it. Those who defeat him at numerica get a dime; those whom he beats must be satisfied with a nickel. An hour or two each morning is devoted to business affairs. He is constantly in touch with his own interests and those of his son, John D., jr.

By 9 or 9:30 he will be on the golf course to play nine holes. He usually plays with one or two others. He shoots his nine holes in from 39 to 50 strokes. Whenever he makes a good shot he either exclaims over it or chuckles. On these occasions, before he proceeds, he gives his opponents nickels. When they make good shots he gives them dimes.

He has lunch at 1 o'clock and following that a nap of about an hour. Then comes another regular feature of his day—his afternoon motor ride. These automobile trips take him into the back country. When he encounters some one on the road he stops and talks and hands out dimes. Frequently he will give a pedestrian a lift.

Hawks Proposes Elevated Airport

Aviator Suggests Roofing Over New York Docks for Plane Landing.

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—Adding one more record to his long string by flying the 350 miles from Montreal in an hour and 45 minutes, Frank Hawks returned from a three months' aerial tour of Europe today, bulging with an idea for an elevated airport in New York City. While abroad he studied the airports of twelve countries. He said New York could beat them all by roofing in the 3-mile stretch of docks in the Hudson River.

"It would give plenty of runway for the biggest ships," he said, "and if it was done, when you flew to New York you'd land right in New York, and not in New Jersey or out on Long Island."

Hawks established nine speed records while in Europe. His flight from Montreal today was made at an average of 201 miles an hour. "But I've got a lot of credit for those records I don't deserve," he said. "I didn't go over there to break records. I was flying around to study aviation."

TWO IN PITTS CASE PLEAD NOT GUILTY

Woman Secretary and Accountant Released on Bail on Perjury Charge.

Two of the five persons indicted Monday by the grand jury charged with aiding and abetting in the commission of perjury appeared before Justice Peyton Gordon yesterday, entered pleas of not guilty and were released on bond.

They were Miss Helen L. Schneider, private secretary to G. Bryan Pitts when he was head of the F. H. Smith Co., and Henry O. Hart, an accountant. Miss Schneider, represented by Attorney Martin F. O'Donoghue, was released on $5,000 bond, while Hart was held under $15,000. He was represented by Attorneys Leon Tobriner and Dozier DeVane.

Emory L. Cobleniz, Frederick, Md., banker and politician; John H. Edwards, jr., and Pitts have not yet been arraigned. Both Edwards and Pitts are now serving terms upon their conviction of embezzlement from the Smith company.

The indictment naming the five charged them with manufacturing a number of "authorizations" which were to be used by Pitts in his own defense at his trial. It is the Government's contention, through Nugent Dodds, special Assistant Attorney General, and Neil Burkinshaw, his special assistant, that these documents were made in Florida "in one bunch," whereas they purported to cover financial transactions of several years duration.

Counsel for both Miss Schneider and Hart were given 20 days in which to decide whether they would attack the indictment as being faulty. It covers 149 pages.

Annapolis Fire-Fighters To Attend Convention

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., July 7.—The three volunteer companies of Annapolis will send a delegation of about 75 fire fighters to the annual convention of the Maryland Firemen's Association, which opens at Ocean City tomorrow to continue through Friday. The closing day will be featured by the big parade when hundreds of volunteers and apparatus will be in line.

Because of the long distance to travel the local laddies probably will carry only one piece of apparatus. City Fire Marshal Jesse A. Fisher will head the Annapolis delegation.

WATERWAY PROJECT PROGRESS REPORTED

Herridge's Visit to Hoover Revives Speculation as to Agreement.

(Associated Press.)

Speculation of the imminence of an agreement on the St. Lawrence waterway project was revived yesterday by a conference between President Hoover and Minister Herridge, of Canada.

Officials said the waterway was discussed, but were disinclined to tell of the present status of negotiations. They indicated progress was being made.

The American Government has received intimations that Premier R. B. Bennett is willing to push the negotiations to a successful conclusion soon.

Minister Herridge was accompanied to the White House by Hanford MacNider, American Minister to Ottawa.

The last formal communication between the two governments on the project was the American note of last September in which the United States asked the attitude of the Bennett government.

The United States suggested the appointment of a commission to adjust remaining difficulties. The latest indications are, however, that Canada would prefer the adjustments be through diplomatic channels.

Premier Bennett is now busy with a parliamentary sessions. Officials were of the opinion definite action would come after the Canadian Parliament adjourned.

Kanssa Publisher May Hire Darrow

Haldeman-Julius Plans to Have Noted Attorney in $500,000 Suit.

Pittsburg, Kans., July 7 (A.P.).—E. Haldeman-Julius, Girard, Kans., publisher, made defendant in a $500,000 libel suit by Harold A. Moore, Chicago, vice president of the American Bond & Mortgage Co., said tonight he would ask Clarence Darrow, noted criminal lawyer, to defend him.

Moore's petition denied allegations of irregularities in financing real estate projects, including the Mayflower Hotel in Washington, where Vice President Curtis resides. The allegation, Moore's petition said, appeared in an article in a Haldeman-Julius publication. The petition declared the Vice President's name was linked "in a defamatory manner" with the company's control of the Mayflower.

The Girard publisher issued a statement in which he intimated by a series of questions that Vice President Curtis may have had a part in instituting the suit against him.

Firemen Vanguard Reaches Ocean City

1,500 Arrive for Meeting of Maryland State Association.

Ocean City, Md., July 7 (A.P.).—The vanguard of 1,500 firemen from three States began to arrive here tonight for opening tomorrow of the three-day convention of the Maryland State Firemen's Association.

Visiting fire fighters from Virginia and Delaware were expected to join Maryland in a program which listed addresses by Gov. Ritchie and officials of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Wilmington Fire Departments.

Officers will be elected Thursday. More than 100 pieces of fire-fighting apparatus from all parts of the State are expected for the parade Friday, with prizes for the best units.

Progress Reported On Railway Merger

Eastern Executives Hold Meeting on Plan for Four Huge Systems.

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—The executives of the major Eastern railroads, considering a plan for consolidation into four huge systems, met today and after their meeting reported "substantial progress." Aside from the brief formal statement of the meeting and the report of progress, there was no official information released. The executives said they would meet again, but did not announce a date or place.

Atlanta, Ga., July 7 (A.P.).—Harvey H. Hannah, Tennessee Railroad Commissioner, and Hugh White, president of the Alabama Public Service Commission, were selected today to represent the Southeast at Interstate Commerce Commission hearings in Washington on a 15 per cent increase in freight rates asked by railroads.

The men were selected at a meeting of the Southeastern Association of Railroads and Public Utilities Commissioners here. The association adopted a resolution empowering the commissioners in each State to name experts to act in an advisory capacity to Mr. Hannah and Mr. White.

Maryland Laboratory Will Study Nettles

One of the first acts of the new Maryland biological laboratory, recently established at Solomon's Island, Md., will be a study of sea nettles, with a view to finding a means for their eradication. The nettles are reported more numerous than ever in the tributaries of the bay, although there are no more than usual in the bay itself.

Early this year a new type of nettle was reported, but this has now disappeared. In its stead have appeared the regular kind, which will be at its worst about the end of July, according to Swepson Earle, State conservation commissioner.

Term Given Man After Wild Chase

W. R. Benson Is Sentenced for Speeding, Drunken Driving in Rockville.

Walter R. Benson, 22 years old, of Potomac, Md., who led Montgomery County police on a wild chase Sunday afternoon, was arraigned yesterday in Montgomery County Police Court at Rockville. He pleaded guilty to four charges and two others were dismissed.

Benson was sentenced to serve nine months in the House of Correction for driving while under the influence of intoxicants. He also was fined $100 and costs with an alternative of 30 days in jail on a charge of exceeding 60 miles an hour, and was fined $35 or 15 days in jail on two other minor charges.

The chase extended from Rockville to Bethesda, Potomac and Travilah. He was pursued by Policeman W. C. Poole more than 50 miles at more than 60 miles an hour until he escaped on a dirt road, where the policeman's motorcycle was unable to keep him in sight. Policeman Poole was thrown from his motor several times in the chase, but escaped injury.

Mr. Benson later was captured on Bradley boulevard by Corpl. Oscar Gaither at the point of a pistol after he again attempted to escape.

Escaped Prisoner Back in Manassas

Clark Sojourner, Caught in Capital, Returned to Jail.

Special to The Washington Post.

Manassas, Va., July 7.—Clarke E. Sojourner, who failed to live up to the abiding habits implied by his name and walked out of the jail here two weeks ago, was apprehended today when alighting from a Richmond bus in Washington. Officials at once communicated with Sheriff J. P. Kerlin, who sent Deputy Wallace E. Partlow and Constable M. A. Lynch to the city to bring him back. He was returned to the local jail tonight and appeared disappointed to find that a new jailer had been installed since his departure.

Sojourner was sentenced early in June to serve 8 months for attacking W. U. Kincheloe with an iron bar, and for beating and wounding Kate Tapscott and S. W. Hook, with the butt of a gun, in an altercation near Dumfries on May 18.

Sojourner's escape from the jail was the fourth within a month, and, coupled with a grand jury investigation of conditions, brought about the removal of the jailer on July 1.

'GOOD-WILL ENVOYS' WELCOMED IN PARIS

American Boys and Girls Get Warm Greeting; Guests at Receptions.

Paris, July 7.—Greeted with wild acclaim by great throngs of people, the "Envoys of Friendship," the group of young Americans in France on a mission of good-will sponsored by the United States Flag Association, reached Paris today after an uneventful crossing of the English Channel and a trip on the boat train from Havre. The leading newspapers of France displayed a keen interest in the mission of these young visitors from the sister republic, the United States, and carried front page stories and pictures regarding the group.

Interest centered around Miss Catherine DuBois, of Washington, D. C., one of the "envoys," whose fluent French, without perceptible accent, immediately established her as interpreter for her friends and made the task of the reporters assigned to the story much lighter. The "envoys" went first to the statue of Lafayette, where a wreath was placed as a tribute from the youth of America to the gallant Frenchman whose efforts aided so greatly in establishing the United States as a free and independent country. A similar wreath was placed on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

This afternoon the "envoys" were guests of honor at a reception tendered by the American Women's Club of Paris and from there they went on to another reception at Universal City, the $5,000,000 educational foundation established in Paris by the Rockefeller Foundation. They were constantly surrounded by eager listeners, who wanted to know about the United States and who were surprised at the knowledge of world events displayed by the American youngsters, the eldest of whom is but 18 years of age, while the youngest is but 14.

Unusual interest in the arrival of the "envoys" has been evoked by the fact that France yesterday agreed in principle to the terms of the war debt moratorium proposed by President Hoover, of the United States. The mission of the "envoys," which is to bring a message of good will to the children of France, dovetails in closely with the international events which are again bringing to the front the long established friendship of France and the United States.

In order that the young Americans may feel more at home, arrangements have been made by French officials to have a group of French children with them at all times. These French youngsters have been selected from the various youth organizations of France and all speak English, as well as French. They will be guides and mentors for the Americans throughout their stay in France, introducing them to the various youth groups in all parts of the city.

Will Deliver Good Will Message.

The "envoys" are to meet with a great throng of French children at the United States exhibit at the International Colonial and Overseas Exposition, where their message of friendship will be delivered. They will also be guests of President Doumer at a luncheon.

The mission of the young Americans, according to Col. James A. Moss, president general of the United States Flag Association, is to establish friendships between the young people of France and America of today, who will be the rulers of these countries in the future, in the hope that, should any dispute between the nations arise in later years, it will, because of this friendship established now, be taken to the conference table rather than to the battlefield for settlement.

Tired Communists Disperse Quietly

New York Policemen Make No Attempt to Break Up Protest.

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—The shouts and shuffle of 500 Communists were heard in City Hall Park this afternoon in an unemployment demonstration, but 150 policemen let the demonstrators march and cheer until, tired and hoarse, they quit of their own accord.

The Communists, for the most part, appeared well fed. Nearly all wore good clothing and the scene was quite in contrast with the several violent meetings of the past there and in Union Square.

The demonstration was handled quietly by the police, who had no night sticks. Not a blow was struck. The demonstrators marched as an escort for a committee which presented a letter to the board of aldermen asking continuance of relief for the destitute through police channels, a fund to tide over unemployed and stoppage of all evictions of those distressed through unemployment.

Commons Told How Hero Saved 5 on Lost Poseidon

Magnificent Behavior of Comrades Enabled Petty Officer to Regulate Escape of Six From Submarine Compartment; Only One Died.

London, July 7 (A.P.).—A thrilling story of how a British submarine petty officer, Willis by name, saved the lives of himself and four others abroad the Poseidon at the time of its recent mishap off Weihaiwei, China, was told in the House of Commons today by A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty.

Willis, who was torpedo gunner's mate, took charge of those in the fore compartment of the submarine after its collision with a Japanese steamer. Aided by the "magnificent behavior" of those with him, he freed six men—one of whom died—from their steel tomb 20 fathoms below the surface.

The order "Close water-tight doors" was given immediately after the collision. Petty Officer Willis called on the men with him to close the door of the compartment with themselves inside, since this might mean saving the ship. Bulkheads had buckled, but the door eventually was closed with only a slight leak.

While the work was in progress the ship lurched to starboard and sank by the bow. The electric lights were off and the only illumination was the occasional flare of an electric torch. Saving the precious torchlight, Willis and the men with him knelt in prayer before making preparations for escape.

Willis showed each how to put on the escape apparatus and explained that he was going to flood the compartment in order to equalize the pressure with that outside the submarine. He assigned each man to his station, telling jokes to keep up their spirits.

After 2 hours and 10 minutes the water was up to their knees and Willis considered the pressure sufficient to open the hatch. With considerable difficulty it was opened sufficiently for two men to shoot upward. The pressure then reclosed the hatch and it was necessary to await further pressure before a second attempt could be made.

After another hour when the men in the submarine were up to their necks in icy sea water and there was little air left in the compartment, the hatch was opened again and four men, among them Willis, shot upward to the surface, where they were picked up by small boats.

There they learned that one of the first two to make their exit had died before reaching the surface.

INFLUX OF CAPITAL VISITORS INCREASES

Compilation of Smithsonian Institution Shows Gain Over Previous Year.

An 18 per cent increase in visitors to Washington on July 4 of this year over Independence Day of last year was reported yesterday by the Greater National Capital Committee of the Board of Trade.

During June there was a 9 per cent increase and a 4 per cent increase for the first six months of this year over the same period last year, the figures revealed. The worst month for this year was May, which showed a 9 per cent decrease in tourist travel to the National Capital over last year. This decline, however, was made up for on Memorial Day with a 30 per cent increase over the same day last year.

The figures were based on compilations made at the Smithsonian Institution, this place being generally accepted as a barometer of the number of visitors in the city.

On July 4, the institution was visited by 9,556 persons. On the same day last year there were 8,060. Added significance is given the increase by the fact that inclement weather prevailed this year, there being only 6 per cent of sunshine in the National Capital on Independence Day. Rain, amounting to 0.14 of an inch fell, and there was an intermittent sprinkle from 9:30 o'clock in the morning until 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. On Independence Day last year there was 99 per cent of sunshine.

During the first six months of the year, 799,220 persons visited the Smithsonian Institution in comparison to 765,971 last year. The increase in tourist influx is due, partly, it is believed, to the wide publicity that was distributed by the Greater National Capital Committee, over the radio and in newspapers, advertising the air armada on Memorial Day and pointing to the reasons why the Nation's Capital should be visited, particularly on Independence Day.

More accurate figures on the number of tourists is expected to be obtained in the next few months through the tourist booths that are now being established by the Board of Trade in outlying sections of the city.

New Argentine Envoy Asks Closer Amity

(Associated Press.)

Felipe Espil, new Ambassador from Argentina, yesterday told President Hoover it was the earnest wish of his government to "draw still closer those bonds of friendship that unite our two countries."

In presenting his credentials as diplomatic representative of Argentina, Espil said that "from the very beginning of our republic," Argentina had shared with the United States a common faith in democracy. The importance of American capital in Argentina and "an awakening of the United States to the realization of our growing possibilities" also were cited by Espil in his formal address to the President.

Viceroy's Speech In India Scored

Conservative Sees Spirit of Levity and Defeatism in Remarks.

London, July 7 (A.P.).—Viscount Willingdon's first speech as viceroy of India, delivered last month at Simla, was characterized today as marked by a spirit of "levity and defeatism" by Brendan Bracken, conservative member of Parliament, in moving for an early debate on the address.

His motion expressed the opinion that the viceroy's speech, "in which he said he hoped he would be relieved of many of his duties in the near future, is characterized by a spirit of levity and defeatism which must undermine the authority of the government of India and should be condemned."

In reports of his address June 27 the viceroy was quoted as voicing a plea for cooperations by all factions in India and by the people of Great Britain to hasten the day when India would become an equal partner with the dominions under the crown.

All-American Canal Urged by Copeland

Senator Asserts That U. S. Would Lose by St. Lawrence Route.

Albany, N. Y., July 7 (A.P.).—Senator Royal S. Copeland (Democrat), New York, addressing the one-day convention of the Great Lakes-Hudson Waterways Association today declared the All-American water route offered greater possibilities for domestic trade than the proposed St. Lawrence waterway.

He said the movement of Middle-Western wheat to Europe was a factor scarcely to be considered in evaluating either route as increased acreage in Canada, cheaper freight rates in the Dominion and agreements with Great Britain had precluded any advantage in competition for the Liverpool market.

Senator Copeland said he regarded the St. Lawrence route as primarily a one-way route, a heavy and bulk cargo waterway, with little westbound traffic possibilities.

"The waterway to the sea should be built where it will guarantee the use of American carriers and American ports. Otherwise our country will be the loser. To build the St. Lawrence Canal is the first step toward the destruction of our merchant marine."

TEN-YEAR PROGRAM MAPPED FOR WOMEN

Business and Professional Club Delegates Hear Plan of Their President.

Richmond, Va., July 7 (A.P.).—Asserting that "the seriousness of the present economic crisis demands constructive thought and action," Miss Marion H. McClench, of Ann Arbor, Mich., in her presidential address tonight proposed a ten-year constructive plan for the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

"Just as science has pointed out the futility of accepting the surface and apparent causes of a difficulty, and research has indicated the method of affecting a permanent cure," she said, "so business must adopt both the scientific attitude and the research method if it wishes to find a permanent solution for the evils that persistently beset us."

2,000 Delegates Welcomed.

Miss McClench's report was made at the first general business session of the Old Dominion convention which opened its six-day session here Sunday. Gov. John Garland Pollard welcomed more than 2,000 delegates assembled from all parts of the United States.

A breakfast for judges was held this morning at which Judge Camilla Kelley, of the Juvenile Court of Memphis, Tenn., deplored "patent medicine methods" in handling crime in this country and censured women for "neglecting to take hold of governmental voting world with stronger hands."

"God holds women to a higher degree of moral responsibility than men because they are the mothers of the race," Judge Kelley said.

Miss McClench's Program.

Miss McClench, after saying that constructive thought and action is demanded at the persent time added: "The federation, with ten years' experience back of it, is prepared to make a real contribution along this line. Social well-being depends largely on economic well-being. It is therefore most important that women, and particularly business and professional women, should become versed in economic affairs."

Her proposed ten-year plan for the federation includes: Launching a comprehensive program of education as to principles underlying economic conditions; establishment of opportunity for the development of individual capacity with a fair reward for ability shown, whether by men or women; stressing application of scientific methods to human welfare and the use of the vote to promote progress toward social and economic betterment.

Evidence Being Taken In Trial of 13 Lawyers

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—Taking of direct evidence against thirteen of fifteen lawyers on trial in disbarment proceedings was completed before Referee Clarence J. Shearn today.

Stanley C. Fowler, counsel for Abraham Karp, immediately began cross-examination of John C. Weston, former prosecutor in the women's court and principal witness against the accused attorneys. Weston testified to receiving $25 from each of two of the accused lawyers after the attorneys' client had won acquittal or the cases against them had been dismissed.

Search of Sing Sing Yields 12 Knives

"Vicious-Looking" Weapons Taken From Prisoners Locked in Cells.

Ossining, N. Y., July 7 (A.P.).—Twelve knives, ten of which were described by prison keepers as "vicious looking ones," were found within the walls of Sing Sing today, as officials searched all cells for hidden weapons. The other two were table knives smuggled from the prison dining hall.

Warden Lewis E. Lawes announced also that a rope was found in the yard outside the cells. It was believed to have been thrown out, when the search for weapons started, by convicts who had secreted it in the hope it might be used in an effort to escape.

The search of the prison was conducted while the 2,440 inmates were kept locked in their cells. It was ordered by Warden Lewis E. Lawes following the third stabbing, two of them fatal, within a month.

Peruvian Revolt Believed Broken

Lima Expresses Relief on Receiving Reports of Rebel Defeat.

Lima, July 7 (A.P.).—An atmosphere of relief prevailed here tonight following publication of news that rebel forces which have been causing a disturbance in southeastern Peru for the last few weeks were defeated decisively near Cuzco yesterday.

Peruvians felt that the revolution was hampering efforts to return quickly to constitutional government and that the country's financial standing would not improve if the internal disturbances were continued.

War Minister Jimenez, who has been the busiest man in the country for many days, was being congratulated for the government's victory. It was believed here that the insurgent bands, which were reported to have fled to the jungle following their defeat, would be dissolved in the wilderness of the interior.

JOHN B. WALKER, 84, IS DEAD IN BROOKLYN

His Varied Career Included Editorship of Washington Daily Chronicle.

New York, July 7 (A.P.). — John Brisben Walker, 84, whose avid life led him over many trails, from soldiering in China to pioneering in the new West, died today at his Brooklyn home.

His business interests at the height of his activities a score of years ago included control of steam automobile patents, editorship of the Cosmopolitan Magazine, rancher, educational lecturer, road builder, humanitarian, politician and farmer.

Walker was born in the Monongahela River Valley in Pennsylvania. Educated at Georgetown College, Washington, and West Point, he went to the Orient and for two years served in the Chinese army. In 1870 he again set foot upon American soil. He went in the iron manufacturing business in the Kanawha Valley, W. Va. Three years later, when he thought he had won a fortune of $500,000, the great panic left him penniless.

Walker then turned to journalism. His first efforts were for the Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette, a series of articles on business topics. He later was managing editor of the Pittsburgh Telegraph and the editor of the Washington Daily Chronicle.

He introduced alfalfa on a 1,600-acre farm near Denver as his initial venture in farming. For tracts in the Platte River Valley, which he devised a means of reclaiming, railroads paid him a reputed profit on $900,000 on a $100,000 investment.

He paid $360,000 for Cosmopolitan Magazine, then in need of new blood, and quickly jumped its circulation from 16,000 to 151,000, with William Dean Howells as his literary adviser. He later sold it to William Randolph Hearst.

He was the first president of the Automobile Manufacturers Association, and the organizer of a company to construct cheap motor highways, whose operations had an effect on the growth of the motor industry.

During the World War, as chairman of the National Convention of Friends of Peace and Justice at Chicago, he headed an organization of German-American societies. In 1915, speaking in Cooper Union, N. Y., he accused President Woodrow Wilson of being insincere and unneutral.

Walker's third wife, Mrs. Iris Calderhead Walker, and nine children survive.

Hoover Meets Briefly With Depleted Cabinet

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover met only a short time yesterday with a much depleted Cabinet. Four of the Cabinet officers, Secretaries Stimson, Mellon, Hyde and Wilbur, are not in the city.

Secretary Stimson is in Italy and Secretary Mellon is in France. Wilbur is making a tour of Interior Department projects in the West and Hyde is on a vacation. The meeting, however, was augmented by the presence of Vice President Curtis.

Navy Will Offer New Air Project

Second Five-Year Program Not Needed in Belief of Ingalls.

(Associated Press.)

The five-year airplane procurement program which ended June 30 was said yesterday by Assistant Secretary Ingalls to have left the Navy so well situated that another five-year program is not needed.

This statement followed recent suggestions by Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, and by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce that a committee be named to study Army and Navy aircraft needs with a view to formulating a new program. Instead of a definite schedule providing for addition of a stated number of planes per year, Ingalls said, the plan which the Navy expects to take before Congress provides that whenever appropriations are made for a plane-carrying ship they should include money for the planes.

To provide 130 planes for the seven cruisers and the aircraft carrier Ranger, all under construction, the Navy plans to ask a $5,000,000 appropriation.

State Men Are Named For Rail Rate Hearing

(Associated Press.)

W. D. B. Ainey, chairman of the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission, and Herbert W. Trafton, a member of the Maine Public Utilities Commission, were named yesterday to represent the Eastern group of State utility officials at the hearing on railroad proposals for a 15 per cent freight rate increase.

The two officials will sit with the Interstate Commerce Commission during the hearings which will start July 15 with petitioners and supporters of the rate advance testifying first. Other State utility groups met over the county yesterday to select representatives.

Alleged Chicago Slayer Returned by New York

Rochester, N. Y., July 7 (A.P.).—James Palumbo, 26, today resumed his journey to Chicago to face a two-year-old murder charge after spending th night at police headquarters.

Palumbo was arrested by State troopers at Canton on a petty larceny charge several weeks ago. His fingerprints connected him with the Chicago crime, Detective Hepp said, and he waived extradition.

OPERA IS PLANNED TO AID CHILDREN

Cleveland Newspaper Starts Move for First Season of Civic Company.

Cleveland, July 7 (U.P.).—Preparations are being made for the presentation of Cleveland's first summer opera season, July 28 to August 3, by the Cleveland Civic Summer Opera Company, recently formed.

Production will be under the management of Guy Golterman, who founded the St. Louis Municipal Open Air Theater in 1917 and followed with a series of summer open-air grand opera which gave the theater international prominence.

The company was founded by the Cleveland Press, and the proceeds will be distributed to the needy children's fund, but the purpose is not to support the fund but to produce opera at popular prices.

Choruses, orchestra and other personnel will be recruited and trained by Metropolitan and Chicago Civic Opera Company directors. The orchestra will be built around members of the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra and the chorus will comprise 300 voices.

The chorus will be trained by Giacomo Spadoni, for fifteen years assistant conductor and choral director of the Chicago Civic and Ravina opera companies. The ballet will be directed by Rita De Le Porte, premier danseuse of the Metropolitan.

A stage 300 by 125 feet, the largest outdoor stand, will be erected, and will be a series of three platforms in three levels.

The festival will open with the production of "Aida."

CREDIT DUE FRANCE.

Now that complete accord has been reached on the one-year moratorium it is evident that France shares the credit which is due to the American Government for the rapid and successful completion of the negotiations. Apparently France was staggered by the original proposal. It ran counter to a strong sentiment among the French people. Premier Laval faced the danger of being turned out of office if he went too far in granting concessions to Germany. Nevertheless, France has agreed, in effect, to relieve Germany of all reparations for one year.

The French government was between two fires—world opinion on one side and domestic political pressure on the other. Premier Laval had to steer a middling course over dangerous shoals. The fact that he found it possible to meet President Hoover's terms without sacrificing any points that might have weakened his own position is a tribute to his courage and skill.

France is called upon to make a considerable sacrifice. The moratorium will weigh more heavily upon that country than upon any other, except the United States. In view of the traditional animosity between the French and German peoples it is not surprising that France should have hesitated. Premier Laval might have delayed the agreement much longer than he did by proposing new reservations and restrictions. Under the circumstances the French attitude deserves high commendation.

Germany realizes that France has made a praiseworthy concession. The Reich can not help being grateful to France for its agreement as well as to the United States for its sponsorship of the debt holiday. In response the German government promises the world that the money released under the moratorium will be devoted exclusively to that country's economic rehabilitation. The debt suspension should contribute to the relief of tension between Paris and Berlin as well as to economic recovery.

HOLIDAY ACCIDENTS.

Shocking people by the accumulation of statistics has become an art in the United States. After every holiday mathematical minds get together and sum up all the tragedy from every nook and cranny so that they may tell the public what horrible things holidays are. Independence Day, for example, is being described as "a day of triumph for death." A total of 354 deaths are attributed to the celebration. That is considered prima facie evidence that the American people are reckless and irresponsible, and that their celebrations cause inordinate human sacrifice on the birthday of the Nation.

Most of what is being written and spoken on this subject is 90 per cent nonsense. Accidents happen every day in the year. Approximately 65 persons lose their lives through industrial accidents each working day. Automobiles take an average daily toll of about 75 lives. People fall down stairs, slip in their bathtubs, drown while swimming and succumb to thousands of other accidents. It is inevitable in a country of 122,000,000 people that accidents should take a toll every day. Accident casualties for a year are calculated at close to 100,000. That makes an average of nearly 275 per day.

Holiday casualties are frequently spectacular. Hazards are multiplied because most people are out of their usual environment. Highways are congested and dangerous sports are sometimes indulged in. It is notable, however, that fatalities from fireworks were almost negligible this year, there being only eight throughout the country.

The most lamentable thing that can be said about celebration of Independence Day is that the accident rate was slightly higher than for an average day. Doubtless the accidents were no more numerous than they are on many week-ends. If all holidays were abolished it would likely make little or no impression on the accident rate.

HUNTING AMUNDSEN.

Word has come from Russia that Gen. Umberto Nobile, the Italian explorer, will be aboard the Maligin when she sails for Archangel July 15 on an expedition into the Far North. Gen. Nobile, it is understood, is planning to make a search for Roald Amundsen and the missing men of the Italia expedition.

It will be remembered that Amundsen, on hearing that Nobile was lost, immediately flew with an aid to look for him in the polar regions. Though Nobile was ultimately saved, the great Norwegian explorer was swallowed up by the merciless Arctic. Like Floyd Bennett, Amundsen died in an effort to save others. He is remembered not only for his remarkable accomplishments in life, but for his heroic death.

Nobile, on the contrary, lived to enjoy but little glory. Accusations of mishandling of the expedition and of cowardly behavior on the part of the Italia's crew, though inaccurate or exaggerated, created a current of adverse opinion against Nobile and his associates. The sacrifice of Amundsen was resented as well as mourned. However, Italy and Nobile himself have tried to vindicate the ill-fated trip of the Italia, and feeling abroad has become less harsh toward the expedition due to the lapse of time.

The report that Nobile is starting out for Rudoph Island on a mission of mercy is late though gratifying news. Through the American explorer, Anthony Fiala, it is known that a cache of food had been left on the island and that Amundsen knew of its whereabouts. Fiala believes that Amundsen may have been able to reach it and might have taken some of the Italia survivors there with him. Even if this were accomplished, Prof. Vise, head of the present expedition, does not believe any of the group would still be alive. Evidence throwing light on the ultimate fate of the explorer, however, would be welcomed in any event by Amundsen's many admirers.

ABOLISHING COMMUNISM.

Soviet Russia has taken another sharp turn away from communism. Apparently the Bolshevists' plans to "remake man" have not worked out quite as was expected. Dictator Stalin has been veering away from the communism of Lenin for several years. His most recent orders, which for all practical purposes may be considered law, are so repugnant to the doctrines of Marx that the Soviet can hardly be considered a communistic nation.

Some months ago Stalin introduced a system of piecework and of special rewards to speed up production. Under that blessed Communist theory that every one should work according to his ability and be paid according to his needs the Russian peasants found work very irksome. No special talents or skill were developed because there was no incentive for workmen to improve the quality of their services. So Stalin has given up all pretense of paying equal wages to all. Special wages for skilled labor are necessary, he says, to keep the better qualified workmen from constantly migrating in an effort to improve their situation. Adoption of this uncommunistic measure is, of course, only an emergency measure made necessary by unusual circumstances. But it will be one of the miracles of the ages if the Soviet ever goes back to the equal wage system.

Abolition of the five-day week is also contemplated. The Soviet has abolished Sunday, and factories are now kept in operation continuously. Each workman rests one day in five, but only one-fifth of them are free on the same day. The new arrangement is to have all the population working for five days and resting one day. Presumably Stalin's appetite for goods to dump upon the world market could not be satisfied by the five-day plan. This motive likewise accounts for the introduction of a twelve-hour day in many sections, which is in violation of the Soviet constitution.

What is still more astonishing is the move to fasten individual responsibility upon directors and workers and to create a new intelligentsia. These are the methods of big business under the hated capitalistic system. The Soviet has discovered that industry can not be operated without individual initiative and responsibility. But how does Stalin expect to develop those qualities under a system of forced labor?

In recognizing the need of an intelligent directing force for the ignorant proletarian masses Stalin is welcoming engineers and experts of the old regime into the Soviet industrial system. Up to the present time the Soviet has been dependent upon foreign technicians. It has discovered that industry, civilization even, can not be developed without trained intelligence. So each proletarian group has been assigned the task of bringing forth its own intelligentsia. If these efforts are successful, what will happen to the rule of the proletariat?

The most significant thing about these changes in the Soviet's program is that they expose the true aim of the Bolsheviki. Communism and economic equality have been only means to lure the people on. As soon as they prove impractical to the development of a great economic power under control of the ruling Soviet clique these ideals are pushed aside. Stalin begins to see that capitalistic methods are more effective. Equality is abolished; dictatorship remains. Stalin insists on using the most effective methods of driving the Russian people. Dogma, principle and theory are sacrificed in the ruthless attempt to build an economic machine that can ruin the rest of the world.

MORE EDUCATION NEEDED.

Progress in the eradication of illiteracy in recent years has been widespread and steady. The Census Bureau finds that only 4.3 per cent of the population over 10 years of age were illiterate in 1930 as compared with 6 per cent in 1920, 7.7 in 1910, 13.3 in 1900, and 20 per cent in 1870. In the last decade the number of illiterates decreased by 648,156, or 13 per cent, while population was increasing 16 per cent.

Every State shared in this improvement. In some States such as South Carolina, where nearly 15 persons out of every 100 are unable to read and write, illiteracy continues to be a major problem in the educational field. But considerable progress is being made in some of the Southern districts.

Illiteracy has been given much attention in recent years. It would be unfortunate if the movement to extend the rudiments of education to the entire adult population should lose momentum during this period of depression. When hard times come upon the people it is easy to neglect these problems that are concerned chiefly with their mental welfare. But every one knows that there is no time when a knowledge of language is of so much importance as when competition for jobs and other opportunities is keen.

The tendency to put less stress upon education in general during hard times might well be reversed. A number of commencement addresses last month advised graduates to go on with their education instead of trying to break into their chosen fields of practical activity at this time. For those who can afford to make an additional investment in training this is unquestionably good advice. Depression means maladjustment. A more widespread grasp of the fundamentals of economics is needed in the commercial world. As services in the professions become more technical, it is inevitable that more time should be spent in training for them.

Child labor is still employed in the United States in spite of surplus production and unemployment of adults. Of course, it can not be abolished overnight without danger of making the cure worse than the evil. But the present situation should certainly stimulate efforts of public authorities to put back into the schools all children who are not forced by unavoidable circumstances to work. From the standpoint of society it is extremely unwise to permit millions of children to work while able and willing adults remain idle.

On the whole, a depression ought to give impetus to educational activities whether they are designed to teach illiterates to read and write or better to prepare men and women for the higher professions.

A NEW CHAMPION.

When golfers aspire to wear the crown relinquished by Bobby Jones it is fitting that they should struggle for it. America's first laurels in this great game ought not to go easily to any one. It was with a good deal of pleasure, therefore, that the public watched Billy Burke, professional, of Greenwich, Conn., and George Von Elm, businessman golfer, play 144 holes to break their deadlock.

Burke deserves the open championship title. His is the hardest-earned victory in the records of golf. But Von Elm has the satisfaction of knowing that it required 72 holes, two full days of strenuous playing, for the champion to beat him. Both displayed iron nerve that augurs well for their future.

It is interesting to note that both the new champion and runner-up are professionals. Von Elm gave up amateur golf last year, and seems to be playing better since. Burke is a confirmed professional, who knows all the ins and outs of the game from the role of caddy to that of champion.

The flow of oratory that is coming out of Charlottesville is almost equal to one of Senator Heflin's field days in Congress.

LENINGRAD

By W. H. CHAMBERLIN,
In the Christian Science Monitor.

Two of the most magnificent and significant views in Russia are to be had from bridges. Standing on the Stone Bridge and looking down the Moscow River, one catches the full medieval barbaric splendor of the Kremlin, where churches and palaces are screened by frowning crenelated and turreted battlements. Here one thinks instinctively of the old "Moscovsky Rus," of Russia as it was in the dim days before Peter the Great transferred the capital to the new city which he gave his name, of the Russia whose tumults and intrigues and religious ecstasies have been so admirably preserved in Moussorgsky's epic operas, "Boris Godounoff" and "Khovanstchina."

From the bridge which leads over the Neva near the Winter Palace in Leningrad one has an equally fine prospect, more varied, however, and of a quite different character. While a fresh breeze blows in over the frozen river from the Gulf of Finland, one sees on one side the high golden spire of the Admiralty, which symbolizes the soaring naval ambitions of Peter the Great, and one side of the Winter Palace, where broken windows are still memorials to the shelling on the historic 7th of November, 1917, when the Bolshevik Revolution conquered.

On the opposite side of the river one can see the university and the large imposing building of the Academy of Sciences, which celebrated the 200th anniversary of its establishment six years ago. Looking up the river one sees another spire, marking the historic fortress-dungeon of Peter and Paul, and, a mosque, built by the prewar government in honor of Russia's Mohammedan subjects. With its warm southern blue tiles, it seems incongruous in this northern city.

The massive pile of St. Isaac's Cathedral; the Kazan Cathedral, with its colonnade of Corinthian pillars in imitation of St. Peter's, in Rome; the Senate Square, where the conscious revolutionary struggle against Tsarism may be said to have begun, in 1825, with the uprising of the Decabristi; the great artistic collections of the Hermitage and the Russian Museum—these are not far away. Here, as when one looks at the Kremlin, one sees history embodied in monuments, but history of a different kind. If Moscow suggests the Asiatic element in Russian history, this city, which after a war-time alteration of name from St. Petersburg to Petrograd, is now called Leningrad, suggests the other current in the Russian historical stream, the effort to reach out to Europe, to absorb European culture, art and natural science.

Most foreign visitors who come through Leningrad to Moscow are depressed by the former city. The reason for this depression lies not so much in any great difference in the physical upkeep of the cities as in the much sharper sense of contrast which one feels in Leningrad. The dinginess of many of the buildings, the absence of dashing uniforms and handsome gowns, the lack of motor traffic, the drab appearance of the crowds—all these things stand out much more clearly against the European and metropolitan background of Leningrad.

The old glory and glitter of St. Petersburg vanished, most probably forever, amid the revolutionary storm of 1917 and succeeding years. This is not to say that Leningrad is a stagnant or decaying city. Like the whole Soviet Union under the five-year plan, it is hard at work on short rations.

During the civil war Leningrad was especially badly off in the matter of food supply, and its population sank to less than half the prewar figure; now it has more than 2,000,000 inhabitants and has exceeded its prewar population. Leningrad was formerly envied by Moscow as a place where some people might hope to have apartments of four or five rooms; now it is becoming increasingly crowded.

We have hesitated to say anything about that short left-hand turn Post made on the penultimate lap, but after hearing him tell of the Siberian landing bogs the Winnie Mae was pulled out of, he can't be blamed for wanting to land next on U. S. terra firma.

Yes, it seems more than fifteen days since the debt holiday was proposed. For the President it has been fifteen days and nights.

France didn't quite get the idea that "if it were done when 'tis done, then 'twere well it were done quickly," but, she's signed.

Premier Laval couldn't let go of the moratorium agreement without tacking on a postscript lecture to Germany.

No foreign signatures are needed to validate the substantial fact that commodity prices have advanced for the third successive week.

Don't expect too much effect from the debt pact now—it has already been discounted. You've got to go to work.

It took $7,000 worth of telephone calls to straighten out the debt tangle in Paris. Were French call charges reversed?

Latin America had better get a revolutionary moratorium ready. Three or four trouble spots are getting restless again.

9,000 DOOMED!

Are you one of the 9,000 Americans who must die in automobile accidents within the next three months?

Basing its unpleasant prediction on statistics compiled from ten-year Census Bureau averages for June, July and August, the American Motorists Association estimates that that number of lives will be taken in motor accidents this summer.

This terrible toll will be taken despite the efforts of automobile associations, State and local authorities, newspapers and others anxious to reduce automobile accidents and resulting fatalities, says the Portland Press Herald.

Perhaps there would be fewer accidents were each motorist as he backed his car from the garage preparatory to a run through the city or country to ask himself, "Am I one of the 9,000 doomed?" Were he to continue to ask himself that question as he drove along, and never forget it until he was safely back home, there would be less temptation to "step on the gas," to take a chance in passing a swiftly moving car ahead. There might be less passing of cars on hills and around curves, less speeding on wet and slippery streets, more attention paid to pedestrians, to street and road intersections, to railroad crossings and traffic warnings.

A Desire for Glory Will Get You No Medals if You Desire a Whole Skin More.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

WHEN you are told that man is the master of his destiny, you probably remember your frequent failures and misfortunes and say to yourself: "That is bunk."

Yet a little reflection and a little simple logic will convince you of its truth.

What is the strongest motive known to man?

Selfish desire, isn't it?

You are the product of your desires.

Everything that you have is a product of desire.

But, you say, I have the tobacco habit, which I don't desire; I am fat, whereas I wish to be thin; and I have a wayward son who isn't the kind of boy I would have him be. How can these things represent my desires when I don't desire any of them?

That isn't honest thinking. You are tricking yourself.

It was desire that prompted you to smoke, and even now you desire tobacco more than you desire to quit.

You didn't desire an ornery son, but you desired peaceful leisure or an escape from disagreeable duty more than you desired to train the boy properly.

And though you wish to be thin, you desire starches and sweets and an indolent life more than you desire loss of weight.

Desire drives you And in your heart you know that you don't really desire the things you pretend to want. When you hunger and thirst for a thing—when you are filled with a passionate longing for it—when you so crave it that all your waking hours are filled with desire for it—then you know full well that you will have that thing or die trying to get it.

When you truly desire a thing, you automatically and subconsciously discard everything that would interfere with its attainment. You scheme and sacrifice to get it. And the only thing that can defeat you is death.

Your desires build you. And they reveal your size and measure.

One man is driven by a passionate desire to be governor; another desires no more than good clothes and a car.

Will one climb as high as the other?

You know the answer. Not one man in a million is lifted above the level of his desires.

Many fail because they haven't the capacity or confidence to desire great things.

Many more fail because they merely wish to be successful and really desire an easy life more than they desire to pay the price of success.

PRO AND CON

Moratorium Accord.

New York Herald-Tribune.

The announcement of a final accord on the moratorium proposal between the United States and France justifies those who from the first have believed that the proposal itself carried within it an irresistible logic. An emergency was impending threatening the gravest consequences for every one; Mr. Hoover's offer of two weeks ago represented a direct and simple method of meeting it. From the beginning there was too much at stake for the offer to fail. The French have examined every detail of its possible effects with the greatest care, but they have found nothing in its basic principle contrary to their policy; and the unexpected length of the negotiations indicates rather the infinite complexity and ramifications of the reparations structure than any true conflict of interest between France and the other nations.

The fact that accord has now been reached means that minor political fears and rivalries can be dropped from the calculations of business men in all the countries. The road up will doubtless prove a long and slow one, but in the fresh atmosphere of political concession and agreement created by the Hoover proposal what once seemed major obstacles will dwindle to things of small concern.

Real Little Mouthful.

Buffalo Courier-Express.

Now there is talk of a Government moratorium on farm loans. How about a moratorium on taxes?

A Long Step Forward.

Baltimore Sun.

Patient, steady adherence to Mr. Hoover's proposal for suspension of all war debts and reparations for one year, beginning July 1, has brought the desired results. Such adjustments as have been made to satisfy France, which gets the lion's share of reparations, are matters of form rather than of substance. And all other nations concerned have assented. It is not unreasonable, in view of this constructive step, to expect a lifting of heads throughout the world today, some easing of the fears and tension that have distracted all nations, some restoration of faith and of the enterprise that attends faith. But, for the best permanent results, this suspension of debts and reparations should be seen in honest proportion.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Idahoan Sees Prohibitionists Abandoning Bible Doctrine as a Basis of Their Arguments.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Prohibitionists are always letting cats out of bags. Their house is filled with caterwauling black toms that used to be tied up, quiet and invisible, in nice white bags. The latest thumping black tomcat was released by a Bostonian, who wrote me as follows: "For Heaven's sake, who cares what a lot of ignorant Orientals thought about a chemical, alcohol, which is now known to be a dangerous, habit-forming narcotic?" By "Orientals" he means those who wrote the Bible.

I have always suspected the sincerity of those who quote the Bible in support of prohibition. The Bible condemns drunkenness (except in one or two instances), but speaks so favorably of alcoholic beverages, and so explicitly condemns the very principle of prohibition, that it has always been inconceivable to me that any intelligent person should honestly seek to make out a case for prohibition from the Bible.

The prohibitionists have been driven to cover. Ever since the eighteenth amendment went into effect (some effect), those whose general is Truth have been steadily demolishing the weak citadel that prohibitionists have occupied upon Bible grounds. The citadel is crumbling, and the prohibitionists are abandoning it. Some of them now frankly say, what they no doubt always thought in their secret hearts, that the "scientists" and "advanced thinkers" of our day know more about alcoholic beverages than the writers of the Bible knew. But those who abandon the Bible abandon their own life. And those who try to bolster false theories by the Bible "hoist themselves by their own petards." "Whosoever shall fall upon that stone shall be broken; but on whomsoever it shall fall, it will grind him to powder" (Luke 20:18).

CHARLES HOOPER.

"Another Virginian" Insists That Churches Have a Duty to Promote Causes for Benefit of Mankind.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: An interesting letter appeared recently in The Post signed by "A Virginian," warning Protestant Churches against aligning themselves with a dry organization and accusing some people of opposing a 1928 candidate for President for reasons other than his wetness.

To me it appears that all religious organizations, Catholic as well as Protestant, have not only the right but a duty to ally themselves with any or all organizations, which, in their opinion are working for the betterment of mankind, even though their opinions may differ from ours. This, they will probably do notwithstanding our warning or advice.

Had "A Virginian" directed his warning and accusations against all churches or religious bodies, his judgment would not have appeared so prejudiced or "lopsided," for it should be remembered that the other candidate was opposed by millions, not because he favored enforcement of all laws including the one against booze, but on other grounds.

TALKING IT OVER.

Let's talk it over! Did it matter much
That once we walked where we have grown to ride;
What of those joys which have escaped our clutch?
Did they do more than serve to swell our pride?
Were we not happy with our little then?
With little now can we not smile again?

What matter size and quantity of things?
The days of struggle had their pleasures, too;
What are these woes the present failure brings
But cares and troubles we have both been through?
We've met them all before and smiled somehow;
Surely we have no need to fear them now.

You say it's going back? Well, what of that?
Our sweetest memories to those old days cling.
I'm sure 'twas oftenest in that first small flat,
When we were poor, I used to hear you sing.
We used to sit and dream together then.
It will be good, I think, to dream again.

This going back is nothing to deplore,
If only love and faith with us remain;
We've stood and laughed at hardship once before,
And we can face that monster grim again.
If we were happy then, as oft we've said,
There's nothing in a humbler life to dread.

Many Capital Folk Summer In Bay State

North Shore, Nantucket and Cape Cod Region Popular.

As July proceeds on its scorching way still more Washingtonians seek the cooler climes, and many go to Massachusetts, where they are divided between the rugged, wooded coast of the North Shore and the sea and dunes of Cape Cod.

Representative and Mrs. Richard Aldrich and the latter's daughters, Miss Dora White and Miss Janet White, are passing the summer at their home, Leedsmere, at Nantucket, and Representative A. Piatt Andrews, recently returned from a short trip in Europe, is at his summer home, Red Roof, at Eastern Point, Gloucester, Mass.

Mrs. Davis J. Brodhead and her children, Leonie and Davis, have closed their home here and have also gone to Eastern Point, as have Mrs. McCook Knox and her daughter, Miss Kathleen Knox, a debutante of last season.

Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Huidekoper have joined the colony at Nonquitt, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Denegre are established at Villacrest in Manchester, Mass., and Capt. and Mrs. Barron P. DuBois, with their son and daughter, are nearby at Marblehead Neck, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. John S. Flannery, with their debutante daughter, Miss Virginia Flannery, and their other children, are at Seven Gates Farm at Vineyard Haven, Mass., while Mr. and Mrs. Henry Parsons Erwin, with their two little girls and their very young son, are at Marthas Vineyard for the remainder of the season.

Mrs. Victor Kauffmann has gone to Bass Rocks, Mass., where she has been joined by Mrs. Charles Colfax Long.

Mrs. George S. Patton, jr., wife of Maj. Patton, is at South Hamilton, Mass., with her debutante daughter, Miss Beatrice Patton, and the other children, who are much interested in the three boats which lie in the harbor near their estate, Green Meadows. The yacht Moku and the two sloop yachts, Duntesk and Iris, afford the family all the sea-going pleasure they desire.

Cape Cod claims an equal number of loyal vacationers, among them Mrs. Ze Barney Phillips, wife of the Rev. Dr. Phillips, and Miss Sallie Hews Phillips, who have opened their summer home, Green Gates, at Yarmouthport. They will be joined there for part of the summer by Mrs. Guido Perera, formerly Miss Faith Phillips, who now makes her home in Boston.

Mme. Thenault, wife of the air attache of the French Embassy, will leave about July 20 for Harwichport, Mass., to join her mother, Mrs. Oliver Spencer, and her two small children who are already there.

Mrs. LeRoy Goff has gone to her summer home, Pine Top, at West Chop, Mass., where she has been joined by her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Goff, jr., of Philadelphia. Mr. Goff is remaining in town until later in the season. Mrs. George B. Pillsbury, wife of Brig. Gen. Pillsbury, and her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Pillsbury, have joined the summer colony at West Chop for the remainder of the season, and Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Charles G. Treat have left for Duntrekin, their summer place at Hyannisport, Mass.

Siamese Plan Reception at Ophir Hall

Royal Couple Sends Bids to Residents of Westchester.

The King and Queen of Siam have sent out invitations for a reception and luncheon at Ophir Hall on the afternoon of July 16 for residents of Westchester County, N. Y., who have entertained the royal couple during their stay there.

Mrs. Eugene Meyer, of Washington, and Mrs. Ogden Reid are members of the special committee invited to the fete by reason of their endeavor to arrange the reception in May for the Siamese couple, according to plans outlined by Mayor Frederick C. McLaughlin, of White Plains. Others on the committee included Mrs. James A. Thomas, chairman; Mr. Reginald P. Ray and Mr. Harry R. Barrett.

The king and queen will leave late this month for Canada to tour the dominion before sailing for Siam.

Mrs. Aldis P. Browne has returned to Washington.

Becomes Bride of John C. Thompson in Home in Albuquerque.

Dispatches from the West bring details of the marriage of Miss Emma Lee Bratton, daughter of Senator and Mrs. Sam G. Bratton, to Mr. John Cavett Thompson, of Santa Fe, N. Mex. The ceremony took place last Thursday evening at the home of the bride's parents at Albuquerque, with the Rev. C. K. Campbell, rector of the Central Avenue Methodist Church, officiating.

The setting was effective, an altar being arranged about the fireplace at one end of the long living room, where 50 guests witnessed the ceremony. The mantel was banked with ferns, making fan-like sprays, and festoons of the ferns on the wall above the mantel and hanging from the chandeliers. Tall standards at each side were filled with lilies and gypsophelia and a white carpet was

Rome Opens Doors Wide To Stimson

Secretary of State to Be Much Entertained on Visit.

A round of festivities will attend the arrival of the Secretary of State and Mrs. Henry L. Stimson in Rome today. The Secretary had planned to spend two days in and around Naples, visiting that picturesque section of Italy, but changed his plans and will motor to Rome today. The United States Ambassador to Italy, Mr. John W. Garrett, and Signor Francesco Taliani, chief of ceremonies of the department of foreign affairs of the Italian government, went to Naples Monday to escort Secretary and Mrs. Stimson to the Italian capital.

Tomorrow evening a dinner will be given in honor of the Stimsons by Ambassador and Mrs. Garrett at the embassy, when Italian Prime Minister Benito Mussolini will be among the guests. Secretary and Mrs. Stimson will be entertained at luncheon on Friday by Signor Grandi, and that afternoon they will be feted again by Ambassador and Mrs. Garrett at a garden party at their villa in Rome. The magnificent residence, one of the most spacious in Rome, formerly belonged to the Queen Mother Margherita, and was purchased a few months ago for the new American Embassy. Secretary and Mrs. Stimson will leave Rome Saturday for Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. William Jeffries Chewning, jr., are spending several days in New York.

POPE'S PEACE PLAN IRKS ITALIAN PRESS

Alleges New Plotting; Note of Government Likely to Be Unfriendly.

Rome, July 7 (A.P.).—A noticeable tendency on the part of Vatican City to smooth over ill feelings created by the Pope's encyclical met today with increased bitterness on the part of the Italian press.

A government spokesman indicated that the Italian reply to the last papal note would not be forthcoming for a considerable time and that it would be anything but friendly.

Osservatore Romano, Vatican newspaper, published a long editorial defending the method of publishing the encyclical abroad, despite the fact that diplomatic negotiations were in progress, by saying the government issues a resume of its last note for publication contrary to the rules of diplomacy. Observatore stressed the words with which the pontiff closed his encyclical hoping for peace.

Lavoro Fascista replied with the alleged revelation of a plot between Don Sturzo, former head of the Popular party, now in exile and Mgr. Pizzardo, papal undersecretary of state and former leader of Catholic Action.

The newspaper says that Sturzo and Pizzardo and Count Dalla Porri, editor of Osservatore, and Augusto Ciriaci, president of Catholic Action, planned to raise a counter-revolution to the Fascist revolution, using Catholic Action as the machinery and economic depression as the lever for it.

Lavoro says that Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, strongly disapproved and that when he saw the group carrying out the plans despite his disapproval he asked the Pope's permission to resign. Lavoro says it believes Cardinal Pacelli repeated his request within the last few days to be appointed to a vacant see in Florence.

Mexican Laws Confuse Visitors, U.S.Envoy Says

Mexico City, July 7 (A.P.).—The trouble with most people who come to Mexico to do business, Ambassador J. Reuben Clark, jr., told a seminar group on jurisprudence today, is they think of Mexico in terms of the United States, particularly with respect to the laws.

"The whole constitutional theory in Mexico is different from ours," he said, "and who are we to say their methods are not as right for them as ours are for us? We were on the verge of war a few years ago simply because we did not understand that Mexican law is not the same as ours."

Gov. Pinchot's Yacht Is Sold to Californian

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—The auxiliary yacht Mary Pinchot, formerly the Cutty Sark and recently owned by Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania, has been sold to Harvey S. Bissell, of La Crescenta, Calif. She was en route today from Savannah, Ga., to San Pedro, Calif., by way of the Panama Canal.

Gov. Pinchot, his family and a party of scientists in 1929 made an exploration cruise through the southern Pacific islands in the yacht and collected a number of marine specimens for the University of Pennsylvania Museum.

German Child Named For President Hoover

Berlin, July 7 (A.P.).—President Hoover defeated Secretary of the Treasury Mellon today in obtaining the first personal recognition for the adoption of the reparations holiday.

The name Hoover was given to a baby boy born in Zehlendorf, a suburb of Berlin, in gratitude for America's beneficent action toward Germany. The parents said the child would have been named Mellona had it been a girl.

Japanese Observatory Locates New Planetoid

Kyoto, Japan, July 7 (A.P.).—The Kyoto Astronomical Observatory announced today the discovery of a new planetoid. The heavenly body was calculated to be 11,000 miles in diameter, or somewhat larger than the earth. Its distance from the earth was figured at 180,000,000 miles, or somewhat less than twice the distance from the earth to the sun.

Its position was given as in the area south of the "Snake Charmer" constellation.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN CAPITAL SOCIETY

laid for the approach through the room, marking the aisle. Two candelabra with tall white lighted tapers gave a soft glow to the scene. Miss Katherina Childers played the wedding music.

The bride was escorted and given in marriage by her father. She wore a heavy ivory satin gown molded to her figure to a normal waist line and the skirt falling full at the feet. The train was full, falling in six deep points from the sides and back. A lace jacket fitted over the satin of the gown had long, close sleeves, and her only ornament was a short string of pearls, the gift of her mother. Her tulle veil was arranged in cap effect and held by a coronet of lilies of the valley with sprays of the dainty flowers here and there in the generous folds of the tulle. She carried white roses with a shower of lilies of the valley.

Miss Jeanne Campbell was maid of honor and the bride's only attendant. She wore a dainty frock of shell pink mousseline de soie, a hat of pale blue silk and carried a cluster of pink rose buds. Mr. Jack Dorroh was best man.

An informal reception followed for those who witnessed the ceremony, the bride and bridegroom leaving shortly after the buffet supper, to motor to their new home in Sante Fe. The bride traveled in a three-piece suit of chanel epongue in beige shade with hat and accessories to match. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will make their home at Galisteo and Manhattan avenues in Sante Fe, where they have taken an apartment.

Among those at the wedding were Prof. and Mrs. J. H. Dorroh, the latter mother of the bridegroom; his aunt, Mrs. W. B. Hamilton, and his cousin, Miss Henrietta Patton of Jackson, Miss.

The bride attended the University of Albuquerque and is a member of the Alpha Chi Omega sorority. Mr. Thompson is an engineer, a graduate of the University of Albuquerque and a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity. He formerly attended school in Mississippi.

Representing the Secretary of the Treasury, Capt. Randolph Ridgely, jr., United States Coast Guard Service, will be one of the bright particular stars today at an interesting ceremony in New York, giving honor to Capt. Gilos C. Stedman, master of the American Merchant, for heroic endeavors on the high seas.

In behalf of Secretary Mellon, Capt. Ridgely will bestow upon Capt. Stedman a gold medal of honor for heroism in connection with the rescue of the crew of 26 men from the Italian freighter, Ignazio Florio, during the height of a mid-Atlantic storm in 1925. Capt. Stedman is one of the youngest captains in the American Merchant Marine, and was chief officer of the President Harding at the time of the catastrophe.

The presentation of the medal and citation will be made at 11 o'clock aboard the American Merchant at her berth in North River.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. E. C. Kalbfus are now at the Shoreham Hotel where they have taken an apartment.

Capt. Robert T. Chaplin, Coast Artillery Corps, U. S. A., and Mrs. Chaplin, announce the birth of a son, Ansel Burt Chaplin, at Fort Sheridan, Ill., on June 12. The baby is the grandson of the late Mr. Heman White Chaplin, of Washingeon and Boston and the late Mrs. Chaplin and of Col. William Burt, inspector general's department, U. S. A., and Mrs. Burt.

Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Robert C. Davis are at the St. Regis Hotel in New York for a few days.

Mrs. J. Mackenzie Tabb and Mrs. C. H. White, of Middleburg, Va., are passing several days at the Powhatan.

Mrs. Hobart to Stay In Ohio Home.

Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, has left for her home in Milford, Ohio, where she will spend several weeks visiting her family before leaving on a two months' official tour, which will include Alaska and a group of Northwestern States. Mrs. Hobart will not return to Washington before the last of September.

Maj. J. Huntington Hills, U. S. A., and Mrs. Hills and their two small daughters, Betty Mae and Vera Huntington Hills, will leave Washington on July 22 for the Middle West and the West Coast for a series of visits before sailing on August 8 for Honolulu. Maj. Hills, who has been in the office of the adjutant general in the War Department in Washington for four years, will be stationed in Honolulu. They are now the guests of Mrs. Hills' parents, Brig. Gen. Edward A. Kreger, retired, and Mrs. Kreger.

Miss Norvell C. Mumford entertained a party of friends, among whom was Senor Gomez de Acebo, of the Spanish Embassy, and Mme. Luis Abelli, of Bolivia, at the Annapolis Roads Beach and Tennis Club last Sunday.

Mrs. Ella H. Gallagher and her daughters, Miss Pauline Gallagher and Miss Mary Ellen Gallagher, and Miss Nell Collins, of Kansas City, Mo., are guests of Miss Willa Gallagher at her apartment in Harvard Hall.

Miss Mary W. Bradley will return to Washington in a few days to join her mother, Mrs. Thomas Bradley at their home in Georgetown. After attending the Yale-Harvard boat races in New London, she went to Saranac, N. Y., where she has been making a series of visits.

Keiths Depart For New Hampshire.

Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Keith have left for their summer home at Mount Crotched, N. H. They will return to Washington in the late fall.

Mrs. Louis Meredith Nuttman has closed her apartment at 2400 Sixteenth street and gone by motor to visit her daughter, Mrs. James Gobdea, at Fort Bragg, S. C. Later she will go to Fort McPherson, where Col. Nuttman is stationed.

Mrs. Waldo Potter is spending several weeks in Cape May, N. J. Col. Potter is now on duty at Edgewood Arsenal, Md. They will sail in August for the latter's new post in Stockton, Calif.

Among the Washingtonians who have recently been at the Cavalier Hotel at Virginia Beach are the Military Attache of the Cuban Embassy and Senora de Prieto, with the latter's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James F. Willett, and her son, Mr. E. A. Tessaca; the Attache of the Argentine Embassy, Senor Don Manuel Olazabal; the Attache of the Netherlands Legation, Mr. J. H. van Royen, jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Burrows, who were passing their wedding trip there following their marriage on June 29. Mrs. Burrows was formerly Miss Jean Randall.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Mathews Dick, who have been at their summer home in Newport for several weeks, will sail tonight from New York on the S. S. Aquitania for Europe. On their return they will join their children in Newport before coming to Washington.

Margaret Hatfield Wed to R. P. Schulze.

In the presence of a small group of friends, the marriage of Miss Margaret Hatfield, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Charles S. Hatfield, of Washington, to Mr. Richard Paul Schulze, took place on Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Presbyterian Church at Saranac Lake, N. Y. Mr. Schulze is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Schulze, also of Washington.

Mrs. William E. Leahy was the bride's only attendant and Mr. Charles M. Thomas acted as best man. A reception followed the ceremony at the Saranac Lake Hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Schulze left for Cape May, N. J., where they will spend their honeymoon and on their return will be at home at the Westchester Apartments.

Among the Washington guests at the wedding were Judge and Mrs. Oscar Bland, Miss Helen Bland, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Leahy, Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Schulze, Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Thomas and Francis Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. O'Brien and Miss Elizabeth Reilly.

Miss Marjorie Talman will leave today for New York, whence she will go to Rhinebeck for a visit and then to Boston. Miss Talman will be a guest of Mrs. Montgomery Lee for a cruise of several days on board her yacht.

The steamer President Harding will carry several members of the foreign service today when the boat sails at noon for Plymouth and Hamburg, Germany. Three United States Consuls will return to their posts, including Mr. Richard F. Boyce, consul at Barcelona; Mrs. Boyce and their two children; Mr. Prescott Childs, consul at Nice, and Mr. Mason Turner, consul at Paris, and Mrs. Turner.

Also sailing on the steamer will be Lieut. Col. Cortland Parker, who will go abroad on business for the War Department, accompanied by Mrs. Parker, and Col. E. B. Gregory, observer for the War Department of the Gold Star Mother movement.

Coming into port today at New York will be Mr. Frank B. Noyes, president of the Associated Press, and Mrs. Noyes, of Washington, and Col. Carroll Fox, of the United States Public Health Service, medical director of the quarantine station in New York Harbor, who is returning with Mrs. Fox from the reunion of the Lafayette family held last month in France.

Mr. Jan Tomaszewski, attache of the Polish Embassy, and Mr. Edward Weintall will leave today by motor for New York. Mr. Tomaszewski will sail for several weeks' absence at his home in Poland, and Mr. Weintall will visit in the North before returning to Washington in about ten days.

Bryans Return From Honeymoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Bryan have returned to Washington from their wedding trip in Honolulu and are making their home at 2540 Massachusetts avenue. Before her marriage in April, Mrs. Bryan was Miss Florence Evelyn Hamburger, of Los Angeles.

Maj. Martin Scanlon, who has been in Washington for the last three months on leave, has returned from New York where he has been for the past week. Maj. Scanlon will sail from New York Wednesday, July 15, for England to resume his duty as Assistant Military Attache at the American Embassy in London.

Dr. Irving Boatman has returned from a visit abroad, where he traveled through England and France. While in Paris he was entertained by Mrs. Mary Louise Westmoreland and her daughter, Miss Eleanor Westmoreland.

Mr. Herbert J. Grant, head of the Mormon Church in Salt Lake City, is a visitor in Washington this week. He is here as the guest of his granddaughter, Mrs. R. Dale Snow, who lives at the Potomac Park apartments. After completing his visit in Washington Mr. Grant will proceed to New York for a visit.

MUCH OF SUMMER IS LEFT FOR BEACH

Enjoyments at Woodland Will Continue Far Into the Autumn.

There is still much time in which to enjoy a summer cottage at Woodland Beach, for the warm weather in this portion of the country extends far into the fall, and those who buy now at this summer home site sponsored by The Washington Post will have three or four months of real enjoyment.

Nights of real comfort with breezes blowing off the South River in Maryland; days spent splashing about in the cool waters of that river; afternoons spent in the wooded areas, shaded from the hot sun and mornings of play for the children on amusement devices scattered about the beach.

That is the prospect for those who purchase lots and erect cottages at this Maryland garden spot. The cost is not much. The beach is within a reasonable distance of the Capital to make overnight commuting feasible. And the benefits of having a summer place are too numerous to mention.

Pay $9 plus the price of a subscription to The Washington Post and become a lot owner at Woodland Beach. Then pay $3.50 per month until the purchase price of $93 has been cleared. It is easy to become a property owner under such arrangements, and you will never miss the monthly payments.

Hundreds have found Woodland Beach the answer to their long-sought idea of a place in which to spend the summer months. Cottages are springing up in every section of the development and the clubhouse is crowded each Sunday with additional buyers, anxious to get in line and complete their building plans.

Don't wait until next Sunday to visit Woodland Beach before you act. Call at The Post today and make a selection from the maps which are available all day long. If, when you arrive at the beach later on, you'd rather have some other spot, the transfer is easily made.

You will find your friends on the spot at Woodland Beach, busy erecting their homes. You'll want to grow up with the community which promises to be one of the most popular summer resorts within reach of the Capital. Buy now.

Sailor Taken Off Ship For Liquor Law Trial

Boston, July 7 (A.P.).—Deputy United States Marshals today boarded the incoming oil tanker, I. C. White, and arrested James Collins, of Peoria, Ill., a member of the crew who, they alleged, was wanted in Detroit for violation of the prohibition laws.

They charged he had defaulted his bail while awaiting trial. He was held in bonds of $5,000.

Alleged $15,000 Thief Penniless on Bowery

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—Found penniless in Bowery lodgings, Roy Elward, 36, was arrested today by detectives who said he was wanted in Chicago for embezzling $15,000 from the J. M. Snyder General Contracting Co., his former employer.

Police quoted him as saying stock speculation stripped him of the money.

Buenos Aires Seeks Police Funds.

Buenos Aires, July 7 (A.P.).—Police today were soliciting popular subscriptions on "security day" with the hope of raising a fund to purchase motorized equipment and a telephone signal system, which would raise the department's efficiency to an equality with the best United States and European forces.

De Rivera Coterie Near Indictment

Madrid Will Demand Extradition of the Old Regime Men.

Madrid, July 7 (A.P.).—The drawing of indictments against members of the dictatorship of Primo de Rivera has been completed, Senor Elola, government prosecutor, announced today, adding that when the charges are presented before the courts they "will create a great sensation." He said the former ministers would be charged with illegal usurpation of power and unwarranted abuse of government monopolies.

The possibility that former King Alfonso may also be held responsible for the deeds of his ministers was expressed by the prosecutor. He said that extradition of all former ministers who had left the country will be demanded.

Senor Elola said the trials of former Premier Damaso Berenguer and Gen. Mola, former chief of police here, would be held before the supreme court.

Veteran Plans to Refute U. S. Claim He Is Dead

Ashland, Ky., July 7 (A.P.).—Mrs. Samuel Steele said here today she had never been notified by the Government that her son, William R. Eba, had been killed in action during the World War, as a Los Angeles dispatch today credited him with saying. She said also she had never been notified he had died in San Antonio, Tex.

The Los Angeles story quoted Eba as saying that in order to borrow on his soldier bonus he had hired a lawyer to refute the Government claims that he was dead.

Screen Actress Is Married.

Reno, Nev., July 7 (A.P.).—Catherine Willard, screen actress, and Ralph Bellamy, of Los Angeles, were married here late yesterday. Bellamy was divorced from his first wife at Detroit last month. Miss Willard obtained a Reno decree recently.

Police Band Quiz Due in New York

$40,000 Raised in Benefit Performances Said to Have Disappeared.

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—The joint legislative committee conducting the city-wide investigation turned its attention to the police department today. It obtained by subpena the department's record of investigations into the conduct of finances of the Police Band and Glee Club by Patrick Fitzgibbons, acting lieutenant.

The committee also turned attention on the $100,000,000 project for erection of incinerators to do away with pollution in New York City waters by garbage dumping.

Fitzgibbons directed the Police Band and Glee Club's affairs while Richard E. Enright was police commissioner. The late Joseph A. Warren, after becoming commissioner, ordered an investigation into reports that much of $40,000 raised in benefit performances had disappeared. Warren demoted Fitzgibbons, but the officer was returned to his rank by Grover A. Whalen, Warren's successor.

Harrison, Broker, Sent To Jail Awaiting Trial

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—Robert Lee Harrison, youthful broker whose ledgers showed $1,000,000 liabilities when he failed last year, was arraigned today on an indictment charging grand larceny. He pleaded not guilty and was sent to the Tombs to await trial.

Harrison, who had an office on Park avenue, is alleged to have told investors he was in a Wall street pool with Alfred E. Smith, John J. Raskob and other notables. They all denied it before the grand jury.

Gave Name of Jail Superintendent.

John Stewart will spend the next 30 days in jail because of his conviction in Police Court yesterday of a charge of intoxication. Police testified that he had given the name of his host, Col. William A. Peak, superintendent of the District Jail, when he was arrested.

HUDSON IS DRAGGED FOR ACTRESS' BODY

Home City Believes Woman's Disappearance Stunt for Notoriety.

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—Marine police began dragging the Hudson River today on the chance that Evelyn Wilson, missing 23-year-old actress, might have been slain and thrown into the water.

A report that the young woman had been seen getting into a taxicab near her sister's home, from which she vanished at 1 a. m. Sunday, is the only clew uncovered in the investigation of her disappearance. Roofs and cellars in the district neighborhood are to be searched by detectives, also that part of Central Park nearest her home, in the possibility that, if murdered, her body might have been hidden.

Police were notified that Joseph Sheeran, of Jersey City, former fiance of the actress, who is said to have broken off the engagement at the request of her family, was prepared to give any aid he could.

Evanston, Ill., July 7 (A.P.).—Police of Evelyn Wilson's home city today dropped their investigation of the actress's disappearance in New York and labeled it a hoax.

Detective Lieut. Carl Ekman said her father, Harry Wilson, had produced none of the letters, expressing fear of abduction, which he said his daughter had written to him, and could not recall names of any suitors whose "ardent proposals" she had spurned.

"It looks like the old stunt of trying to get notoriety when jobs are scarce," Ekman said. "We have information that she is alive, well and in safe hands in New York."

Ekman said the girl's parents had separated over their daughter's stage career, the father wishing her to drop it. Wilson is a postoffice employe and former stock company performer.

HOW IT BEGAN

By Russ Murphy and Ray Sennitzky

TAMMANY SOCIETIES

TAMANEND OR TAMMANY WAS AN INDIAN CHIEF WHO ALWAYS KEPT FAITH WITH HIS WHITE FRIENDS. ONE DAY HE STARTED FOR PHILADELPHIA WITH OTHER CHIEFS TO CONFER WITH THE QUAKERS. BECAUSE OF HIS GREAT AGE HE LAGGED BEHIND THE PARTY, FEELING THAT HE HAD OUTLIVED HIS USEFULNESS, HE PLUNGED A DAGGER INTO HIS HEART AND THREW HIMSELF INTO A FIRE. ADMIRATION FOR HIS CHARACTER LED TO THE APPEARANCE OF SOCIETIES NAMED IN HIS HONOR IN THIRTEEN STATES.

JULY

ALWAYS BELITTLIN'

THE WORD "BELITTLE," WHICH HAS COME TO MEAN "TO DISPARAGE OR DEPRECIATE," ENTERED THE LANGUAGE JUST BEFORE THE REVOLUTIONARY WAR, WHEN THOMAS JEFFERSON COINED IT.

TOMORROW—Vaccination; Cheating the Hangman; Unlucky "2."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

STILL SELLING POISONOUS JAKE.

THE people who sell poison under the name of a beverage—Jamaica ginger—seem to enjoy paralyzing people. At any rate, they are so greedy for money that they are not only quite willing to violate laws but they have no hesitation about maiming people, if necessary, to get what they want.

Nearly two years after poisoning many thousand they tried their hand in southern California. In the first slaughter they could plead ignorance, but not in the second. After many investigations it was discovered just what was the poison in jake paralysis. The facts were spread widely.

Drs. M. I. Smith and E. Elvove, of the National Institute of Health, published a method of testing Jamaica ginger for this poison. Doubtless the poisoners read all these reports. They appear to have been cautious—at least for a year or more. The reports are that this beverage, in 2-ounce bottles, is being widely bootlegged and that thousands of reckless people are drinking it. The furore occasioned by the poisonings of 1929 is reported to have hurt the legitimate ginger and ginger ale business, but it does not seem to have interfered with the bootleg business.

In spite of wide use for more than a year there were no reports of poisoning except in a few instances where remnants of the old stock were pulled out of hiding places and sold to seekers after trouble.

In the latter part of 1930 a New York bootlegger again began manufacturing or, at least, marketing the poisonous product. He used the same poison but he "cut" it somewhat. A person had to drink more of it to acquire jake paralysis. He shipped several barrels of it to a compounder in Los Angeles.

This compounder mixed it with some other stuff, bottled and labeled it, and then marketed it through drug stores. The consumers began to come down with jake paralysis in January. In February, the epidemic, if it can be called such, was going strong. The health department got busy when it learned of the disease and called on Dr. Smith for help.

The first investigation failed, principally because not all of the bottles contained poison, and, when present, it was in lesser proportions than the investigators were looking for. Finally, the right trail was hit on and the analyses were proving the presence of the poison.

The bottled paralysis was seized, the barrels of potential death were impounded. After that no new cases of jake developed in southern California.

The question now is, When and where will this loving friend of his fellow man strike next?

FIND CAUSE AND REMOVE IT.

J. F. writes: My little boy, aged 9, has had bronchial asthma for the last 2½ to 3 years. Will you kindly advise whether this malady is curable and what is to be done for it? Does climate have any effect on it; and if so, what climate would you recommend?

REPLY

You should be able to find the cause of this group of symptoms and remove it. We recently printed a letter from a man who wrote that he paid $8,000 to learn that bronchial asthma in his child was due to eating foods containing dextrine and exposure to timothy hay pollen. A warm climate is generally beneficial. A warm, very dry climate is better still.

AFTER STANFIELD HAD GONE, INSPECTOR KEENE AND CASSIDY AGAIN EXAMINED BEATRICE'S DIARY
IT LOOKS TO ME, CHIEF, AS IF THIS GAL WAS PRETENDIN' TO LOVE CLYMER SO SHE WOULDNT BE SUSPECTED OF KILLIN 'IM."
POSSIBLE BUT NOT PROBABLE, MIKE !!
I'M AFRAID THIS CASE IS NOT AS SIMPLE AS IT FIRST SEEMED. THE MORE WE INVESTIGATE THE MORE COMPLICATED AND INVOLVED IT GETS. BESIDES, I'D GIVE A LOT TO KNOW MORE ABOUT THAT MYSTERIOUS PROWLER AND WHAT HE WAS DOING AROUND THE HOUSE ON A NIGHT LIKE THIS !!
MEANWHILE STANFIELD, NOW GREATLY UPSET, HAD RETURNED TO THE LIVING ROOM WHERE THE OTHERS GATHERED AROUND TO QUESTION HIM
WHAT DID HE SAY, CLAUDE ?
HAVE THEY FOUND THE GUILTY ONE YET ?
WHOM DO THEY SUSPECT ?
BUT STANFIELD, PREOCCUPIED WITH HIS OWN THOUGHTS, WALKED AWAY WITHOUT ANSWERING, AND IT WAS THEN THAT BEATRICE WORTH FOLLOWED HIM AND PUT HER ARM ON HIS SHOULDER
OH, CLAUDE DEAR, THEY DONT SUSPECT YOU, DO THEY ?!
YES, I'M AFRAID THEY DO, BEATRICE !!
PROF. PRESTON AND MISS STEELE WATCHED THE TWO AS THEY CONVERSED IN LOW TONES
GOODNESS ME, MARTHA, I WONDER HOW THIS TERRIBLE NIGHT WILL END ? POOR CLAUDE LOOKS TERRIBLY WORRIED, DOESNT HE ?
YES, HE CERTAINLY DOES, AVERY !
BUT POSSIBLY HE HAS GOOD CAUSE TO WORRY, YOU KNOW HOW HE HATED DR. CLYMER !!
JUST THEN THE DOOR OPENED AND ONE OF THE OFFICERS APPEARED
MISS WORTH, THE INSPECTOR WOULD LIKE TO SEE YOU !!

BOBBY THATCHER — Waiting at the Gate— — By George Storm

SOMEONE'S WHISTLING AT THE FRONT GATE... I'LL SLIP THIS YELLOW LACE DRESS ON... IT'S PROBABLY JACK
HERE SHE COMES NOW.... RUNNIN' DOWN THE WALK LIKE SHE'S GLAD TO SEE ME TOO
ER... WHY HELLO, BOBBY
MARGE IS THAT RIGHT, YOU'RE GOIN' HOME TOMORROW? ARE YOU GONNA WRITE TO ME?.... YOU WILL, WONTCHA?

IF BIM GUMP THINKS THAT BY MAKING A PAUPER OF TOM CARR - THE WIDOW WILL TURN TOM DOWN - HE HAS ANOTHER GUESS COMING -
SHE HAS NEVER BEEN SO HAPPY IN HER LIFE -
LET BIM DO HIS WORST -
SHE ONLY KNOWS THAT SHE IS IN LOVE - HEART - BODY AND SOUL -
BIM HOLDS TOM'S FUTURE IN THE PALM OF HIS HAND -
WELL - TOM - IT'S TOO BAD - HERE'S ANOTHER ORDER FROM ANOTHER FOREIGN COUNTRY - THE FACTORY IS IN SUCH WONDERFUL SHAPE - AND ALL THE MEN HAVE AGREED TO WAIT FOR THEIR PAY - IF WE COULD ONLY GET AN EXTENSION FOR A WEEK ON THESE NOTES - WE COULD PULL THROUGH - WELL - THIS IS THE FINISH - AND HERE IS THE FINAL NOTICE - AND HERE'S WHAT THEY SAY - THIS IS TO INFORM YOU THAT THERE WILL BE NO FURTHER EXTENSION GRANTED YOU ON YOUR NOTES BEYOND TOMORROW - THAT MEANS THAT BIM GUMP MEANS TO RUIN US -
THOUGH THE CLOUDS ARE GATHERING - AND ALL SEEMS BLACK - THERE'S A RIFT IN THE SKY - POOR TOM WITH ALL OF HIS TROUBLES SEES A RAY OF LIGHT AHEAD -
YES - TOM - I LOVE YOU MORE THAN ALL ELSE ON EARTH -
AND YOU WOULD CONTINUE TO LOVE ME EVEN IF I DIDN'T HAVE A PENNY ?

What Today Means to You

"CANCER."

IF July 8 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1:30 p. m., from 4 p. m. to 6 p. m. and from 8:45 p. m. to 10:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 6 a. m to 10:30 a. m., and from 6:15 p m. to 8:10 p. m.

The planetary aspects of July 8 denote an uneventful and uninteresting day, in which the atmosphere will be lethargic, rather than inspiring. In the evening conditions will brighten up, and all social activities will yield pleasurable and amusing entertainment.

A child born on this July 8 will be gifted with a good "thinking box," a logical mind, and the ability of self-expression—both oral and written. In early life it will show a marked "bent" and its own choice of vocation should be encouraged. Its affections will be deep-rooted.

Born on July 8, fate destined you to achieve much, and nature equipped you with valuable gifts with a prodigal hand. If you have not made good, it is because you are never willing to sacrifice immediate pleasure for deferred reward. No matter how engrossing the task may be to which you are pledged, you allow the temporary joys of recreation and amusement to distract your attention and you are always ready to put off till tomorrow what should be done today.

You are undoubtedly clever, well informed and exceptionally versatile. When you are at work, you can accomplish more in a brief space of time than the ordinary worker can in days of application and toil. You have, too, a most engaging personality and can, with a smile, always get your own way. If things did not come your way quite so easily, it is probably that you would apply yourself to your job more consistently and persistently.

Your horoscope denotes that you will have a successful career, but it will not be crowned with those rewards of which your many talents are worthy. Your home life promises every happiness, and, as a result of your charm, all your family circle will enjoy good companionship and enduring affection.

Successful people born July 8:

1—Maria White Lowell, wife of James Russell Lowell.

2—William V. Moody, educator.

3—Henry Wood, professor of German, Johns Hopkins University.

4—Frank B. Brandegee, U. S. senator.

6—Joe Chamberlain, English statesman.

Paul Poiret Interprets the Mode

Paul Poiret's violet georgette frock is exquisitely smocked and embroidered in violet chenille.

New York, July 7.

WHAT'S happened to the menace of long hair becoming the mode once more, that threatened our peace for a while? It's completely subsided and no one hears a murmur about it any longer. Though I will say that two years ago when long skirts first came back into our lives and even long afterward, it seemed that the menace was a serious one indeed. Now we've found a way of adjusting short hair with the dignity of long skirts. The point is, that the excessively shorn heads of a year or two ago were rather ridiculous with the more sedate ankle-length and longer evening skirts. But since that time we've had a chance to grow our hair to the point where it can again be feminine without having to be really long.

And now, the new hats worn way on the right side of the head and exposing all the hair on the left side and sometimes in the back, too, are causing another evolution in styles of coiffures. For one thing, formerly we depended on our hats alone to adorn our heads (that is, when the occasion demanded a hat), now the hair has become as important a part of head decoration as the hat itself and, in fact, must continue the "line" of the hat, in order to be smart, which means, of course, that the hair must be molded to the head with a purpose and with personality, as well.

Loosely rolling waves, waves that appear to be as natural as possible, are the smartest kind today. In fact, most elegant women have their hair dressed the day before an important function in order that the too freshly waved appearance disappears. The back hair can again end in that becoming point in the middle of the nape (that heavy, solid rolled up curl isn't done), but the sides are softly curled into two tiers. And an extremely original and charming touch, if you can wear it, is the part on the bias, slanting forward toward the middle of the forehead. It looks very intriguing, indeed, beneath a small hat.

A combination of exquisite color, hand embroidery, hand smocking and soft, graceful draping, in the hands of such a master as Paul Poiret, is very apt to result in miraculous loveliness. 'N' it seems to me it did, in the afternoon frock I sketch for you today! This frock is of violet georgette, with bands of smocking, hand-embroidered in matching violet chenille, at the waist and hip, and in two places on the unusually graceful sleeves. It's the smocking at the waist that makes the full skirt fall in an uneven hemline, you see. 'N' the odd little collar falls into a scarf over one shoulder in back, and this scarf, too, is smocked, and has a silk fringe!

• • • •

And now's the time, all you clever little ladies who do such lovely hand embroidery, to use it! It is tremendously in the mode these days, and adds much 'spensiveness to anything it adorns.

• • • •

Well, what will you do with your fox fur when you're not wearing it? I thought so! Well, there is nothing individual about that—I do the same thing with mine. That is, I did do the same thing with mine until I got all fed up with trying to hang the little beast on nails, on hangers, put him in the dresser drawer or throw him on the hat shelf, and then we up and made a bag with a zipper opening to keep him in. Now there's a place for my fox fur, a place that keeps it out of the sun, away from dust, hanging straight and unruffled and ready to put on. And not wanting to keep such good news to myself you can send a self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet which tells you how to make a bag for your fox fur too. Hurry!

• • • •

Au Revoir!

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

THE family name "Stratton" is of English origin, its source being the Old English "straet-tun." It means "the farm or estate near the street," and points to an original place of residence. It was generally given to people who lived near a Roman road. Many towns and hamlets throughout England have been so named because of their location near such roads. As usual, a former residence in one of those towns or hamlets has frequently given rise to the family name. This name and its common variations, "Stratten" and "Strattan," are found with great frequency in the Hundred Rolls, the famous thirteenth century list of English names. A few instances are William de Straton, John de Stratton, Nicholas de Stratton and Ralph de Strattone.

The family name "Hazelton" is of English origin. Its source is the Old English "haesel-tun," which means "the enclosure or farm near the hazel-tree." It belongs to that large group of family names which point out an original place of residence.

The family name "Hathaway" (also spelled "Hatherway" and "Hathway") is of English origin. It means "the path through the heath" or "the path through the heather," and indicates an original place of residence. An English document of the year 1379 includes the name of Willelmus de Haythewy. A London church register dated 1582 records the marriage of Richard Hathewaye and Annie Maddox.

The personal name "Julia" is the feminine form of "Julius." "Julius" is of Latin origin, and means "downy-bearded."

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

CARE OF HERBACEOUS PLANTS.

FROM the middle of June until September the soil, especially among the herbaceous plants, should be turned over once in two weeks. This constant vigilance also accomplishes something else which is a large factor in the attaining of a successful garden. It helps to keep down the weeds. By turning them under you will kill them; fewer and fewer will come up, and those that do come forth will never make much headway.

If we would have our flower beds fulfill their mission and be really "things of beauty" from planting time until frost, we must give them care and attention, especially during July and August. During these warm months we must go over our plants each day and remove all dead or dying flowers or leaves. Florists believe in frequent stirring with a hoe, but not deep enough to injure the roots in any way.

Every time we mow the grass we should take a sharp spade and straighten the edges of our flower borders. This practice keeps the grass from encroaching upon the beds and also keeps them in proper shape and form, giving them a fresh and orderly appearance. There is nothing more unsightly than a flower bed with rough edges. It always detracts from an otherwise charming effect.

Many of the soft-wooded foliage plants, like alternantheras and coleus, should be cut back and not allowed to become straggling. If you do not keep pinching them back, sooner or later the colors will begin to intermingle. The main point is to commence the work of pinching back early and take the tip out of the young growth.

In this way you can scarcely see that the work is going on, your bed is always in order and your plants are healthy. If, however, you neglect them until the plants are quite tall, then you leave stumps showing, and after each pinching back the beds will be unsightly for about two weeks or until the plants again grow out.

When you are pinching the tops out of the plants, better look for weeds and when you detect them remove them. A little systematic work early each morning makes garden work easy and keeps your garden always in good condition.

FINE ROSES

Need fine care. If yours are afflicted with mildew or black spot, you will be glad to know of a remedy which may be made and easily applied by you yourself. If you will write, inclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope, the leaflet giving the formula for an excellent preventive and cure will be sent you immediately.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

ACCORDING to Variety, Sime Silverman's weekly handbook of the profession and summertime solace of dramatic editors, out yesterday, musicals are quietly and unobtrusively tiptoeing back toward the studio stages, some 20-odd at the present moment being in course of preparation.

Utilization of the familiar commodities of the musical comedy stage will be permitted only in the most circumspect and inoffensive manner possible until the attitude of the public toward tunes with its titillating tintypes is definitely determined. That is to say, the customary formula of an army of "line girls," executing about the same steps and the same routines in every picture; the indiscriminate introduction of so-called "song cues," whether they belong or not, the interpolation of solo dances without rhyme or reason, and the other abuses that alienated a patient public a few years ago, now will be strictly taboo.

However, music — properly employed and intelligently introduced—will have its place in many of the pictures being readied for fall release.

Metro has Lawrence Tibbett in "The Cuban," and Bert Lahr in "Flying High," on the way.

Radio schedules "Girl Crazy," "Marcheta," "Other People's Business," "Bird of Paradise" and "The Dove," all calling for numbers, as well as "Consolation Marriage," "Are These Our Children?" and "Secret Service," which will employ strong musical backgrounds for dramatic action.

Paramount plans three: "Love Me Tonight"—although that name is to be changed prior to release—for Maurice Chevalier, now in Paris making exteriors, preliminary to his Riviera vacation; "Rose of the Rancho" and a song-story Ralph Rainger is preparing.

"Palmy Days" is nearly finished at United Artists, and Gloria Swanson, on the same lot, will do "Tonight or Never," the grand opera story in which Helen Gahagan starred for Belasco on the stage. Billie Dove's "Age for Love," a Howard Hughes production, will have a number.

Universal has musical sequences in "Strictly Dishonorable" and "Waterloo Bridge."

Eddie Dowling's "Honeymoon Lane," for Sonoart, will, of course, be a camera and microphone version of his musical comedy hit in which Kate Smith made her Broadway debut.

Fox has another Gershwin opus on the way in "Delicious."

Warner Brothers have "Sideshow" ready, have just released "Men of the Sky," current at the Metropolitan, with "Children of Dreams" on the way.

So if you don't care for music, this coming season is going to be just too bad!

That was a pretty fast one—although it seemed pretty slow while they were waiting for it to eventuate—that Hardie Meakin and M. H. McIntyre pulled on the boys when Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, the round-the-world fliers, were in town on Monday.

It was first arranged that the visiting airmen should proceed to the RKO-Keith Theater to see themselves in celluloid direct from the landing field at 11 a. m. When their arrival was deferred to a later hour by train, it was thought that the specially assembled RKO-Pathe newsreel could be worked into the Press Club program at the Auditorium at 4 p. m., but no provision had been made for projection, so Post and Gatty finally were rushed into the theater at 4:45 o'clock and, at last, had an opportunity to see what their New York reception looked like.

By this time the Messrs. Meakin and McIntyre, what with leaping all over the place and apparently getting nothing but hot and bothered, were fit to be tied, besides being as fresh and sparkling as a couple of limp dishrags, but not half so composed.

Thanks to the efficient servicing of the Western Electric engineers, it was possible to show the special reel again Monday night at the Willard banquet in the fliers' honor, but Mr. Meakin and Mr. McIntyre both were under the care of heart specialists yesterday!

And Rodney Collier, managing director of the Rialto Theater, the lucky, wanderlusting so-and-so, postcards from Quebec that the ginger and other ales, flowing so freely in the capital of the province of the same name, quite refute the rumored threats of another season of serious drought.

Be of Stout (Guinness) heart seems to be Mr. Collier's message!

Willard Mack, the old Georgetown University boy who made good in the city, has terminated his contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer by agreement with Louis B. Mayer, and you may have one guess why!

In case you had wondered what had become of Jacqueline Logan, the former "Follies" girl, she has just signed another contract to continue making talking pictures in London.

Reverting momentarily to Post and Gatty, it seems they had a percentage agreement with Pathe News whereby they were to receive so much per foot on all usable film exposed in a Pathe News camera they had aboard on their record-breaking circumnavigation of the Northern Hemisphere. When they arrived back in New York, Harold Gatty, who is by way of being a bit of a cameraman, turned over about 250 feet of negative, of which Pathe estimated 150 might be satisfactory for practical use. But Pathe got their first recorded words when they landed, and that was something!

If these boys get to Chicago, by the way, I hope somebody will have presence of mind enough to take them for a ride on the Ferris wheel!

FRANCES M'DONALD

Lack of Dignity.

DEAR FRANCES McDONALD: You have helped others so wonderfully that I am coming to you with my little story.

About three years ago a college student occupied a room in our home. There were about six other student friends of this fellow that lived in the neighborhood. The boys had a certain cute whistle that the minute you heard it you always looked to see who it was. Most of the boys have gone, but one still rooms in the neighborhood.

After having several little affairs I soon met the sweetest fellow in the world, and we were married about nine months ago. I'm still working, and we are living with my people. We're both as happy as we can be except when incidents arise which throw a dark cloud over everything.

When we had our first warm spell I went out on the porch to watch my husband doing some work on the lawn. Suddenly I heard that cute whistle and looked up to see the boy. He asked me how I had been all winter. I answered him in a courteous way and asked how he was. My husband got furious and just worked himself into a frizzle. That night we had it out. He didn't want that fellow whistling at me and I wasn't to speak to him from across the street. To keep peace in the family I admitted it was wrong. I still can't see where any harm was done, however.

Everything has been all right until yesterday. I was driving the car home from work with my husband. Just as I drew up in front of our home this fellow was sitting on his steps and waved his hand to me and I waved back. I stopped the car and one look told me I had done wrong again. I immediately asked what was wrong in that and he replied that he didn't want me to have anything to do with that fellow. From that reply one would think I wasted my time with that fellow and when I do see him I only say hello.

This is one time that I'm holding my stand and refuse absolutely to see his way in this case. He claims I make him feel like a fool when I wave to this fellow and I didn't have any business in looking across the street to see him. To me it seems only natural to look around when driving a car.

Now Miss McDonald please tell me if I'm wrong in refusing to snub this fellow or any of my friends. He has as much as told me that he would be perfectly satisfied if I just stuck my nose in the air and never looked at any one.

I've had to give up some of my best girl friends because he didn't want to hear them tell me about their dates and fellows. I had my friends before I ever met him and I expect to acknowledge them as my friends and treat them as such. Thanking you for any advice you may offer.

WORRIED.

My, my, what warm weather you have been having! But hubby happens to be almost right. After all you are married now, and any man expects just a little more dignity on the part of the girl after she has donned the little plain gold band. You know it is not good form for any one, man or woman, to speak across a street. In that the student is grossly at fault and lacking in manners. In answering him you are condoning his lack of deference and lack of breeding. Among young people these things are overlooked, but certainly when a girl marries she should begin to consider good manners and good form. To that extent your husband is 100 per cent right.

Where he is wrong is that even if that student had crossed the street, hat in hand, greeted you as a well-bred man should, and been presented to your husband, there still would have been some unpleasantness I feel sure. That is not as it should be. And you will have to patiently accustom your husband to the thought that you are a human being and expect to have human contacts.

Of course, you may have married a man just a little more dignified than average, or one who has enjoyed more social advantages than you have. His objection to your selection of girl friends suggests that. You know it is amusing to listen to what passes for conversation among some girls. But amusement would turn to disgust if one had to hear that sort of thing in one's own home.

Try to figure out your husband's side of things. If you have a worthwhile man to deal with, censor your own conduct to meet his expectations. A husband means more than a girl friend or a dozen girl friends.

And no nice married woman permits her men friends to whistle at her. So hubby is not so far wrong.

World Connoisseurs Meet To Taste 350 Rare Wines

Will Take Whole Month and Must Be Sampled With Soul Mate Dishes, Yet Little of Viands Is Drunk by Tasters.

London, July 7 (A.P.).—Epicures of three continents—Europe, Australia and America—are gathered in London to taste and pass judgment upon some rare old wipes of proven worth and some newer upstarts which yet must make their way in the world.

Meeting at the Savoy Hotel, the international wine tasters contend that every wine has a dish which is its soul mate. For example very rare red claret "Chateau Margaux 1914" was served at a luncheon with pie made of grapefed pigeons and trimmed with wild mushrooms.

A "Winkler Hasensprung 1925" noted for its raciness was served with filets of sole cooked in butter and lying on a bed of aubergines.

James Murfin, of Detroit, is head of the American committee of the wine tasters conference. He is regarded as a connoisseur and keeps a well-stocked cellar in the Savoy for the use of his guests.

The connoisseur lifts a glass to his lips, mulling it with his hands, sniffing its bouquet and rolling a drop or so under his tongue to get the taste. There is very little drinking actually done.

Tastings will proceed for a month. Among the 350 rare vintages to be tasted is a bottle of 1810 Madeira which, when in the cask, was taken twice around the world in a sailing ship to bring it to perfection.

Culbertson on Contract

by Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

"THE SIGH AND KICK OF PSYCHIC."

IN contract, to a greater extent than in any other game I know, it is possible to win with bad cards. I am running a great risk of stating an epidemic of foolish psychic bids by even introducing the subject of psychic or skillful bluff bidding in this series. There has been some confusion on two points; one dealing with the ethics of psychic bids and the other dealing with idiotic bluff bids.

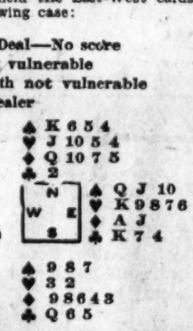
Surprise tactics are perfectly ethical and are sanctioned among the best players, provided no private understanding of any kind exists between partners. It is the basis of Card Constitution that any one has a right to bid and play his hand as he sees fit; it is the basis of Card Ethics that a private understanding between partners, be it even tacit, is a gross violation of the code of sportsmanship, amounting to cheating. With this stringent proviso surprise bids are a legitimate and interesting part of Contract tactics. They are eminently fair because in attempting to misinform the opponents, the same, and sometimes even greater, chance is taken of misleading the partner.

The writer has always objected to the so-called fake bids indulged in by premature Bridge psychologists, which consist in bidding a suit, of which the player holds but a singleton, in the hope of confusing the opponents. This objection, however, is voiced not on the grounds of ethics but on the grounds of stupidity. For instance, a fake bid of one spade with a hand such as

Spade — — —
Heart A K 7 6 4 3
Diamond A 9 8 2
Club K 5 4

is perfectly ethical but also moronic. A "psychic" is especially effective when employed against such unskilled bidders as held the East-West cards in the following case:

Contract Deal—No score
East-West vulnerable
North-South not vulnerable
North—Dealer



North passed and East, being a quick-trick bidder rather than an honor-trick bidder, and requiring at least a trick in the bid suit, passed, although had he been playing the Approach Forcing System he would have bid one heart. All passed up to West who, Fourth Hand, bid one club. North passed and the weak East now bid one heart.

South, at this point, decided that if anything was going to be done about the game which was evidently looming up against his side, it had to be done at this point and without any excuse in the world except an overwhelming desire to annoy, as much as possible a pair of notoriously weak opponents, he bid two diamonds. West bid two hearts and North, with ample strength to do so, assisted his partner's psychic flight by bidding three diamonds.

East then supported the clubs. South passed and West, opposite a partner who had passed originally, saw in his King deuce of diamonds and two spade losers the possibility of going down 1 trick even on a bid of four clubs, and also passed.

The deal was played at four clubs. Declarer took six tricks odd but scored only the partial score of 80 points below the line and 100 to over-tricks.

The bidding should have been as follows:

North	East	South	West
Pass	1 ♥	Pass	3♣ (1)
Pass	5 ♣	Pass	Pass (2)
Pass

1—A Forcing Takeout, a bid of one more than necessary for a regulation Takeout, forcing the partnership to keep the bidding open until at least a game declaration is reached. The East-West hands have shown not less than 5½ honor-tricks; 2½ by East's bid of one heart and 3 by West's Forcing bid. The 5½ honor-tricks indicated are usually sufficient to produce game. (Rule of Eight.)

2—A daring West would bid for the Slam but he can not be sure that East's Opening bid, showing 2½ tricks, was not based upon some such holding as the following:

Spade K x
Heart K J x x x
Diamond A x
Club x x x x

in which case a Slam contract might be set.

After keeping the East-West pair out of a game and possibly a Slam, North and South took a game, then set East and West 6 points and finally won a 500 rubber, giving them a profit of not less than 1,800 points.

Tie that with thirteen moth-eaten rags at any game!

Today's Pointer.

A biddable suit in the Approach Forcing System is any four-card suit headed by 1½ honor-tricks, a five-card suit headed by ½ an honor-trick or a six-card suit headed by no honor-tricks—always provided, of course, that in the position of Dealer or Second hand, the hand contains 2½ tricks or if in the Third and Fourth Hand position, 3 honor-tricks.

TOURISTS WRECKING LINDBERGH'S HOME

Devastation Is Wrought by Souvenir Hunters in Minnesota.

Little Falls, Minn., July 7 (U.P.). The contemplated journey of the Lindberghs to the Orient focuses attention upon the past exploits of the "flying colonel."

Perhaps the least known place is Lindbergh's boyhood home, a short distance south of here.

The tourist who seeks his birthplace will be disappointed if he expects to find the road well marked. He is told to drive "west of the Mississippi River Bridge, then turn left at the Swedish Church, this side of Pine Grove Park." Upon following these directions the tourist finds an ordinary sand road.

After following the road for a mile and a half, he enters a "State game refuge," really the first effort of Minnesota to honor Lindbergh.

Cardboard Sign.

Driving through this park, one finds tacked to a lone evergreen tree an old piece of cardboard on which is printed the sign, "Picnic Grounds," and in smaller letters, "Lindy's Home."

At the left is a dilapidated frame house, boarded up, with broken windows and much writing, clearly visible even from the road.

Entering the grounds an old gentleman, wearing the star of a Minnesota deputy sheriff, appeared.

"You're lookin' for Lindy's?" he demanded. "This is it. It was a swell place once. Now look at it. Tourists have made a mess of it."

Inquiry developed the information that the Lindbergh homestead has been the object of "unwelcome" tourists since Col. Charles A. Lindbergh flew his Spirit of St. Louis across the Atlantic Ocean in 1927.

"I don't mind these folks that come up here and are polite," he continued, "but these young folks that climb into the house, break windows, and the like, and steal even the locks off doors, get my goat!"

He said that Minnesota, which has taken over the grounds for the purpose of reconstructing the house in its original state, and make a State park of it, is doing what it can with the limited funds at its disposal.

Tourist Lust.

Inside were pitiable evidences of tourists' lust. What had once been a beautiful mahogany cabinet stood in a corner, propped up by stray lumber because some tourist had stolen its solid base and even the glass which once had covered the doors.

An oak cabinet which had contained law books owned by "Lindy's" father, one-time congressman of the district, was empty. They were valued at several hundred dollars.

Throughout the house the destruction was the same. In the basement was what was left of the old Saxon open touring car which Lindbergh had once driven from this house to Little Falls before he knew much of aerial navigation. Some of the wheels and bits of the chassis, too heavy to carry away, remained. Little was left of a private water system which had been installed many years before by "Lindy's" father.

On the second floor, where "Lindy" had had his boyhood workshop, were mutilated doors, sagging because more souvenir hunters had stripped even the hinges.

High up in the gable of the roof was written in huge letters the name of some young man from an Eastern State. Another bit of lettering proclaimed to the world that "so-and-so" had just been married. Beside it, another honeymoon couple, not to be outdone by the first, broadcast their bliss in even larger letters.

There is not a single inch of wainscoating on the house which has not been written upon.

Woman Asks Town To Redeem Old Warrant

Mexico, Mo., July 7 (U.P.).—Mexico city officials today had mailed to Mrs. Edna L. McNamee, of Chewelah, Wash., a new $1 warrant to redeem a scrip issued by the city in 1873.

Mrs. McNamee, in presenting the 58-year-old scrip, said it had been in her family about half a century.

City records revealed that for several years after the Civil War such scrip issues were frequent, and that this $1 warrant was part of the last authorized.

MONEY BOOTLEGGER BIG WORRY TO SPAIN

Carabineers at Borders Have Hands Full to Prevent Export of Cash.

Mairid, July 7 (A.P.).—Spain's carabineers now have their hands full, and their new worries are shared by the republic's treasury department.

Besides keeping illegal imports from coming into the country, the border patrol must keep the country's cash from going out.

Soon after the establishment of the republic, Indalecio Prieto, minister of finance, decreed that no Spaniard could take more than 5,000 pesetas, about $500 in American money, out of the country.

His purpose was to stop a financial stampede of persons whose nerves could not stand the strain of governmental transition.

Hence the money bootleggers. Many of them are people of high social standing and dukes, counts and rich merchants have found their way into the records of border carabineers or republican jails.

The ink had hardly dried on Minister Prieto's decree when dispatches from border cities told of arrests of persons who had made several frontier crossings, each time with 5,000 pesetas.

Customs vigilance then was doubled, and money running now shows more subtlety.

One prominent banker remarked that everybody in Spain seemed to be going into the orange business—an export business offering easy and legitimate transfer of funds to other countries.

Also, in commercial circles it is said many invoices accompanying imported wares have shown surprising increases in purchase prices.

Has Shaved Fourteen Governors.

Boston, July 7 (U.P.).—John H. Charleston, who operates the Statehouse barber shop, has shaved every Massachusetts governor, fourteen of them, since the administration of the late Gov. Roger Wolcott. The veteran opened for business in 1897.

Two Zoo Hyenas Kill Wolf in Cage

Salt Lake City, Utah, July 7 (U.P.) A wolf might have been a match against one hyena, but he couldn't withstand the charge of two.

Salt Lake Zoo keepers found that out the other day when they discovered the door between the hyena and wolf cages open. Inside the wolf's home was found the body of its inhabitant. The hyenas had managed to open the door and, simultaneously, sprang upon the wolf and killed it.

Prisoners Hold Homecoming Party

Detroit, July 7 (U.P.).—Fellow prisoners gave a home-coming party the other day when Anthony Marawski returned to his old place at the House of Correction. Cell No. 192 was cleaned out and ready when Marawski arrived.

Marawski is "in" for his usual offense, nonpayment of alimony. The term is a year. It is the eighth time he has been sent to the house for the same offense. In all he has served 1,023 days on previous commitments.

American Women Are Seen as Bosses

French Critic Marvels Over Obedience Here of Husbands.

Philadelphia, July 7 (U.P.).—American women order American men to do things for them that no Frenchwoman would think of suggesting to her husband, according to Mlle. Marguerite Raoulx.

"I felt embarrassed when I saw women ordering their men around," the vivacious French fashion expert declared. "It is always, 'Oh, Charlie, close the window,' or 'Pick up that.'

"In France it is different. The petite mademoiselle or the grande madame would never dare to tell monsieur what to do—at least in public.

"The French women always let the man think he is the boss; they would not think of telling him before other persons what is right to do.

"But I like the way you American women act."

Bluege sends Simmons back to the wall for his fly in the fourth . . . And you can hear the crash in the press box . . . Boley slams the A's third hit over Harry Rice's head for a double in the fifth . . . All of their hits have been doubles . . . And Earnshaw wipes the sweat from his eyes and makes the A's fourth hit . . . Also a double . . . That brings in Boley with the tying run . . . Earnshaw is rapidly taking rank as a hitting pitcher . . . He doesn't swing with that same air of resignation and futility that is considered stylish among big league pitchers . . . But takes a man's cut at the ball . . . The run broke up the A's streak of scoreless innings against Washington pitchers . . . Which had reached 15 . . . Including three by Marberry on Sunday . . . Eight by Hadley on Monday and four by Crowder . . . Fischer and Bolton best themselves in the bullpen when Crowder walks Boley . . . And Bluege ducks in in Joe Dugan's best approved manner to make a one-handed stop and throw of Hass' bunt . . . Averting imminent disaster . . . And Kuhel gets in the way of Cochrane's liner to end the inning . . . Johnson remembers how the Nats bunted Earnshaw to defeat on Sunday . . . And Kuhel got the sign in the fifth . . . But his first two attempts went foul . . . And he went down swinging like a pinwheel . . . Spencer pops to Boley high in the stratosphere . . . And Crowder drags his bat to the plate with all the alacrity of a member of the chain gang . . . The game's slowest moving pitcher . . . He makes a snail look like a rocket . . . Jimmy Dykes fouls one into the stands . . . It cascades down the rows and back onto the field . . . And a poacher scrambles out after it . . . Pure thievery . . . The ball belongs to Mr. Griffith . . . Ha. Ha . . . Dykes fouls four more . . . Crowder must have something on the ball . . . And Dykes lams a scorcher between short and third . . . But Bluege snares it in the webbing of his glove . . . One of his copyrighted stops . . . And Dykes is out . . . By twenty feet, no less . . . Gov. Ritchie also in a field box . . . Watching some of his Baltimore boys with the A's . . . Boley and Bishop and Earnshaw . . . Myer streaks to first on a bouncer to Boley . . . And is safe . . . Boley withers Dineen with a look and Dineen politely turns his back. Manush still trying for his hundredth hit . . . And gets it on a screamer down the first base line . . . That handcuffs Jimmy Foxx . . . Who is not the world's greatest fielding first baseman . . . And Harry Rice scampers to third with great rapidity . . . Cronin still trying for his hundredth hit . . . And draws three straight balls from Earnshaw . . . Cochrane calls the pitcher into conference . . . And a strike comes sailing over . . . So does another . . . But Cronin bunts in down the first base line . . . Scoring Rice . . . But he is out at first . . . Sammy West misses two strikes by two feet aggregate . . . Fouls two and the count is three and two . . . And misses the third strike by one more foot . . . A slow ball that catches him off balance . . . Mr. Earnshaw is using the old noodle for something other than a stabilizer . . . Crowder walks Boley on five pitches opening the seventh . . . And there is more activity in the Nat's bullpen . . . 3 Youths Win Posts on City Golf Team

Burton, Connelly and Will Top Municipal Qualifying.

Will Go to St. Paul; 15-Year-Old Boy Among Squad.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

BRADLEY H. BURROWS, Robert Burton, Harlan Will and John J. Connelly will represent the District public links as the Washington Team at the national public links championship tournament to be held at St. Paul, Minn., during the first week in August. Burrows was automatically eligible to compete by reason of qualifying at Jacksonville last year but the other three players yesterday came through a field of 59 golfers in three 18-hole rounds, medal play, on the East Potomac Park course.

Burton led the field with a total of 232, while Will and Connelly tied at 233. Burton's score was all the more remarkable because he was not among the leaders at the end of the first 18 holes and his chances had apparently gone glimmering when he played the forenoon round yesterday in 83 strokes. However, he went out and under the hot sun shot the first nine of the afternoon struggle in 34, followed by a 36 for the second nine. His 70 was the best 18-hole round of the day.

Connelly Leads Field In Morning.

When all the cards had been turned in for the morning round Connelly led with a total of 154, closely followed by Will with 156 and Wesley Billings, whose name was at the head of the list at the close of the first day, with 157. W. H. Miller, who had tied with Billings, each 77, at the end of the first round, had blown up with 87 strokes and was out of the running. Burton was far in the rear with 162 and not until he reported his nine in 34 was he regarded as a contender, although no other player had scored better than 37. Connelly was so far in the lead that he merely had to coast home. He might easily have won the medal instead of Burton but unfortunately took three strokes over par on the last three holes.

The remarkable feature of the result is that no team ever went from Washington to a public links championship composed of so many young golfers. Burrows, a poultry dealer in the Western Market, is the veteran of the quartet and he is only 24 years of age. Burton, who recently graduated from Tech High School, where

Chisox Rally in 12th To Beat Browns, 10-8

St. Louis, July 7 (A.P.).—Big Chad Kimsey, slugging pitcher for the Browns, weakened momentarily in the twelfth inning here today and the Chicago White Sox took the final game of the series, 10-8. Kimsey, pinch hitting for Walter Stewart in the ninth, cracked out a home run to tie the score. In the twelfth Simons drove in Watwood and Blue with a sizzling single for the margin of victory.

Red Faber, who relieved Thomas in the eighth, was credited with the victory. No strike outs were registered during the twelve innings.

September Battle Is Arranged by Garden and Joe Jacobs.

Commission's Ban on Both May Force Bout Out of State.

By HENRY M'LEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent).

NEW YORK, July 7 (U.P.).—Primo Carnera—the ambling Alp to you—who, according to his own managerial board of control is unfit to meet first-flight competition, has been named to meet Max Schmeling for the world's heavyweight championship in September.

Carnera was elected as the champion's next opponent today following a conference between Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager, and President William F. Carey, of Madison Square Garden. Tomorrow Jacobs, Carey and Leon See, Carnera's boss-herder, will go into a huddle and make things official. The most official act, by the way, will be the posting of a $25,000 forfeit by See.

Side-Track of Carnera Was Expected.

Prior to today's developments it was believed that the cumbersome Italian would be sidetracked in favor of the winner of the July 22 bout between Mickey Walker, one-time king of the 160-pounders, and Jack Sharkey, the strong man from Boston.

However, Joe Jacobs, cautious to a fault, informed the Garden he preferred Carnera to Sharkey or any man who could whip the Bostonian. Jacobs' preference is not hard to understand when it is remembered that Sharkey all but knocked Schmeling's ears off before fouling the German in their 1930 bout.

Carnera's selection means that unless the New York State Athletic Commission has a change of heart, the title bout will not be held in this State. Schmeling's title was vacated and the champion suspended when he refused to defend his title against Sharkey here this summer.

Carnera, who has had his share of troubles since landing in this country, is likely to be suspended a second time by the New York Commission for his dealings with Schmeling. Under the commission's rules a fighter who deals with a suspended boxer is subject to suspension himself.

Carnera came up for discussion at the commission meeting today. The ring moguls notified See that in the future all of Carnera's opponents must be approved by them and that all "exhibitions" were out.

FLORIDA RACING BODY MEETS

ON THE SIDELINES by BRIAN BELL

THE boys can refrain from dusting off the old stories that Dempsey will fight again. He never will. The Manassa Mauler expects to climb into hundreds of rings in the next few years, but he will put on no gloves inside the inclosure. Instead he will watch the leather-covered hands of two other fellows. Dempsey, the former champion, now has an ambition to be the champion referee, but fighter, no sir.

"The old urge is gone," says Jack. "I feel that I could not justify the ambitions of my friends were I to go back. I also know that I could not be at my physical best.

"I will be 36 in June, three or four years past the accepted fighting limit. I have kept in fair shape and have tried to work myself up to intensive training but the spark is not there."

THE GAME'S BEEN GOOD.

Dempsey expects to remain very close to the boxing game and never will be very far away.

"The game's been good to me," he says, "and I'm attached to it for keeps. I'll referee, or promote, and hope to be right in there at the finish.

"If I had a son I would want him to be in the game, too. The game makes of you what you make of yourself.

"I'm enjoying the popularity that seems to roost with me now. I can't explain and don't try. Possibly the public feels that I gave the best I had and tried to be a man about it in defeat and they've been a lot nicer to former Champion Dempsey than they were to Champion Dempsey."

Dempsey is making a "comfortable living" from his activities as a referee. He describes his financial condition as fair, "not thin, not fat."

Speaking of financial matters, he sums it up:

"I saved, lost through some unfortunate speculations and have given away several chunks. Only hope I can make enough to still give a lot away to less fortunate pals."

WILLARD NO PALOOKA.

Tom Jones is one man in the fight game who will offer rebuttal in any debate based on the statement that Jess Willard was not a great champion.

"When Jess fought Jack Johnson at Havana he could have whipped any man in the world," Jones declares.

Jess was a great all-around athlete. He could run, jump, swim, and ride horseback as well as any of them.

"Willard's chief trouble was that when he became champion he refused to have anything to do with his old associates.

"Jess told me the reason for this was that some of them never had given him any consideration before he became champion and after he won the title and amounted to something in the business, he refused to have anything to do with them."

Alexandria Sports

ALEXANDRIA, Va., July 7.—"We expect to stage a big water carnival the latter part of the month," Prex Wilson, director of the municipal playground system, announced today. The aquatic events scheduled here for Saturday, July 4, were postponed because of lack of entries.

An elaborate summer program for the youngsters who visit the playgrounds is planned by Wilson. He plans to organize baseball leagues, a tennis tournament and also proposes to stage the Alexandria horse-shoe finals on the grounds at the municipal pool.

Wilson is coaching the American Legion Juniors, who will enter the State championship junior baseball series at Danville in August. The players are working out daily and the squad has been cut from 40 players to 15.

The Virginia Juniors will travel to Fredericksburg, Va., on Friday for a game with the Elks Juniors. This is the second game of a series. The Virginia Juniors won the first encounter, 8 to 2. The following players will make the trip: Francis Gorman, Dickie Elift, L. Baber, M. Carr, H. Gensmer, F. Pullman, H. Travers, M. Nugent, L. Schriener, L. Scott, K. Mumford, G. Zimmerman, J. Sperling, and J. Hudson. Dickie Clift will pitch.

The Del Ray Athletic Club will mix with the Aancostia Eagles in a contest on Edward Duncan Field on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Manager Ted Miller completed arrangements for the game today.

Robins Clout Timely To Down Phillies, 5-1

Philadelphia, July 7 (A.P.).—Timely hitting behind the steady pitching of Babe Phelps gave the Brooklyn Robins a 5 to 1 triumph over the Phils today and squared the series. The victory pulled the Robins within a half-game of second place.

Finn drove in the first Brooklyn run in the second with an outfield fly and Babe Herman sent two more across in the third with a double after Frederick and Gilbert had walked. Successive singles by Wright, Finn and Lopez after O'Doul had walked proved the last two in the sixth.

CUBS DEFEAT CARDINALS IN PAIR

Dan Taylor's Pinch Triple Wins 2d, 6-3; Opener Is Rout.

CHICAGO, July 7 (A.P.).—Dan Taylor, pinch hitter for Jurges in the eighth inning with the bases loaded, drove a double to left field, cleaning the bases and giving the Cubs a 6 to 3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in the second game of a double-header today. The Cubs won the opener, 14 to 2, and advanced to third place by the clean sweep.

Flint Rhem was opposed by Bush, Malone and Blake, Malone getting credit for the victory. Bush departed after three runs had been scored off him, giving St. Louis the lead.

Malone turned back the Cardinals in order during the seventh and eighth, and then the Bruins struck. Hornsby singled, Stephenson forced him and Hartnett fanned. But Grimm doubled to center and Blair, a pinch hitter, was purposely passed.

Dan Taylor batted for Jurges and doubled to left scoring the three runners. English singled to score Taylor with a superfluous run. Blake held St. Louis safe in the ninth.

GROVE IS DUE TO TWIRL TODAY

Brown on Mound for Nats in Effort to Cut A's Lead.

NEXT to seeing his team win ball games, Connie Mack, Philadelphia manager, gets his greatest delight in crossing the scribes as to his probable starting pitcher. Yesterday, everyone figured that he would give his mound assignment to Lefty Grove, so what does Connie do but let Roy Mahaffey do the warming up before the game and then, at the last minute, switch to George Earnshaw.

Connie certainly won the guessing contest this time, for no one had any idea that the big right-hander would do a comeback after having toiled in a tight game Sunday, only two days back.

The dope is that Mac will use Grove today, an open date on the schedule which is being used to play off Monday's no decision game, but you never can tell. Manager Walter Johnson plans to use Lloyd Brown, who has complained that he has not been getting enough work. He should get it today, as both teams will be out to cop the game, which carries with it the series edge and means a difference of six and a half games or four and a half games between the leaders and the home gang.

Play was delayed a few moments yesterday while Umpire Dineen helped escort the movie men, gathered in front of President Hoover's box, off the field.

Bishop greeted Crowder like a long-lost brother, crashing his first pitch to deep right-center. Fast handling of the ball, West to Cronin to Bluege, nipped the runner at third, much to the delight of the cash customers.

Haas, second up, also hit the ball hard, but Heinie Manush snared the liner.

Earnshaw walked Manush on four straight balls with two dead in the Nats' opener, but this helped none because the game was played here instead of in Philadelphia. In the Elephants' menage, Cronin's looper to left, which followed, would have been a home run.

West opened the second with a

Breaks Up Box Duel of Earnshaw and Crowder.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

PRESIDENT HERBERT HOOVER, accompanied by Mrs. Hoover and several dignitaries of the Government, was among the 13,000 who turned out to see the Nationals and Mackmen battle yesterday. It is said he has never seen the Washington Club win or the Philadelphia Club lose since he became head of the Nation, and perhaps this can be blamed for the Nats' 7-to-3 defeat, which sent them five and a half games back of the leaders.

But the President can not be held entirely responsible, for a costly and unnecessary error by Third-baseman Ossie Bluege is what actually spilled the beans after "Lady Luck" had stepped in and caused a double-play tap off Mule Haas' bat to hop over Buddy Myer's head in the seventh, when the visitors came from behind and scored enough runs to give them victory.

Nats Leading Until Seventh.

The Nationals were leading, 2 to 1, when the seventh round opened. Boley coaxed a walk and Pitcher George Earnshaw fanned. Then Bishop singled the runner to third and Haas rolled sharply to Myer. With a twin-killing in sight, the ball hopped over the second-sacker's head for a hit and the tying run scored, with Bishop going to third. On Cochrane's bounder to Kuhel, Bishop was trapped between third and home and it was here that Bluege handed the A's the game on a silver platter.

Had Catcher Roy Spencer done his bit, Bluege would not have made his miscue. Bluege took Kuhel's throw and pegged to Spencer. The latter should have run Bishop back toward third and nailed him with one throw or at least have touched one of the runners, for Haas also had advanced to third on the rundown. But Spencer and Bluege played a game of long-distance catch and it was during this that one of the third baseman's pegs hit Bishop on the shoulder and bounded toward the Philadelphia dugout. Before the ball could be retrieved, both Bishop and Haas scored. Crowder then intentionally passed Simmons and Miller ended things by hitting into a double play.

SCHMELING'S VICTORY IS REGARDED AS BOON TO BOXING

German's Win Is Boon to Boxing

Schmeling Now Ripe to Restore "Gates" of Dempsey Era.

Max Demonstrates He Is True Champion in Title Defense.

By CHARLES DUNKLEY.

CHICAGO, July 7 (A.P.).—Max Schmeling's decisive victory over Young Stribling was the biggest stimulant the boxing industry has received since the days when Jack Dempsey built the heavyweight championship into a pot of gold.

It also proved that Schmeling is a world's heavyweight champion in about every sence of the word, a title-holder game and enduring. Whatever doubt there was—and there appeared to be plenty—concerning Schmeling's right to the title was convincingly dispelled by his achievement in battering the pride of the South into submission to the surprise of the boxing world.

Few titleholders had ever been so overwhelmingly picked to lose a fight as was Schmeling up to the time he entered the ring to face Stribling. It could not be attributed to personal unpopularity, for Schmeling has the personality that makes friends. It was simply because the great majority of fight experts could not make themselves believe that he was a real champion after Schmeling acquired the title on a foul from Jack Sharkey.

Ridiculed Since Gaining Title.

The foul ending of that fight left a sour taste with the public, which refused to take the new titleholder seriously. He was subjected to more than his share of ridicule in the thirteen months that passed between the time he won the title and his defense of it.

But Schmeling proved his class, proved himself a true champion who is going to be mighty tough to dethrone. He displayed stamina, power and perfect physical condition that was almost unbelievable. He never took a deep breath once during the fifteen rounds and absorbed Stribling's blows with a smile.

Schmeling revealed that he had developed a left hand that was comparable to Stribling's, one of the cleverest heavyweights of recent years. He also showed that he had improved his right hand, developed a short uppercut, delivered from the inside that seriously damaged his challenger. It was in his ability to box that Schmeling was a distinct surprise. Before the Stribling battle Schmeling was regarded as only a tough fellow, capable of assimilating punishment and retaining enough of his strength and punching ability to make it always dangerous, but in exchanges with the Georgia heavyweight Schmeling frequently outjabbed him.

Absorbed Punches Skilfully.

Although Schmeling appeared to take more punches than necessary he was a very deceiving catcher. He took lots of them on his gloves, elbows or shoulders, blocking skillfully.

The heavyweight situation has been tremendously improved in a financial way by Schmeling's victory. The heavyweight champion is the hub around which the sport revolves and if the public is interested in him, his popularity is reflected in the gate receipts. Now that Schmeling has proved himself a worthy champion, the sport will benefit.

Compulsory callisthenics at school, rough and tumble games outdoors, endowed Schmeling with a marvelous physique. He is a big fellow, weighing 190 pounds and more than 6 feet tall. His shoulders are broad, his arms more corded with muscles than most fighters. His hands and feet are big and the tendons prominent. His face tapers to a chin that is almost pointed and rakes back to a muscular jaw, a jaw that can take a terrific wallop with apparently no stunning effect.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

THE Great Black Slug has approximately 30,000 minute pointed teeth arranged on its tongue or "lingual ribbon," a membrane lying on the back of its throat. These teeth, which are composed of chitin, a hard, brittle substance, are used to break up the animal's food. The teeth arranged on the tongue resemble the ancient "coat-of-mail," with its overlapping scales. The Black Slug can erect or depress the teeth at will. Strange as it seems, with all its 30,000 teeth, it is exceptional if the slug ever uses them for biting.

The 12-wheeled "cycle" was built for the use of the students of the Royal Normal College for the Blind, in England. It measures 28 feet in length and the riders sit in flexibly connected units, enabling the "mechanical centipede" to negotiate curves easily. An instructor with vision steers the "bicycle" for the blind students.

A large, flat slab represents the grave of Charlotte Temple, yet this Charlotte Temple never lived! The grave could be more aptly termed a monument to a book, for the name inscribed thereon refers to the heroine of a novel written by Mrs. Susannah Haswell, in 1794, entitled "Charlotte Temple, or a Tale of Truth."

RACE STAKES TO WHITNEY HORSES

Avenger and Elysium Star at Aqueduct and Arlington.

By ORLO ROBERTSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

NEW YORK, July 7 (A.P.).—The famous light blue and brown topped silks of C. V. Whitney played an important role in the feature races of the American turf today as Avenger, a 3-year-old filly, won the Gazelle Stakes at Aqueduct and Elysium, also a 3-year-old, accounted for the mile and seventy-yard event at Latonia.

The triumph of Avenger handed the talent a setback as Preston M. Burch's Tambour, winner of the Coaching Club American Oaks at Belmont Park, was made the 1-to-3 favorite. Tambour, as usual, cut out the running, but Sonny Workman closed ground fast with the Whitney miss in the drive for home, and she got up in time to win by a neck. Fifteen lengths back of Avenger, which paid 3 to 1, followed G. B. Dioguardi's 100-to-1 shot, Lillie D, to take the show from the Belair Stud's Peake, the only other starter.

Whitney Jinx In Wet Broken.

Elysium's victory broke the jinx which has been clinging to the Whitney Western division since the Churchill Downs meeting. The Whitney colt was made the even-money favorite, but he was forced to come from behind in the stretch to overtake Journey's End, which led at one time in the stretch by four lengths.

Overlay, W. H. Whitehouse's consistent 3-year-old filly, loomed strongly as a Latonia Oaks possibility when she showed the way home to a good band of older sprinters in the Sedamsville Purse. She showed excellent speed to lead the Greentree Stable's Justinian and Baylor Hickman's Fairy Ring to the wire in 1:12 3-5 for the 6 furlongs. The Whitehouse Miss paid $8.75.

Willis Sharpe Kilmer's 6-year-old handicap performer, Sun Beau, made an effort to give a band of speedy rivals 17 or more pounds, but finished third in the Lemar Stock Farm's Morsel and H. M. Woolf's' Best Man in the Iowa Handicap at Arlington Park.

It was Sun Beau's first start since winning the Philadelphia Handicap at Havre de Grace, and although he made up considerable ground in the stretch, he could not catch the leaders. Best Man set the early pace, but was a half-length back of Morsel at the finish of the mile, which was run in 1:36 1-5. Morsel paid $16.22.

Yankee, Norse Craft Meet Today for Cup

Gothenberg, Sweden, July 7 (A.P.). The Norwegian 6-meter yacht Abu won her second victory today in the preliminary races for the gold cup and will meet the American boat Cherokee tomorrow in the final event over a 15-mile triangular course.

Sweden's defending champion, Jan, failed to qualify for the final. Cherokee won yesterday's race.

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)
—Arlington Park Selections—
By J. B. SNODGRASS.

ARLINGTON PARK, Chicago, July 7.—A banner crowd is expected to witness the Lassie Stakes, a $10,000 added event for 2-year-old fillies, which will be dispatched over the 5½-furlong distance of the feature attraction at Arlington Park tomorrow. A field of twenty-five nominations were received in the overnight list, with H. P. Headley naming two. J. Leiter contemplates sending three youngsters after the rich prize, while the Middleburg Stable has entered two sterling fillies.

PRINCESS CAMELIA, PRINCESS A. O. and PRINCESS IVRE will carry the Leiter colors in the headliner. All have trained well, but the latter appears to have a decided edge on her two companions in the matter of speed. MARCASITE, coupled with WHITE FLIER, as the Middleburg Stable entry, will gain considerable support when the field parades to the post. The former has displayed keen speed in recent efforts and should offer stern opposition to the Leiter trio. SEVEN VEILS raced Colonial Belle to a head in a fast five and a half furlong race last start and should get into the money. NEVADA QUEEN and POLONAISE are two outside possibilities.

FIRST RACE—A limit field of maiden 2-year-old colts and geldings will contest the purse in the opening 5½-furlong dash. MEXICO, from the S. W. Labrot Stable, has turned in some favorable efforts in recent races and figures best of those named to oppose him. SAZERA raced impressively in his Chicago deput to finish second to PORTDEN. With room for improvement, LETELLIER will be the one to fear. MINTON tired last start after forcing the pace and may last to gain the short end of the purse.

SECOND RACE—Seven have been entered in the 2-mile steeplechase, which is second on the card. NAT CLYMAN, from the Rignam McKinney Stable, and ridden by his capable owner, appears the logical choice. MADIOLA, carrying the Mrs. F. A. Clark colors, has raced well and figures to furnish the opposition, with TOD SLOAN favored for the minor award.

THIRD RACE—Another large field will parade to the post when twenty 3-year-olds and upward will be sent over the 6-furlong ground in the third. GOLD MINT has shown the most consistent form of this band of platers and rates the call. HOPEFIELD has trained briskly after a brief letup and appears ready to contest the issue. BOURBON MAID raced well at Bainbridge and should account for a portion of the purse.

FIFTH RACE—A select list of ten sprinters is scheduled to match strides in the 7 furlongs of the fifth, which will be contested under allowance conditions. BATTLESHIP, from the W. J. Salmon string, turned in a brilliant winning effort last start, and under the same conditions figures to duplicate. KNIGHT COMMANDER raced well in his last start, but may falter at the distance. The Audley Farm racer rates the place call. DARK SEA, from the H. M. Woolf Stable, a winner at this track, is capable of taking down the important money.

SIXTH RACE—Six of the leading 3-year-old fillies will be dispatched over the mile route of the sixth. Mrs. J. D. Hertz's smart filly, RISQUE, considered the champion of her division, is conceding weight to her five rivals. Despite her impost of 112 pounds, the Hertz color bearer should romp to an easy victory. Several of the entrants will receive their final preparation for the Arlington Oaks. DARK MAGNET has turned in some fast workouts and should finish in the runner-up position. MICHIGAN GIRL appears best of the others for the show.

SEVENTH RACE—Only six 3-year-olds and upward have been entered in the mile and an eighth of the seventh event, under claiming conditions. LAHOR, consistent colt in the Jones' Stock Farm string, scored easily in his last start at this distance and should repeat. GALAHAD raced far below his best form last outing and is capable of a better showing. The P. Reuter racer is given the place call, with AMYVALE as the show selection.

EIGHTH RACE—ANN CLAY appears best of the limit field which will contest the purse in the mile gallop of the final contest. The G. W. Ogle plater appears well suited by the conditions and should score. BUBOLA turned in a splendid effort last start and rates the place call, with ST. AGNES favored for the minor share of the purse.

CARNIVAL AT J. C. C.

The Jewish Community Center will hold a boys' athletic carnival tomorrow on its new recreational field at 3410 Georgia avenue, beginning at 2 p. m. The program, arranged by Director of Athletics Jim McNamara, will consist of competitive games and a track meet for Hebrew schools and clubs. Individual prizes will be awarded. Tiny Roebuck, Washington's leading heavyweight wrestler, will serve as starter for the track races.

BURKE'S BIG ASSET IS IRONS

Short Game and Putting Won Title for New Champion.

NEW YORK, July 7 (U.P.).—Bill Burke, newly crowned United States open golf champion, will be a distinct asset to the game. Golf in this country has had a kindly fate, which has always seen to it that a worthy linksman becomes monarch of the Nation's players.

Burke, born Burkowski, the Lithuanian professional of the Round Hill Club, at Greenwich, Conn., who bested George Von Elm, of Los Angeles, in their two 36-hole play-offs for the title at Toledo, is an ideal champion.

He looks like the golfer he is. Of medium stature, he is nearly swarthy, with a finely chisled face and an engaging smile which is, however, seldom seen when he is playing under pressure.

Smokes Cigars Incessantly.

His golfing costumes are neat but not striking. Usually he affects full-length flannel trousers and always wears a frayed driving mit. He smokes cigars almost incessantly. One of his friends said he brought a suitcase full of cigars to the Inverness Club, at Toledo.

Burke's great playing asset is his adeptness with short approaching irons. In the first play-off he twice holed out from several yards off the green. One of those shots was made from some of the nasty roughs that abound at Inverness. His fine, long iron play really decided the issue.

Burke was so deadly accurate with his No. 2 and No. 4 clubs in the afternoon round of the final play-off that Von Elm seemed to show the discouragement he must have felt. The champion's No. 2 iron approach of the fourth green which lies past a valley was the golfing masterpiece of the tournament, not even excepting Leo Diegel's hole-in-one. Burke's shot on that hole was almost 200 yards and left him 18 inches wide of the cup.

Burke's driver is his weakest club. He seldom does better than 230 yards, and many times is short of that. Almost always, however, Burke's drives are in correct line. He is a better than average putter.

Second Connecticut Youth to Win.

New Haven, Conn., July 7 (A.P.).—Billy Burke, new United States open golf champion, is the second Connecticut boy to hold the title. Gene Sarazen, who won the open in 1922, came from this State. Burke, whose family name is Burkowski, worked after he was 14 in a Naugatuck iron foundry. Saturdays and Sundays he picked up extra cash by caddying at the Naugatuck Golf Club, a mile from his home, where some of the players were attracted by his fine shots.

In 1923 a group outfitted him and sent him to the State amateur competition at Eastern Point, where he was medalist and runner-up to Henry I. Topping, one of the notable players of the State. Topping took a great liking to the lad and began to plan his future.

The following winter a place as caddy master was found for him in the South. The next summer he was the first pro at Mattatuck Golf Club in Waterbury. After two years Topping placed him in Port Chester, N. Y. A season there, another at Lake George, two winters at Bellaire, Fla., and Burkowski, who had taken the name of Burke, began to display his golfing ability. He made three winter trips along the Pacific Coast and through Florida. He won the La Gorce open and the North and South open. He also won the New York State open a week before the 1930 national at Winged Foot.

Burke's brothers, Eddie and Peter, are also professional golfers.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SUNNY WORLD, $25.58, $8.70, $4.12; WELL HEELED, $3.10, $2.50; SANS COIN, $2.80.

SUNNY WORLD followed the pace of SANS COIN closely to the stretch, then took command and had enough left to hold WELL HEELED. Latter, after outbreaking the others, was taken back and, racing on his own courage, made up ground and was gaining at finish. SANS COIN had the most early speed and held on fairly well. MISTY can do better. DIXIANA made up some ground.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:46. Off at 2:46. Winner, W. R. Coe's ch. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MASKED BALL, $16.42, $8.26, $5.32; HOT SHOT, $10.28, $5.50; BACCIOCCO, $5.80.

MASKED BALL, although racing wide in the last quarter, was good enough to take command twenty yards out and outfinish HOT SHOT in the final struggle. HOT SHOT, showing improvement, forced the early pace and held on well when challenged. BACCIOCCO was shuffled back after leaving back stretch, but came again and, after interfering with FLAG TIME, held third place safe. FLAG TIME had moved up strongly and was racing well when he met with interference on the final bend. FRENCH LASS tired. TADDYWAWA was never a contender. ZACAWEISTA quit.

THIRD RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,600; allowances. Denver Purse. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:16½. Off at 3:17½. Winner, William Ziegler, jr.'s ch. c. (2), by Our General—Phantom Fairy. Trained by C. Phillips. Value to winner, $1,150; second, $250; third, $150; fourth, $50. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PHANTOM LEGION, $4.14, $3.02, $2.50; PRINCE FOX, $16.60, $6.86; FREDERICK, $3.38.

PHANTOM LEGION, always in the first flight, took a short lead approaching the stretch turn and, shaking off PRINCE FOX in the run home, was going away at the finish. PRINCE FOX raced close up most of the way, but faltered in the final strides. FREDERICK saved ground in stretch to finish in courageous fashion. AMERICANA turned in a good effort. HIGHER and SUN'S SON bumped each other frequently in the last quarter mile.

FOURTH RACE—One mile (Hertz course, out of chute). Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:46. Off at 3:46½. Winner, Mrs. J. D. Two-dollar mutuels paid—HIS LAST, $5.04, $3.04, $2.58; WEIDELEEN, $3.70, $3.02; PHANTASIME, $4.56.

HIS LAST got to the front after going a quarter and, racing well, held sway to the finish to withstand the closing challenge of WEIDELEEN. Latter, although swinging a trifle wide at the stretch turn, made a game bid in the run for home, but could not get up, although gaining at finish. PHANTASIME raced well. ELCIDIO made up ground in the stretch. ANDORA tired after displaying early speed.

FIFTH RACE—One mile (Hertz course, out of chute). Purse, $2,000. Iowa Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:16. Off at 4:16. Winner, Lemar Stock Farm's blk. c. (4), by Vulcain—Sweet Bun. Trained by M. Lowenstein. Value to winner, $1,400; second, $360; third, $175; fourth, $75. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:45 4-5, 1:09 3-5, 1:36 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MORSEL, $16.22, $5.66, $2.94; BEST MAN, $4.72, $2.86; SUN BEAU, $2.58.

MORSEL, running in his best form, was always within striking distance of BEST MAN in the early stages and, wearing the latter down in the stretch run, was drawing away at the finish. BEST MAN was saved in front in the early stages, but tired after going seven furlongs and was stopping fast at the finish. SUN BEAU was under mild restraint to the stretch, then made up ground to finish fastest of all. SUNVIR tired but hung in the final sixteenth. GOLDEN PRINCE was badly outrun for a half, then made up some ground, slightly.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:46. Off at 4:46½. Winner, W. C. and E. W. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GORMOND, $12.48, $6.10, $3.72; MACEDON, $6.38, $4.00; BUB M'FARLAND, $2.88.

GORMOND, racing strong from the start, came around the outside of the leaders approaching the stretch turn to take command and held MACEDON at the finish. MACEDON made up some ground and was going well at the finish, although not a serious threat to the winner. BUB M'FARLAND was in some trouble during the back stretch run, but closed gamely. GRAND PRINCE had early speed and held on fairly well. MISS PERFECTION and ROYAL MANAGER tired after making most of the early pace.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:15. Off at 5:16. Winner, Miss E. Glick's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GARNISH, $7.86, $4.78, $3.86; CHANCELLOR, $11.82, $5.54; LEFLORE, $4.90.

GARNISH moved up fast when called on and, taking a good lead approaching the stretch turn, easily held the others safe. CHANCELLOR showed improvement and, racing close up throughout, outgamed LEFLORE in the final drive. LEFLORE met with interference the early running and showed a creditable effort. THOMAS SETH tired. ED LARK raced in improved form. The others were never in contention.

MOOREHEAD BEATS MORRISON IN D. C. TITLE TENNIS UPSET

Quarterfinal Round Is Reached

Victor Over Defending Champ Is Eliminated.

Other Choices Score; Scene Shifts to Columbia Club.

THE old story of the survival of the fittest held true yesterday on the courts at Rock Creek Park as favorites in the 44 playing of the District of Columbia tennis championships stalked into the quarterfinal round of play, after a day made noteworthy only by the unexpected defeat of Don Morrison at the hands of J. L. Moorhead.

Morrison, who eliminated Bob Considine, the defending champion, Monday in straight sets, and who was looked upon by the experts as a sure semifinalist, fell a victim to Moorhead by the strange scores of 4—6, 6—0, 6—1. Stroking the ball with accustomed accuracy and pace, Morrison looked like a sure winner as he outstroked his eventual conquerer in the first set of the match.

Tossing Tactics Fail to Work Out Well.

Failing a bit in accuracy, and in face of some determined steadiness on the part of Moorhead, Morrison began to trail from the start of the second set. At 4-0 in Moorhead's favor, Morrison decided to toss away the set and start out after his man in the third.

So completely did Morrison's tossing tactics work that he not only lost the following two games but when the time came to apply pressure he found his stroking "cold," and was unable to produce any of the zip which had marked his play earlier in the tournament, and earlier in the match.

Play today will desert the public courts in favor of Columbia Country Club, where matches will start at 3 o'clock, with Eddie Yeomans meeting Bob Elliott in what is expected to be one of the features of the day.

Moorhead was the tourney's fairheaded boy yesterday, for after disposing of Morrison, he teamed up with his brother to down the No. 4 seeded doubles team of Dooly Mitchell and Bill Buchanan, in a bitterly contested match, which was decided only at 8—6 in the third set.

Darkness Halts Feature Doubles Match.

The best played match of the day resulted in a perfect impasse as the teams of Eddie Yeomans and Bud Markey and of Frank Shore and Anthony Latona were forced to cease firing because of darkness with the score 5—5 in the third set, after splitting the first two sets, 6—4, 4—6.

Volleying as brilliantly as they did last year in the Middle Atlantic doubles, when they eliminated the team of Dooly Mitchell and Eddie Yeomans, Shore and Latona turned in a sensational performance against their more favored opponents. Latona, at whom the bulk of the attack was aimed, played splendidly to keep his team in the running, frequently climbing the back fence in quest of lobs and smashes. Shore was little behind in efficiency.

Yeomans was badly off on his overhead smashing, but Markey made up for his team by turning in brilliant shots from all angles. The third set will be replayed today.

Yesterday's results:

SINGLES.

Fourth round—Dooly Mitchell defeated O'Neill, 7—9, 6—1, 6—4; Markey defeated Sendel, 6—0, 6—2; Yeomans defeated Harriss, 6—4, 6—4; Elliott defeated Ladd, 6—2, 6—3; Moorehead defeated Morrison, 4—6, 6—0, 6—1; Charest defeated Herman, 6—3, 6—4; Mangan defeated Welsh, 6—1, 6—4; Shore defeated Trier, 6—4, 6—3.

DOUBLES.

Second round—Blanchard and Blanchard defeated Taylor and Martinez, 8—6, 6—1; Shore and Latona defeated Karrick and Sturtevant, 6—3, 6—4; Garnett and Haney defeated Goubeau and Burwell, 6—3, 8—6.

MACKS DOWN NATIONALS, 7 TO 3-

Bluege's Error Costly as A's Come From Behind in 7th.

the joy out of the fans' lives by inserting his game-deciding error in the allen seventh. Even then there was some hope that the Nats might overcome this small margin when Fischer set down the Mackmen in order in the eighth, but they stepped out in the ninth with three runs, molded from a walk, successive triples by Cochrane and Simmons and a double by Foxx, and the game was beyond recall, although the Nats did manage to get one of these runs back in their ninth on West's triple and Kuhel's infield out.

The Mackmen seemed to be able to hit everything but singles and homers yesterday, as, of their ten safeties, five were doubles and two were triples. Simmons led their attack with a two-bagger and a three-bagger, with Bishop having a perfect day at bat by virtue of a double, single and three walks. Myer, with a brace of singles, and West, with a triple and one-shot, between them accounted for exactly half of the home hits.

GROVE, BROWN HURL SERIES FINALE TODAY

Texas League single to right, this being the Nats' first hit.

Crowder's sacrifice, which advanced Spencer, who had opened the home third with a double, was almost perfect, the tap slowly rolling down the third-base line.

Bluege sent Simmons all the way to the wall in left for a looper ending the fourth, the left-fielder falling against the base of the stands after the catch.

Coach Patsy Gharrity rejoined the Nats yesterday. His strained ankle is far from well but he can hobble around on it.

Bluege came in fast to take Haas' sacrifice with one hand for a pretty out in the fifth. The peg was as difficult as the catch.

Joe Boley, back in the game after a lay-off because of a charley horse attack, did not have a chance afield until Spencer popped to him in the fifth.

West hardly had to move for Simmons' liner opening round 6.

Foxx's hit in the sixth was the first single credited the Mackmen, their other four blows having been doubles.

Myer went close to the foul line in right to make a good catch of Miller's near Texas Leaguer in the sixth.

Bluege ended the alien sixth with a nobby gloved-hand stop of Dykes' roller well over toward short.

Between the halves of the seventh, President Clark Griffith took Connie Mack, Philadelphia manager, to President Hoover's box and introduced him to the Chief Executive.

Simmons made a great try for Kuhel's Texas leaguer in the "lucky frame, but could not quite get to it and the tap went as a double.

Hargrave hit for Crowder in the seventh, but all he did was to stir up the atmosphere with three lusty strikes. No doubt his intentions were of the best.

Connie Mack was overlooking no bets. After his team took the lead in the seventh, Lefty Grove started warming up in the bullpen and held himself in readiness until the finish.

Kuhel took Bing Miller's high bounder in the eighth and just managed to beat the runner to the bag after sliding in almost under Bing's feet.

Fischer hit Dykes' bat in the eighth and a pop to Kuhel resulted.

Dykes made a back-handed grab of Cronin's liner over toward the foul line to end the eighth with Myer on first at the time.

Haas came in almost back of Boley to make a good catch of Spencer's looper to end the game.

Negotiations probably will be completed today whereby Infielder Baxter Jordan goes to the Newark Internationals on 24-hour option. Jordan, who can fill any infield position, was drafted from the Bears last fall and they need him badly now. As he has been going stale from lack of work here, President Clark Griffith feels that sending him to Newark will do him a lot of good.

While Jordan's departure will leave the Nats with only Jack Hayes as utility infielder, he could be gotten back almost immediately if needed.

James Surrett, Quantico Marine second sacker, highly recommended to the Nationals by "Nig" Clark, former major league catcher, who is now coaching the Devil Dogs, is being given the "once over" by Manager Johnson. He is a flashy fielder and a left-handed hitter noted for his slugging ability.

Legion Junior Golf Lists Many Prizes

The first American Legion junior golf tournament, to be played at East Potomac Park, July 21, is a rousing success to date, so far as prizes are concerned. Yesterday it was announced by the Legion, Pearson & Crain, jewelers, gave fifteen silver medals for distribution to participants.

Entries are being received at Legion headquarters in the Shoreham Building or at the clubhouse, East Potomac Park. No entry fee will be charged, but applicants for admission to the tournament must produce birth certificates showing that they had not reached their eighteenth birthday by June 31, 1931.

ACES OF GOLF MOVE ON TO CANADA

8 Former Champions and Von Elm Seek Open Prize.

TORONTO, Ontario, July 7 (A.P.).—The scene of action on the far-flung battlefield of major golf shifts this week to the Mississauga stronghold, near Toronto, where hte Canadian open begins Thursday.

The majority of the seasoned campaigners from the United States and Great Britain, who fought the heat and the rough at Inverness, Toledo, last week, will be on hand Thursday morning to start the 72-hole quest of the crown now worn by Tommy Armour, British open champion. Play will continue through Saturday.

In the entry list of 154 are 8 former champions, including Armour, Leo Diegel, Charles and Albert Murray, of Montreal; Karl Keffer, of Ottawa; Al Watrous, Mac Donald Smith and George Cumming, of Toronto.

Von Elm Among Aspirants.

George Von Elm, who lost the United States open by one stroke to Billy Burke, also has said he intends to play in the Canadian open. The entire British Ryder Cup Team and Henry and Leslie Cotton, the British free lances, are entered, as well as Aubrey Boomer and Auguste Boyer, of France, and Pery Alliss, of Germany. Burke plans to be present as an onlooker.

Several entrants, who did not stay over in Toledo for the Von Elm-Burke play-off, already are trying out their shots over the par 72 course which has yielded to a subpar round but once, Bob Cunningham, the club pro, once scored a 71 last year.

The Mississauga course, stretching along the meandering Credit River, measures 6,545 yards. It has four three-shot holes and one par six, the 535-yard No. 12.

GAITHERSBURG PLAYS.

Special to The Washington Post.

Gaithersburg, Md., July 7.—The Gaithersburg A. C. will seek its sixth consecutive victory when it meets the strong Washington A. C. on Sunday at Gaithersburg.

Last Saturday the Marylanders defeated the Logan A. C. by the score of 8 to 4 and on Sunday the Army War College was met and defeated, 8-7.

Manager Pat Murphy, of the home team, pitched both games, allowing ten hits on Saturday and twelve the following day. He kept them all well scattered, however, and was never in any serious trouble.

Dosh and Barber led the winning team in hitting on both occasions.

Baer Will Wed Ex-Actress Despite Parental Objection

OAKLAND, CALIF., July 7 (A.P.).—Max Baer, California heavyweight boxer, will not have the blessing of his parents when he weds Dorothy Dunbar Wells De Garson, former actress, at Reno, Nev., tomorrow.

"Why, she's old enough to be Maxie's mother," Mrs. Dora Baer, the boxer's mother, said today. "She's 38 and Maxie is only 22. She's taking a mere boy to raise for a husband. Jacob (the father) and I will not be there."

Baer, who lost the decision to Paulino Uzcudun in a 20-round ring battle, July 4, announced in Reno he would be married tomorrow at the home of a banker there. He said the wedding was not decided on until after the Independence Day bout.

The bride-to-be was known on the stage as Dorothy Dunbar. She was divorced in Reno last January from Jaime De Garson, now an attache of a South American Legation in London.

Baer, a former butcher boy, met her while training for the Uzcudun fight. It was learned that J. Hamilton Lorimer, of San Francisco, Baer's manager, objected to the marriage and that the boxer had asked Lorimer to place a price on his four-year managerial contract.

Reno, Nev., July 7 (A.P.).—Max Baer, fashion plate of the prize ring, and Dorothy Dunbar Wells de Garson, former actress, will be married tomorrow night, Baer announced today.

Mrs. Wells was divorced here last January from Jaime de Garson, now in London as an attache with the legation of one of the South American republics.

Baer, who is only 22, has never been married. He came to the boxing ring from a butcher shop at Livermore, Calif.

HEAVY TITLE REQUIRES NO SUPERMAN

campaigner, were excused from the ring in Philadelphia because the customers had gone to sleep.

In twenty rounds against Dempsey, an opponent of whom he wrote that he wished to fight him now because he had heard that Dempsey was sick, Tunney, with his marvelous skill, by his own admission, was unable to land one punch on the jaw, and he spent fourteen seconds on the floor to the one second that Dempsey was down before him. In his final fight as champion he took eleven rounds to hew down the clumsy Tom Heeney, who had been knocked out on his feet twice in six rounds by light-heavyweight sparring partners wearing big gloves in training bouts but a few days before. Still, Tunney unquestionably was the heavyweight champion of his particular time.

No Need Seen for Superman.

So I do not think it requires any superman to win the heavyweight championship of the world, but only a pretty good prize fighter, a smart manager, preferably unscrupulous, and an advantage in the ages. In the matter of management Carnera is unusually well equipped, and he is younger even than Stribling, Schmeling and Sharkey. It is true that he doesn't know how to punch but rather tends to shove his opponents around, but the young man weighs about 250 pounds. He bounces around a ring with astonishing speed, and he has upset several big hunks merely by crashing into them.

He is game, for all that anybody knows to the contrary, and though his opponents to date have been noted for their docility or not noted at all, it may be remembered that when Dempsey was on his way up the victory that made him logical was a knockout over one of the most celebrated horizontalists of the day, Fred Fulton. Then he won the title from a champion who had quit to Joe Cox a few years earlier, who now quit to Dempsey while sitting in his corner and who later was to quit to Luis Angel Firpo in Jersey City.

The succession to the championship is governed least of all by the professional qualifications of the new champion. He must be a little better than fair, of course, but of more importance is the fact that the champion in all cases but one to date has been older and further gone than the challenger. Sullivan was a drunkard and Corbett a strong youth, ambitious, and as yet unfamiliar with luxury, late hours and wine. Fitzsimmons was older than Corbett, but I do not wish to be put off my line of argument, so I will just skip that one.

Hatred Helped "Fits" To Win.

However, Corbett had been no total abstainer himself during his spell as champion and, more important, he had dealt Fitzsimmons so many harsh insults that by the time they got into the ring pride and hatred, as well as ambition, were on Fitzsimmons' side.

Thereafter Jeffries, Johnson, Willard and Dempsey were beyond their prime when they lost the championship to younger fighters.

It may be remembered, too, that under the present procedure it is not necessary for the champion to defend the title against the best of the younger set, but, on the contrary, the more general practice is to avoid the tough ones. Harry Wills never got a fight with Dempsey, and Tunney wasn't required to fight him, either, although as logic goes in such matters Wills was the most logical of all the contenders. Then when Tunney planned to bow himself out of the business he fought not Sharkey, the tough one, but Heeney, whose style presented the irreducible minimum of risk.

I don't think Primo is a great prize fighter, but neither must a man be a prodigy to win the heavyweight championship of the world. Never do they clean up all the other challengers to set themselves forth distinctly, and any one who does so nowadays is likely to defeat his own purpose, because he is the one the champion will most prefer not to fight. Thus Schmeling chose Stribling, who had lost to Sharkey, instead of fighting Sharkey, who had beaten Max so badly before.

Let Primo bump into a heavyweight champion and push him around for 30 minutes some night to win a decision, and he will automatically become a historic giant of the ring and a great fighter like the rest of them. People run with champions.

TEMPLE COACH SIGNED.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 7 (A.P.).—Jimmy Usilton, head basket ball coach at Temple University for the last five years, today signed a contract for the 1931-1932 season, Earl R. Yeoman's graduate manager of athletics, announced.

MILLS TO GET TRIAL.

Buster Mills, young outfielder from the University of Oklahoma, who is to receive a trial with the Cleveland Indians, will be offered a contract if he shows any encouraging signs of developing into a future big leaguer, according to General Manager Billy Evans.

Silence Ordered for Czech Fans When British Net Team Invades

PRAGUE, July 7 (A.P.).—Nothing more than discreet murmurs of approval will break the silence around the tennis courts here Thursday when Great Britain and Czechoslovakia begin their duel in the European zone Davis Cup finals.

The newspapers have exhorted all Czechs attending the matches to preserve the strictest self-control. The British players, it is said, are not used to the nerve-wracking noise which usually accompanies important matches in Czechoslovakia and their game likely would be affected seriously by such displays of enthusiasm.

Czechs, therefore, have been urged to keep silent for the honor of their country and if exhortations alone have proved insufficient, special police will be drafted from among the crowd to see that the strictest decorum is enforced.

Fan Dies at Cubs-St. Louis Game After 80,000 Seek to Gain Seats

CHICAGO, July 7 (A.P.).—Arthur Breiholz, of Cornell, Ill., succumbed to a heart attack after fighting his way to a grandstand seat for the St. Louis Cardinals-Cubs double-header at Wrigley Field today.

Breiholz was one of 80,000 persons who attempted to get into the park, and he collapsed just after reaching a seat. Fifteen other persons were overcome.

The turnout for the brace of contests was the biggest in Cub history, 50,000 paid admissions. The crowd was larger than at any of the 1929 world series contests.

About 1,000 fans watched the scoreboards outside the park and another thousand found seats on the tops of adjacent buildings. The regular detail of police could do little with the milling mob, and an additional 35 men were ordered out.

Pro Tennis Tournament Again Delayed by Rain

Forest Hills, N. Y., July 7 (A.P.).—Rain washed out the program of the professional tennis championships for the second straight day today.

Weather permitting, the tournament will begin at 9 a. m. (E. S. T.) tomorrow with the first two rounds to be decided on the basis of the best two sets out of three instead of the customary three out of five.

Unless inclement weather causes further postponement officials were confident the lengthened hours of play and the shortened matches would enable the contestants to catch up on the schedule and finish the tournament on Saturday, as planned.

Priscilla, U. S. Boat, Beaten in Scotland

Gourock, Scotland, July 7 (A.P.).—The American 8-meter yacht Priscilla finished second today to the British boat, Fulmar, in the last of the regattas of the "Clyde Fortnight" at Hunter's Quay. The British yacht Saskia was third.

Another American sailer, Lucie, scored a splendid win in the 6-meter class, beating the best Clyde boat by nearly two minutes.

Negotiations are under way for another series of Seawanhaka Cup races next summer, with the Seawanhaka Club challenging for the trophy defended in the last series by the British boat Saskia. A team of four American 6-meter boats are expected in England for the British-American Cup races on the Solent and it is probable that the challenge will be made in the 6-meter class. The Royal Northern Club is understood to be willing to accept the challenge for Great Britain.

Diving Exhibitions At Wardman Tonight

A water splash will be held at Wardman Park tonight at 9 o'clock which should prove to be of exceptional interest to District swimmers. Johnny Bowen, swimming instructor, has arranged an attractive program of exhibition events, with Miss Betty Turner, of Miami Beach, and Joseph Lyman, South Atlantic champion, headlining. They will give exhibitions of fancy diving.

Vincent Gomez, Norman Smith, Emory Wilson and men and women members of the Washington Swimming Club, also will participate. No admission will be charged.

TRIO WIN POSITIONS ON D. C. LINKS TEAM

Connelly, Baby of Bunch, Only 15.

The baby of the bunch is Connelly, just 15 years old and not much taller than his bag of clubs. He has caddied at Rock Creek since he was 12 years old, is the son of John F. Connelly, park policeman, and a student at Central High School. Will and Connelly are on a Washington national public links team for the first time but Burton and Burrows qualified last year.

Miss Madison Balks At Expense Curtailment

Seattle, July 7 (A.P.).—Helene Madison, Seattle, holder of thirteen of the sixteen women's world swimming records, may not defend her titles in the national outdoor swimming tournament at New York, July 16 to 19.

Miss Madison had planned to leave Seattle tonight, but her father, Charles W. Madison, said the Amateur Athletic Union had trimmed by more than half expense money previously allowed the aquatic age, and he would not permit her to go without a chaperon.

Madison declared the A. A. U. was allowing Helene $346 for this trip, whereas they permitted her $700 last April for the national indoor tournament at New York.

Helene's departure with either her mother or her coach has been held up pending word from A. A. U. officials in New York.

Midget, Insect Teams In Meeting Tonight

Managers of teams entered in the Insect and Midget sections of the Capital City League will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in room 2 of the District Building to make final plans for the remainder of the league season. It is imperative that each manager attend the confab and bring with him a birth certificate for each player on his respective team.

The second half of the Insect section opens Saturday and no player will be permitted to play in the league unless his certificate has been submitted. The same ruling will apply to the midget games remaining on the schedule.

Bowstrom, Hardwick, Hughes to Coach Navy

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., July 7.—Adhering to the policy of having two or more graduates to assist in coaching football at the Naval Academy, announcement was made today that three stars of the last few years will be detailed to the 1931 staff of mentors, which will be headed by Edgar (Rip) Miller, member of the famous "Four Horsemen" outfit of Notre Dame. They are Ensign Robert (Blimp) Bowstrom, captain and tackle of last year's eleven; Ensign Harry (Hank) Hardwick, star end in 1928 and 1929, and Ensign Claude (Whitey) Hughes, center of the team in 1929.

Bowstrom at one time considered resigning the service to cast around for a berth as coach at some college, but changed his mind a few months before gradusting last June. Assignment of this trio completes the coaching staff. Miller's chief assistants will be two former pupils of the late Knute Rockne, namely, Christy Flannigan, star half back of three years ago, and John (One Play) O'Brien.

The graduate coaches are expected to assemble here the latter part of this month or early in August. The football squad, most of whose members are now on the summer practice cruise in foreign waters, will report at Annapolis for practice September 9. The training squadron is due to arrive at Hampton Roads, Va., August 12, and the players will go on leave in advance of their comrades.

FIGHT HEADS COMPLETING PROGRAM

Semifinal Yet to Be Decided for Fort Bouts Monday.

FORT WASHINGTON ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION officials have yet to close negotiations for the semifinal bout before completing arrangements for the next fight show at the nearby Maryland ring scheduled Monday night.

At present it appears that the bout will present either Lew Raymond, of Baltimore, against Sailor McKenna, of this city, or Joe Pinazzo, of Baltimore, against Billy Strickler, of this city. The first-mentioned pair are lightweights, while the latter are light heavies.

Barry-Schwartz Meet In Feature.

In the main bout, "Reds" Barry, promising Mohawk Club light heavyweight, will engage Billy Schwartz, Alexandria baker boy. This is to be a renewal of a battle staged last summer at the fort, when the result was adjudged a draw.

Three four-round bouts make up the preliminary card, two showing local boys in their debuts as professionals. Doug Swetman, formerly of the City Club, and Billy Reed, former Boys Club boxer, will show their wares for money the first time in one of these prelims, while Henry Irving, former District amateur middleweight champion, will make his professional bow in another, meeting Frank Vance, who left the Simon-pure ranks last month when he battled Sailor Burke to a draw at the fort. The third of the warm-up sessions will bring together Jack Quigley, Washington, and Soldier Clark, of the fort.

Richmond Nine Placed Under New Ownership

Richmond, Va., July 7 (A.P.).—A new organization, the Richmond Colts, Inc., was perfected here today to control the franchise of the Richmond Eastern League Club, which was surrendered to the circuit by Charles A. Somma.

Fred J. Voos, jr., chairman of the league's executive committee, said he believed that Richmond was assured now of professional baseball for the remainder of the season.

Mr. Somma recently acquired the franchise after it had been surrendered by Ray Ryan following a legal tangle over concessions.

Middies Schedule Two Summer Sport Meets

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., July 7.—Aside from baseball and tennis, Midshipmen of the second class who are taking a summer course in aviation at the Naval Academy, and the Plebes, or new recruits of the fourth class, have taken up field and track sports, and the second classmen also are prepping in swimming and water polo for at least one contest with a foreign foe.

On August 8 the second classmen will engage in a field and track meet with the Baltimore police department, and the same date the Plebes will stack up against the Playground Athletic League of Baltimore.

A swimming and polo match between the second classmen and Central Y. M. C. A., of Baltimore, is booked for July 15.

The swimmers will have the services of Ray Thompson, Maryland boy, star sprinter, who has broken a national collegiate and several academy records since entering the institution two years ago.

STOCK PRICES DROP IN PROFITS TAKING

Moratorium Accord Fails to Save Market From Slump on Selling.

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—Having extracted all the nourishment that was immediately available in the year's war debt moratorium, stock traders took profits freely in today's market.

News of the actual signature of the Franco-American agreement gave prices a little lift at the opening, but half an hour later quotations were going down, a course which they followed throughout the remainder of the day.

Short selling contributed substantially to the 3,000,000 share turnover, widening the break caused by realizing, with the result that net losses of 2 to nearly 10 points were numerous. The decline of the averages, 4.7 points, was the largest since June 1.

Bears Stage Attack.

Bears found the technical position favorable for their attack. Covering since June 20 had been heavy, leaving small potential support from the short interest. Professionals were also quick to seize on rumors regarding liquidity of some German private banks as reasons for selling, ignoring the fact that the Berlin bourse, where such reports might have been expected to exert most influence, closed higher. London and Paris markets were likewise strengthened by the debt settlement.

Wall street's confidence in the benefits that should accompany the debt holiday will doubtless be weighed against some very immediate and tangible domestic considerations, such as second-quarter earnings, the low rate of industrial activity and the probability of a dull summer.

But the feeling is that a start toward recovery has been made on an international scale and that the importance of saving Germany from financial collapse can not be overestimated.

Reichsbank Pressure Breaks.

Pressure against the Reichsbank relaxed somewhat, but New York bankers were rather of the opinion that an extension of the $100,000,000 international credit would be asked; there were, in fact, rumors that such a request was imminent.

It was pointed out that Germany's central bank might not be fully relieved from the pressure of exchange withdrawals for several days. The mark opened with a good gain, then reacted and finally rallied again, closing unchanged.

Closing stock prices here were virtually at the bottom. U. S. Steel's loss was 4⅞. New York Central and Lackawanna were down 7; Union Pacific, American Telephone and Westinghouse, 4; Bethlehem Steel, American Can, Southern Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, Consolidated Gas and Public Service of New Jersey at least 3, and Atchison 8½. Auburn's extreme break of 20 was shaded to 18¼, while J. I. Case was off 9¾ net.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, July 7 (A.P.).—Downturns in wheat prices today superseded fleeting gains that resulted from accord with France about war debts. Stock market instability had a bearish influence, and trade in all cereals lacked volume. September delivery of wheat equaled the season's bottom price record.

Wheat closed irregular, at ¾-cent decline to ⅜ advance, corn ½ off to ¾ up, oats ⅛ to ¼ down, and provisions varying from 10 cents setback to an equal gain.

At first wheat showed fractional upturns, responsive to moderate general buying, but initial prices were about the highest of the day. As demand waned, trade leaders expressed belief that so far as grain was concerned the market effect of France's action had been almost completely nullified because of repeated shifts backward and forward in public expectations. In addition, some selling on advances was ascribed to belief that reactions were to be looked for after good news was out.

An authoritative unofficial estimate that the amount of domestic wheat fed to live stock the season ended June 30 had been only 65,000,000 to 75,000,000 bushels more than for the season previous was generally construed as bearish. Some traders had expected the increase to be 150,000,000 bushels or more. Meanwhile, Canadian advices indicated no promise for much of a crop, and news was similar regarding northwest North Dakota and eastern Montana. The trade, however, paid little heed to bullish factors, and almost ignored evidence of a moderate improvement in export demand for wheat from North America. World's available stocks of wheat showed 4,863,000 bushels decrease for the week.

Corn and oats followed the leadership of wheat. July corn though, was an exception, responding to a sharp falling off in arrivals, the day's receipts in Chicago totaling but 36 cars against 162 a week ago.

Provisions were governed mainly by the course of grains.

BOND PRICE DECLINE CUTS EARLIER GAINS

Foreigns and Domestic Issues of Corporations Rise to Higher Levels.

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—The bond market moved up and down by turns today, and closing prices showed irregular declines. Trading was conspicuously more active. Sales totaled $11,344,000, compared with $8,332,000 Monday.

Higher prices in foreign and most domestic corporate obligations were the outstanding development of the early trading following the news of the intergovernmental debt agreement. This advance slackened about midsession and by the close prices were irregularly lower.

Foreign obligations received a good deal of attention and many of them scored the greatest gains in the early advance. When the trend was reversed they were not so generally weak as some domestic obligations, particularly the speculative rails. German 5½s and 7s were two of the most active bonds of the whole list.

The latter closed with only a minor fractional loss, while the former dropped 2 points. Some German loans, such as Deutsche Bank 6s, Berlin 6s, several Berlin City electric loans, and United States Steel Works series A and C 6½s even closed higher after moderate activity. Other foreign issues divided their net changes about evenly between gains and declines.

Lowering closing prices after active trading appeared in such rails as Chicago & Eastern Illinois 5s, Chesapeake & Ohio series A refunding 4½s, Rock Island convertible 4½s of 1960, Alleghany 5s of 1944, Baltimore & Ohio convertible 4½s of 1960, St. Paul 5s of 1975, Erie refunding and improvement 5s of 1967, Missouri Pacific series F and G 5s and Nickel Plate series C 4½s. The downward trend was not so marked in the higher grade issues.

Public utility and industrial issues declined irregularly, but the trading in them was less active than among the foreign and railroad loans. United States Government bonds were lower on quiet trading.

CAPITAL INSURANCE FIRM WIDENS SCOPE

Firemen's Plans to Broaden Policy Field; Credit Body Reelects Clayton.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Stockholders of the Firemen's Insurance Co. of Washington and Georgetown, at a special meeting yesterday approved a resolution of the directorate amending the company's charter to permit it to write additional forms of insurance other than life, and increase its capital stock to the extent of $1,000,000, if deemed necessary. The present capitalization of the company is for $200,000 and will not be increased at the present time.

There were 9,527 shares, out of 10,000 issued, voted unanimously in favor of the resolution of the directors, likewise adopted unanimously at a meeting June 22. The action of the stockholders permits directors of the company to petition Congress for permission to increase the capital stock and to write additional forms of insurance other than life.

At present the company can write fire insurance only. One of the oldest firms in the city, it was chartered March 3, 1837, before there was a general act of Congress providing incorporation laws for the District of Columbia. A favorable response by Congress to the company's request will enable it to compete equally with other fire insurance companies of the city which were chartered after the act of Congress passed in 1922.

Officers Are Elected.

The annual election of officers and directors of the Washington Association of Credit Men was held yesterday at the Raleigh Hotel. Charles W. Clayton, secretary of the F. P. May Hardware Co., and one of the outstanding local credit leaders, was again honored by the wholesale body. He succeeds himself as president.

Mr. Clayton has been actively identified with the work of the credit association since its organization. For many years he has been the head of its adjustment department, which bureau has been largely responsible for eliminating the tremendous bad debt waste that the city has suffered in recent years. He is also a national figure in the credit world, having served on numerous committees and special appointments of the National Association of Credit Men.

Waldo J. Tastet, of the executive staff of Fries, Beall & Sharp Co., was reelected vice president. Mr. Tastet has also been very active in credit circles for many years and has taken a very special interest in fraud prevention work.

Directors Added to Board.

Directors elected for a period of two years are as follows: John N. Auth, vice president of the N. Auth Provision Co.; F. W. Harper, president of the E. Morrison Paper Co.; Louis M. Hewlett, secretary of the Griffith-Consumers Co.; W. R. Little, auditor of the Evening Star Newspaper Co.; R. B. Leedy, credit executive of Kingan & Co., Ltd.; John A. Reilly, vice president of the Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., and Eugene A. Ruark, superintendent of the Washington office of Bradstreet Co.

Directors who still have another year to serve are: R. J. Chaney, of Commercial National Bank; Hilleary G. Hoskinson, of Riggs National Bank; J. Frank Kelly, of J. Frank Kelly, Inc.; Maurice Mazo, of Mazo-Lerch Co.; Kenneth S. Miller, of American Radiator Co.; Lister T. Watts, of Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, and F. W. White, of National Electrical Supply Co.

Immediately upon his reelection, President Clayton indicated that he would promptly appoint local committees to function during the current year. In his presidential report, he called attention to the fact that in his judgment the bottom of the depression had been reached, but that a speedy return to prosperity depended almost entirely upon a safe and sane credit policy. He indicated that this program was a challenge to every credit executives, and urged them to do their part in this important reconstruction work.

Frigidaire Trade Improves.

Hot weather has stimulated business for Frigidaire Corporation. This company's July production of household electric refrigerators has been set at 32 per cent above that of July, 1930. June production was 30 per cent above that of the same month last year. During July and August, Frigidaire Corporation will conduct an anniversary sales campaign based upon fifteen years of achievement in the refrigeration business.

The Clicquot Club Co. is spending approximately 20 per cent more money for advertising during 1931 than in 1930, H. Earle Kimball, president of that concern, has told the research bureau of the Advertising Federation of America.

"With annual expenditures averaging well over a million dollars a year for the past six years, our appropriation is being increased in 1931 and will be further increased in 1932," said Mr. Kimball, who added that he considers a substantial share of every annual investment in advertising as business insurance for future years.

Sales of Peoples' Drug Stores, Inc., for June were reported yesterday as $1,405,548, against $1,324,021 in June, 1930, an increase of $81,527, or a gain of 6.16 per cent. Company officials also reported sales for the first six months of the present year, the total being $8,602,092, in comparison with $8,211,484 in the first half of 1930, an increase so far this year of $390,608, or retail sales gain of 4.75 per cent.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—Business defaults this week, as reported to Bradstreet's, show an increase of 17.3 per cent over the total for the previous week. Failures numbered 473, compared with 403 in the previous week and 363 in the corresponding week of 1930.

Offering is being made of $2,350,000 Erie County, N. Y., 3¼ per cent bonds, due 1951 to 1961, at 101¾ to yield 3.65 to 3.67 per cent. The offering syndicate is headed by Estabrook & Co.

General Cable Corporation has reduced the price of bare copper wire one-half cent to 10¼ cents a pound, in carload lots.

Stockholders of P. Lorillard Co. held a postponed meeting today, but immediately took a further adjournment to August 4. The delay is due to the fact that a decision is pending in the New Jersey court of errors and appeals on the injunction granted to a minority group by the court of chancery restraining the stockholders from voting on a proposed revision of the bonus plan for officers and employes.

Stocks of refined zinc in the hands of America in July amounted to 138,928 short tons, compared with 143,049 tons June 1, the American Zinc Institute reported. Stocks on hand July 1 last year totaled 113,090 tons.

Los Angeles interests representing the Pacific Mutual group of companies have purchased from Goldman-Sachs Trading Corporation and its affiliate, Pacific American Co., Ltd., their entire holdings in Pacific Finance Corporation, Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Co., Pacific American Fire Insurance Co. and Pacific Indemnity Co. The transaction was said to involve around $2,000,000.

S. H. Dresser Manufacturing Co. has received a coupling order to connect 180 miles of 26-inch pipe to be laid by the Missouri Valley Gas Co. in Kansas. Shipments will begin about August 1.

Electric refrigeration sales are still being maintained at levels exceeding those of a year ago, according to Standard Statistics Co. Indications are that this condition holds for all of the leading producers, the survey says, and in nearly all of the outstanding marketing areas. Complete statistics of current production and sales are not available, but the improving spirit of cooperation among producers is rapidly developing a situation which likely will result in the release of detailed data at regular intervals throughout the year.

The number of both favorable and unfavorable dividend changes in June showed a relatively sharp increase over the May figures, Standard Statistics Co. reports. Favorable changes totaled 110, almost twice the 58 reported in May, while unfavorable changes numbered 307, in comparison with 147 the previous month.

June gross revenue of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad is estimated at around $9,333,000, an indicated decrease of 14.3 per cent from actual gross of $10,897,419 reported for the corresponding month last year.

Offering of $5,500,000 of 4 per cent bonds of Allegheny County, Pa., dated June 1, 1931, and maturing on that date from 1932 to 1961, inclusive, is being made at prices to yield from about 2 per cent to 3.60 per cent, according to maturities. The offering syndicate is headed by the Union Trust Co. of Pittsburgh.

Canada Urged to Buy Grain in Drought Area

Ottawa, July 7 (A.P.).—The Saskatchewan wheat pool delegates today acted to urge the government to make provision for the purchase and retention of all grain in the dried out areas of Saskatchewan until feed and seed requirements can be assured.

They asserted there would be a shortage of seed grain in the dry areas as the result of crop failures this season and to meet the situation movement of grain from the districts should be halted at once.

Eastern Railway Heads Consider Merger Plans

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—The executives of the major Eastern railroads considering a plan for consolidation into four huge systems met today, and after their meeting reported "substantial progress."

Aside from the brief formal statement of the meeting and the report of progress, there was no official information released. The executives said they would meet again, but did not announce a date or place.

Fokker Aircraft Plant Reorganized

Herbert Thaden Is Made Chief Engineer; Fokker to Remain.

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—Reorganization of the Fokker Aircraft Co.'s manufacturing division a wholly owned subsidiary of General Aviation Corporation, has been put into effect. Herbert V. Thaden, of Pittsburg, has been installed as acting chief engineer and general manager.

Mr. Thaden, formerly head of Metal Aircraft Corporation, of Pittsburg, replaces Albert A. Gassner, resigned, who held the position for several years. Anthony H. G. Fokker, who became director of engineering when General Aviation, virtually controlled by General Motors Corporation, was formed two years ago, will continue in that capacity at present.

Unconfirmed reports said that this shift indicated that Mr. Fokker and General Aviation would part company. Mr. Fokker laughed at the report that he was planning to quit General Aviation or that he planned to retire to build planes elsewhere.

"You know," he said, "I am the largest individual stockholder in General Aviation."

Bonds Suggested in Aid Of Chicago's Finances

Chicago, July 7 (A.P.).—The Chicago Real Estate Board suggested today in a letter to Gov. Emerson's committee seeking fiscal relief that bonds be issued to fund Cook County's 1930 taxes now a year in arrears owing to a delayed assessment, over a period of 20 years.

Among the reasons listed for the proposal were, delay in revaluation of Cook County property; substantial increases in 1929 and 1930 tax bills; the financial depression and unemployment; 49 bank closings in Cook County in the last 30 days, large numbers of receivership and delinquency in 1929 taxes. The taxes to be funded would amount to approximately $250,000,000. Chicago and Cook County have already issued $103,000,000 in tax anticipation warrants.

Penney Company Sales Drop in Month of June

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—J. C. Penney Co. today reported sales of $14,832,160 for June, a decrease of 6.28 per cent from $15,826,311 reported for the like month last year. Sales for the first six months this year totaled $77,360,070, a decrease of 10.52 per cent from the corresponding period of 1930.

Commenting on the figures for June, Earl C. Sams, president, said current prices on many staple items have shown marked reductions compared with those of the same time last year. "These reductions," he said, "amount as much on certain fast moving articles of merchandise as did the initial drop in commodity prices late in 1929. Such reductions can not fail to show in comparative sales figures on a money basis. Actual volume sales, by itself, shows a steady improvement."

Week's Grain Exports 373,000 Bushels More

(Associated Press.)

Grain exports last week from the United States amounted to 2,236,000 bushels against 1,863,000 bushels the previous week. Commerce Department figures yesterday gave the following comparisons between last week's exports and those of the week before:

Wheat, 1,998,000 bushels against 1,739,000; barley, 217,000 against 96,000; corn, 18,000 against 25,000; oats, 3,000 against 3,000. No exports of rye were reported for either week.

Canadian grains exported last week from United States Atlantic ports amounted to 1,699,000 bushels against 912,000 bushels the week before, while last week's exports of North American wheat flour were 80,000 barrels against 225,000 barrels.

Alberta Wheat Pool May Change Marketing

Calgary, Alberta, July 7 (A.P.).—H. W. Wood, chairman of the Alberta wheat pool, today predicted the organization would soon adopt a new policy of marketing. The plans, formed at a gathering of officials here, are to be presented for approval of a conference of 70 pool delegates in Calgary August 1. The meeting of pool directors today was attended by Premier J. E. Brownlee, of Alberta.

"Problems which have arisen may make a change in policy, temporarily at least, necessary in the future operations of the pool," Mr. Wood said, "but pool members may rest assured that their organization will be carried on under grower control. It is anticipated a system will be worked out that will meet the situation adequately and give cooperative activity a new impetus."

Federal Reserve Gold.

New York, July 7 (A.P.).—The daily gold statement of the New York Federal Reserve Bank today showed imports of $4,013,000.

The figure included $1,000,000 received from Canada, and the remainder from Argentina. There were no exports and there was no change in gold earmarked for foreign account.

UNDERTAKER LOSES IN OUSTER SKIRMISH

City of Alexandria Is Winner in First Round of Court Battle.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The city won the first round in a fight to oust John T. Rhines, colored undertaker, from his establishment at 221 North Patrick street, which he owns, when Rhines was arraigned in Police Court yesterday on a warrant charging him with doing business without a license. The charge was made by City Attorney Carl Budwesky, on behalf of the city council, and Rhines, through his counsel, noted an appeal to the Corporation Court. This is the first case to come up under the zoning regulations of the city. The personal bond of Rhines was accepted.

In order that the case may be settled shortly, Mr. Budwesky stated he would arrange to have the case heard in the Corporation Court not later than the middle of this month, before Judge William P. Woolls. In the meantime, Rhines is expected to continue in business. He has been in business there for more than a year, and the first year he obtained a city license. At the beginning of his second year, however, he applied for a license and tendered the money, but was refused on account of objection being raised by property owners in the 200 block North Patrick street.

Judge Snow, in handing down his decision, in which a fine of $50 and costs was imposed, held that the operation of an undertaking establishment in a residential section is in violation of the city ordinance, holding that the city council has a right to make laws regulating such matters.

The matter was taken up with the city council several months ago, but no action was taken until recently when several of the objectors pressed for action, and City Attorney Budwesky was instructed to start proceedings.

The fire companies of Alexandria will send delegates to the State firemen's conventoin in Winchester in August, it was announced yesterday, although there is a question as to whether or not the companies will participate in the parade, which is one of the principal features of the convention. Under the ruling of the Winchester committee in charge of arrangements, that each company must participate as a unit, instead of the department as a whole, as in the past, Alexandria's chances of winning a prize are considerably lessened. Final action of the various companies on their participation in the parade will, it is expected, be taken this week.

Willie Howard, Negro, 40 years old, arraigned in police court yesterday on a charge of firing a shotgun at his nephew, Andrew Belton, was held for the grand jury and his bond fixed at $2,500.

Howard claimed in court that, following domestic trouble, he shoved Belton out of the door of his home, and in a scuffle which followed the shotgun was discharged. He claimed that he did not fire at Belton, and in support of his claim stated that the load of shot entered the floor. Judge Snow sent Sergt. Lawrence Padgett to make an examination of the floor, but the sergeant reported he was unable to find any shot holes. Howard was then held for the shooting.

William Beauregard Glascock, 70 years old, foreman of the storehouse at the car shops of the Potomac Yards, was retired from service yesterday. Owing to injuries received recently in an automobile accident, Mr. Glascock was unable to be present at the ceremonies which were to have been held at the shop in celebration of his retirement, and a number of his fellow workers assembled at the home where, on behalf of the railroad company, John W. Varney presented him with his retirement certificate, and his railroad friends presented him with an electric fan and an electric foot-warmer.

F. C. Goodnow, newly elected president of the Alexandria Rotary Club, assumed his new duties yesterday at the weekly luncheon of the club, held in the George Mason Hotel. Other officers elected with Mr. Goodnow are Francis H. Fannon, vice president; Dr. H. A. Latane, director; Dr. Herbert Cross, secretary, and Everett Swann, treasurer.

Judge William S. Snow, retiring president, was presented with a past president's emblem.

A pan of gasoline which caught fire at the home of Policeman Hicks, 314 North Royal street, at 10 o'clock yesterday morning brought out the fire department. The blaze was extinguished before the arrival of the department, and caused no damage.

Dairymen Confer On Milk Marketing

Special to The Washington Post.

Nokesville, Va., July 7.—Dairymen and farmers of Prince William County joined tonight with the Brentsville District Community League in a meeting arranged by the agricultural committee in the interest of milk marketing conditions.

Representative-elect Howard W. Smith, an experienced dairyman, discussed various phases of the milk business from the producers' standpoint, while John McGill, jr., manager of the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association, outlined conditions now existing throughout the territory included in the association, and urged a cutting down of surplus supply.

Following the business session an interesting program of vocal and instrumental music was given by members of the Community Association, and refreshments were served by the ladies.

MONTGOMERY BOARD REORGANIZES POLICE

Chief Announces New Force With Promotions Given Former Members.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

Reorganization of the Montgomery County Police Force was announced yesterday by the Montgomery County Commissioners and Chief of Police Alvie A. Moxley. Six new policemen were appointed, two corporals raised to sergeants and one private to corporal and one sergeant was promoted to detective sergeant.

New members of the force are Webb Hershberger, George Dixon, jr., Jerry Hobbs, Ralph Howard, Frank Soper and Thomas B. Donnell. Corp. D. L. Snyder, of Silver Spring substation, was promoted to sergeant and given command of the Takoma Park substation, relieving Sergt. Earl Burdine, who has been promoted to detective sergeant, assigned to the finger-print bureau. Corp. Roy Bodmer, of Rockville headquarters, was promoted to sergeant and will remain at headquarters.

Sergts. Guy L. Jones, of Silver Spring, and Leroy Rodgers, of Bethesda, will remain in charge of those substations. Corp. George C. Windham, of Silver Spring, and Corp. Oscar T. Gaither, of Bethesda, will remain at those substations. Corp. W. H. Merson, who was raised from private, will remain at Rockville headquarters.

Sergt. Burdine will have a roving commission as detective sergeant, which is a new post. Policeman Theo. Vollten, who has been in charge of the fingerprint buerau, was assigned as State's attorney detective. Policeman Joseph Nolte, of the Silver Spring substation, has been transferred to the Takoma Park substation with Sergt Snyder.

Policeman Dunbar Padgett, who was seriously injured in an accident several weeks ago, was not reappointed at this time. Commissioner Lacy Shaw explained that the compensation insurance company will pay his salary until he has recovered, at which time the commissioners will reappoint him. Physicians told the commissioners that he would be unable to work for at least six months as the result of the accident, in which his leg was broken.

Following are the new assignments as announced last night by Chief of Police Alvie A. Moxley: Rockville headquarters, Sergt. Roy Bodmer, Corp. W. H. Merson, Policemen Paul Watkins, John W. Butts, G. B. Howes, Webb Hershberger and Frank Soper; Silver Spring substation, Sergt. Guy L. Jones, Corp. George C. Windham, Policemen Charles Barnes, George Dixon, jr., Jerry Hobbs; Bethesda substation, Sergt. Leroy Rodgers, Corp. Oscar T. Gaither, Policemen Windsor C. Poole, Roy E. Davis, James S. McAuliffe, James E. Shoemaker and Thomas B. Donnell; detective sergeant in charge of fingerprint bureau with headquarters at Bethesda, Sergt. Earl Burdine; relief man, Policeman Robert S. Darby; Kensington detached duty, Policeman E. R. Jones; Gaithersburg detached duty, reporting to Rockville, Ralph Howard; Takoma Park substation, Sergt. D. L. Snyder and Policeman Joseph Nolte.

The commissioners are working on plans for making the department more efficient and other changes in policy are expected.

Plans and specifications for furniture and equipment for the new courthouse building at Rockville were presented to the county commissioners yesterday by the committee, State's Attorney Stedman Prescott and Berry E. Clark, clerk to the county commissioners, who were assisted by John Faulconer, architect. The board approved the recommendations and bids will be asked for to be opened July 23 at noon.

County Engineer Harry Shaw, reported on the progress of the county projects on which he is working. He said that a delay in the improvement and widening of Rockville's Main street in front of the new courthouse has been encountered because of a dispute with the street car company over the car trucks but that he hoped to report an early setlement.

The commissioners awarded a contract for the grading of Sixteenth street-Laurel-Baltimore highway between Sligo Creek and Laurel street, Argyle Park, to P. T. McDermott on recommendation of County Engineer Shaw. The commissioners approved a permit for a golf practice course on the old Frank Clark farm adjoining Seven Oaks on Colesville pike, which was granted to H. L. Ludwig.

The monthly report of Judge Charles W. Woodward, of the Rockville police court, was received by the commissioners. It showed fines and costs from criminal cases totaling $647.25, and costs from civil cases totaling $70.75 had been collected by the court. Dox taxes have brought $7,000 to the county revenues this year, the report showed.

Three new junior high schools were authorized, two were ordered discontinued and two graded schools were closed yesterday by the Montgomery County Board of Education at its monthly meeting in the school board office at Rockville. The board also approved the annual attendance report.

Start of junior high school classes at Poolesville, Damascus and Sherwood High Schools was authorized to start with the new school year in September. Because of inadequate attendance, the junior high schools at Glen Echo-Cabin John and Germantown Schools were temporarily discontinued. They will be reopened when the attendance warrants.

Elmer School was ordered closed and the pupils transported to the Poolesville School and pupils of Seneca School, also closed, will be transported to Darnestown School.

The attendance report showed that 7,006 white elementary and 1,557 white high school children were enrolled, this total of 8,663 white pupils being an increase of 446 over the previous year. In the colored schools 1,784 colored elementary and 122 colored high school children were enrolled, which as an increase of 20 high school pupils and a decrease of 38 elementary.

The high school department had the best general average for attendance with 93 per cent. In the large elemntary schools th percntage of attendance was 91.6 per cent while the two teacher schools made an average of 92 per cent and the one-room schools averaged 90.3 per cent. In the colored schools, the high schools averaged 92.6 per cent and the elementary school 89.1 per cent.

A delegation from the Poolesville Community School Association appeared before the board to request additional rooms and facilities at the Poolesville School. The board will make a study of the situation.

A request for better facilities at the Oakmont School was presented by representatives of the school and the board deferred action until it had made further consideration. Simon Craver was appointed trustee at the Unity School to replace George W. Johnson, who has moved from the community.

Curtailment of local or commuter service on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad has been protested in a petition signed by 57 persons residing in and near Gaithersburg, Md., which has been forwarded to the Maryland Public Service Commission at Baltimore by Clarence Ayton, of Gaithersburg.

Mr. Ayton tells the commission that the commuters have been informed that train No. 39, leaving Washington at 11:30 p. m., is to be discontinued except on Sunday on the metropolitan branch running to Boyds, and that he has forwarded a petition to C. W. Galloway, vice president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, signed by 57 persons, protesting against the discontinuance of this train.

The Dixie Tavern, Rockville hostelry, formerly known as the Montgomery House, one of the oldest hotels in Maryland, has been sold at auction to Rufus E. Miller, Washington and Montgomery County contractor and builder, for $15,000 under a deUed of trust.

James I. Hambleton, director of the bee culture laboratory of the Department of Agriculture at Somerset, has been appointed a member of the Somerset Town Council to replace O. E. Roberts, who has resigned, by Mayor J. W. Stohlman.

Mr. Hambleton is president of the Somerset Citizens Association and is a delegate to the Montgomery County Civic Federation. He has been prominent in civic affairs in the town and county for several years.

Mayor Stohlman announced the following committees: Howard R. Watkins, and R. C. Palmer, finance and ordinances; Holland Huntington and James I. Hambleton, streets and parks. Councilman Huntington announced that arrangements have been made to place a new street light on Warwick place between Dorset and Cumberland avenues and to rearrange the lights on Cumberland avenue to provide a light on every other pole.

A committee composed of Charles T. Malone, Homer E. Greenfield and J. J. Capello was appointed to audit the town's accounts for the fiscal year which ended June 30. Resignation of George Bryan as town marshal has been accepted by the town council. T. M. Cremins probably will be appointed to fill the office.

SOCIAL EVENTS HELD AT CHURCH MEETING

Hood College Given Next Year's Conference of Religious Group.

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., July 7.—Social events at the annual Blue Mountain conference at Hood College were substituted tonight for the regular religious meeting. These began after the sunset service on the steps of Coblentz Hall, led by the Rev. Dr. Leicester C. Lewis, of the Episcopal Academy, Philadelphia. Augmented by the arrival of a number of Baltimoreans, the registration reached 280, about equaling the total enrollment of last year.

At a meeting of the governing board, with the Rev. Dr. Walter H. Overs, retired bishop of the missionary district of Liberia, president, decision was reached to hold next year's conference at Hood College. The Right Rev. Wyatt Brown, recently elected bishop of the diocese of Harrisburg, Pa., was elected an honorary vice president. The board will meet again tomorrow when closing business will be transacted. Officers will be elected in Lebanon, Pa., in November.

Mrs. W. Stuart Symington, Baltimore, conducted an altar guild conference on the campus this afternoon. The final conference embodying church organizations will be held tomorrow and Thursday. A debate was held in the chapel on the question "Can the teachings of Jesus Christ be lived under the present social and economic order?" Miss Annie Tyler and Miss Sophie Walker upheld the affirmative and John Gray and Miss Elizabeth Conover presented the negative. Following the discussion the Rev. Dr. Alexander C. Zabriskie, Virginia Theological Seminary, Alexandria, Va., spoke on the same subject.

Missionaries attending the conference include the Rev. John W. Chapman, Alaska; Miss Lucy C. Morgan, Penlan, N. C.; Miss Elizabeth H. Falck, and Miss Anna Miller Groff, St. Luke's Hospital, Shanghai; the Very Rev. Leopold Kroll and Mrs. Kroll, Haiti; Mrs. Frank S. Pearson, Cuba, and Miss Bertha Richards, of the Bishop Tuttle School, North Carolina.

A number of delegates will visit the Gettysburg battlefield tomorrow afternoon. Tomorrow night the nativity play under direction of Miss Joy Higgins, New York City, head of the School of Religious Drama, will be given on the campus.

Roosevelt Pays Visit To Virginia's Governor

Richmond, Va., July 7 (A.P.).—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York arrived here at noon today for a one-day visit with Gov. Pollard. He was accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, jr., Yesterday Gov. Roosevelt addressed the Virginia Institute of Public Affairs.

"I have been enjoying every minute of my Virginia trip," the governor said.

FAIRFAX INCREASES ITS SCHOOL STAFF

Board Votes, 5 to 4, to Employ Assistant Supervisor for White Institutions.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Fairfax 166.

The Fairfax County school board at its monthly meeting yesterday, by a vote of 5 to 4, decided to employ an assistant supervisor of rural white schools for the next school term. This was done at the suggestion of the State board of education and the insistence of Samuel H. Styles, the representative of the town of Falls Church.

Prior to this the Falls Church schools have been under the supervision of the town principal, Miss Nancy Gregory Edwards. Under the new arrangement made yesterday the assistant supervisor will take charge of the Falls Church elementary school and divide the schools in Fairfax County with the present supervisor, Miss Elsie A. Davis, according to an arrangement to be worked out by Divisional Superintendent Wilbert T. Woodson.

The basic salary of the assistant supervisor will be $1,500, which includes $150 travel allowance. Of the balance the State will pay two-thirds or $900, Falls Church will pay $300, leaving a balance of $150 for the county to pay, in addition to the travel allowance.

The question was brought up at the morning session of the board when two of the trustees were absent and was defeated by a vote of 4 to 3. During the afternoon session, at the insistance of Mr. Styles, the question was again considered and, to allow the question to come before the entire board, Trustee John T. DeBell, of Centreville district, who voted against the measure, consented to move for reconsideration.

School Calendar Adopted.

The school calendar for the next term was adopted. White school will open this fall on Wednesday, September 9, with a teachers' meeting in the auditorium of the Fairfax School. September 10 the first classes will be held. The first vacation will be for Thanksgiving, November 26 and 27. Christmas holidays will begin on December 23 and last until January 4, 1932. Washington's Birthday will be celebrated and the schools will close for Easter holidays beginning with Good Friday, March 25, and continuing through Easter Monday, March 26. This will bring the school year to a close on Friday, May 27, 1932. The teachers will be paid for each holiday, except Christmas and Easter Monday.

Yesterday being the first meeting of the fiscal year the new officers of the school board were elected. Dr. F. M. Brooks was reelected chairman; Trustee John T. DeBell, vice chairman; Supt. Wilbert T. Woodson, clerk, and Mrs. J. H. Trice, secretary.

Miss Phoebe Gillingham appeared before the board, contesting its title to the Old Franconia Schdol, which was recently advertised for sale at a public auction under an order of the Circuit Court subject to confirmation of the school board. The building was bid in by Miss Gillingham for $700, but the board did not confirm the sale. She contended that if the building was not used for a school it reverted to her, as she was the assignor of the person who originally gave the land to the county.

Through her attorney, Hugh B. Marsh, of Fairfax, Miss Gillingham informed the board that the original deed to the old Mount Vernon District School Board did not contain the same language as did the deed to the county board by the old district board, which went out of existence by an act of the Virginia Legislature. The original deed contained the following clause: "To have and to hold the said parcel of ground for use and purposes of a public free school and for such purposes as may properly appertain to the use of said parcel of ground as a public free school to them and their heirs and assigns forever," which they claimed limited the use of the ground and that the board could not sell it.

Governed by Court Ruling.

She was informed by Chairman Brooks that the board was governed in such matters by a ruling of the Circuit Court which held that money derived from the sale of an old school building can be used for the erection of a school on a different location in the same district, unless there was a positive reversion clause in the original deed, and as there was no such clause in the deed under consideration, the board voted to accept Miss Gillingham's bid on the abandoned school and later rescinded its action when it was discovered that the proposed Franconia school, for which bids have been asked, would not be completed in time for the next school term. The bid of $889 for the abandoned Springfield school was also turned down, as the board members decided the amount was too small.

A special meeting of the School Board was called for July 20 to open bids for the new Franconia School Building and consider other questions in connection with its erection. Bids will also be asked for the drilling of a deep well on the school site. Bills amounting to $1,681.66 were ordered paid, together with a literary bond amounting to $1,440 on the Lee-Jackson School Building, out of the Falls Church district special fund.

Mayor L. P. Daniel of Falls Church has decided to dismiss the summons issued against J. E. Willett, of West Falls Church, charging a violation of the town's ordinance which forbids the sale of fireworks in the town and within the town limits without first procuring a license from the town clerk upon payment of a fee of $10. Mr. Willett's store is outside the corporate limits. The mayor stated as the time for the sale of fireworks is past a warrant for Mr. Willett would not be issued.

Attorney General John R. Saunders has been asked for a ruling as to the legality of the ordinance and the power of the town council to control the sale of any commodity outside of the town limits. Mayor Daniel has stated that he will be governed next year by the decision of the attorney general, but he contends, however, that the sale of fireworks is a question of the town's police powers expressly granted for a 1-mile zone in all criminal matters.

The M. R. Boyce Co., of New York, has been awarded the contract for the installation of the water pipes and general contracting work in connection with the new municipal water system in the town of Falls Church. The contract price accepted by the town council at its regular meeting Monday night was $48,975. The contract for the erection of a six-posted water tank and tower on the lot in the rear of the Town Hall, on Washington street near Broad street, was awarded to the Chicago Bridge & Iron Co., of Chicago, for $6,960.

Thomas N. De Lashmutt, of Arlington County, was given the contract for furnishing and installing the 95 fire hydrants at $54.24 each; the necessary 8-inch valves at $30.36 each; 6-inch valves at $19.32 each; 4-inch valves at $10.58 each, and the 1½-inch valves at $2.50 each.

Under these awards the total cost of the town's water system will amount to approximately $87,000, which includes the payment to Arlington County for the mains laid in East Falls Church at the present time. The total cost of the installation is much less than originally contemplated and the saving that will be effected will permit the council to make extensions in the town's water system that were not originally planned.

In the event the town at some future date connects with the Arlington County water system a certain amount can be reserved to provide the necessary suction lines and pumps. The savings will also allow a reserve fund to carry expenses of the new system until the time it becomes self-supporting, which is expected by the council to be within five years from the date of completion this fall.

The members of the Columbia Baptist Church, of Falls Church, will hold a quarterly business meeting this evening in the church house on Washington street. As the National Baptist Young Peoples Union conference opens in Washington this week, at which leaders of both Northern and Southern Baptist Churches will speak, the activities of the Falls Church Baptist Church have been postponed so as to allow the members to participate.

A special meeting of the Annandale Home Demonstration Club will be held this afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. D. Vosbury, on the Lee highway near Merrifield. Miss Sarah E. Thomas, Fairfax County home demonstration agent, will give a demonstration on the making of dress forms.

The Sunday school children of the class of Mrs. E. L. Brandon, of the Presbyterian Church of Falls Church, will be entertained this afternoon on the church lawn on Broad street.

The Nazarene Guild of Falls Church will meet this morning at the home of Mrs. W. S. Orr, in East Falls Church.

The quarterly business meeting of the members of the Baptist Church at Clifton will be held this evening in the church house.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Volunteer Fire Department of the Town of Fairfax will hold a quarterly meeting this afternoon in the courthouse at 2 o'clock.

The new officers of the Providence Council, Daughters of America, will be installed this evening by Mrs. Clinton A. Lane, district deputy State councilor, at a meeting in Robey Hall, Fairfax.

The Young People's Society of the Episcopal Church at Falls Church will give a lawn party this evening at the home of C. Worthington Lowe, in Falls Church. Harry T. Barnes and C. Worthington Lowe have been appointed general chairmen in charge of arrangements and Mrs. E. P. Harrison will assist the young people by taking charges of the bridge tables. Florence Harrison will have charge of the candy table, Audrey Edmonds and Barbara Heitt will have charge of the grab bag, C. W. Lowe the ice cream, Marion Wheeler punch, and Betty Keith Harrison and Ellen Anderson the fortune telling.

Herndon Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, will meet in the Masonic Hall in Herndon this evening. Plans will be made for the ice cream festival and dance which the chapter will give during the latter part of this month.

The Herndon Lodge of Red Men will meet this evening in Wilkins Hall, on Main street, in Herndon.

The Fairfax Council, Order of Fraternal Americans, will hold a special meeting this evening in Robey Hall in Fairfax, following which they will take a class of initiates to a meeting of the Vienna Council, on Railroad street, in Vienna.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Arnon Southern Methodist Church at Forestville will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Andrew Milstead, at Great Falls.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, of Forestville, will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lester Oliver.

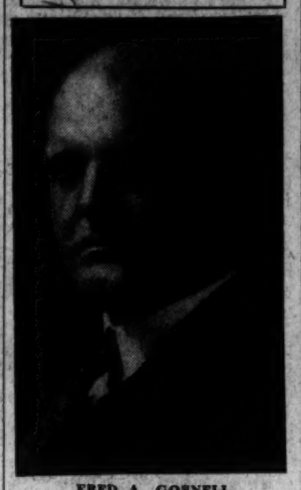
Sheriff Seizes Still In Shenandoah County

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., July 7.—Sheriff Luther Sheets, of Shenandoah County, today located a still in the thickets in West Shenandoah County, with 200 gallons of mash and an 800-foot rubber hose.

The hose was used to pipe water from a stream to the hidden still. When found the still was warm.

RUNS FOR BOARD



FRED A. GOSNELL,
Country Club Hills, Arlington County, in the race for one of five seats on the county board which, in January 1, 1932, will replace the present trio of supervisors.

GOSNELL CANDIDATE FOR ARLINGTON JOB

Official of Census Bureau Announces He Will Run for County Board.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Cla. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Fred A. Gosnell, former chairman of the Arlington County Zoning Commission and at present chief of the publications division of the United States Bureau of the Census, yesterday announced his candidacy for a seat on the county board of five which, after January 1, 1932, replaces the present three members of the board of supervisor.

Gosnell is the twenty-eighth person to announce for this office and sixth to announce his candidacy subject to the county Republican convention Friday night at the Lyon Park Community House.
